TO THE PUBLIC!

The postmaster general has directed the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company to place in effect, beginning November 15th, the new rates filed with the Public Service Commission.

The necessity for increased rates is to provide revenue to meet further increases in wages to the operating forces in order to recover and maintain these forces and bring the service back to its former standards.

The new rates were not introduced on the initiative of the Telephone Company.

The postmaster general was advised of the urgent necessity for increases in wages to the operating employes, and the Telephone Company recommended increases, which were approved by the postmaster general; but as the earnings of the system would not permit of further increases in wages without operating the property at a deficit, which would fall on the postoffice department, as the system is now being operated by it, the approval of wage increases by the postmaster general was conditioned on obtaining revenues to meet the increases, and the Telephone Company was asked for its recommendation in this matter. As additional revenue could be obtained only through increased rates, the Telephone Company submitted a new schedule to the Postmaster general, which was considered and approved by him.

None of the increased revenue will go to the company. It has no financial interest in the operations of the system, as it is otherwise compensated for the use of its property by an agreement with the postmaster general. All of the revenue goes to the government and all of the expenses must be met by it. The Company's only interest, so long as the government operates through its agency, is to give the best service possible and to keep the system self-sustaining.
