RESCUED BY STEAMER

Crew of Norwegian Bark in Peril on Waterlogged Craft.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The steamship New York, which arrived last night from Southampton and Cherbourg, brought 104 saloon, 120 second-cabin passengers and a large quantity of mail from the Hamburg steamer Deutschland, which was disabled by running into a pier at Dover.

There was one death on board the New York during the voyage, Henry Peine due Bois, an art critic on the staff of the New York American, who died Friday of heart failure. Mr. Dubois was 47 years old. His body was brought to port.

There was an exciting rescue of a crew of a sinking vessel by a boat's crew from the New York July 19, at 6:15 P. M., in latitude 41:20, longitude 53:30, when a vessel was sighted showing signals of distress. The New York altered her course and bore down on the wreck. The sinking craft proved to be the Norwegian bark Undal, Captain Gabrielsen, bound from St. John, N. B., for Newport. The vessel was in a waterlogged condition and liable to sink at any moment, and the entire crew of 11 men were taken off. The wreck was set on fire.
