Japanese Soon May Learn Of Big Indianapolis Money

Tokyo—(U.P.)—American domination of the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race is doomed!

It's just a matter of time until the Japanese learn of the big prize money awarded the winning drivers at the Indianapolis classic.

When that day comes, the Japanese will stop the first 35 taxis zipping down the Ginza, ship the drivers and their cars to Indianapolis and cop the first 35 places and set new track records.

There'll be no more bragging in New York, Mexico City or Paris about their madcap hack drivers; Tokyo has become the wrinkled-fender capital of the world.

The throttle thumpers in the western world are school bus drivers compared with the maniacs who clutch the steering wheels of the taxis in Tokyo.

With the automobile industry at peak production in Japan, the Japanese have now filled Tokyo's streets with taxis. The bicycle pedalers of early post-war years have been armed with most devastating weapon ever placed in their hands—taxicabs.

Major accidents occur here about once every 30 minutes, day and night. It's not considered sporting to count the millions of near misses, thousands of crumpled fenders and hundreds of smashed headlights that occur daily.

Boy and fender workers are the new kings of industry in Tokyo, and they work with amazing speed and skill. The scars of battle are so beautifully camouflaged that the unsuspecting passenger enters the shiny little cars with a completely false sense of security.

Traffic fatalities in Tokyo average two a day, but no statistics are available on the permanent after-affects—shattered nerves, miscarriages, high blood pressure and stomach disorders suffered by passengers and pedestrians alike.

An attempt was made to encourage safe driving in Tokyo by awarding citations to those taxi drivers who fulfilled certain good driving requirements. So far only three per cent of the city's hundreds of drivers have qualified for the award.

The most important — and overworked—part of every taxi is the horn, next important are the brakes, and the most expendable items are the passengers.

Psychologists would be amazed at the transformation that occurs as soon as a Tokyo cabbie drops his flag.

When soliciting business, he is polite, considerate and courteous. The moment that flag goes down he becomes a fiend. He jackrabbits his tiny cab into the stream of traffic with horn blowing and a hit-me-if-you-dare smirk on his face. His right foot knows but two positions—flat on the gas pedal or thomping on the brakes. U-turns are made anywhere.

No opening is too small for a fender, and no challenge is overlooked. Wrecks are considered occupational hazards and are usually accepted with traditional Oriental stoicism and a shrug of the shoulders.

Pups Cause Parrot To Become Gentle

Miami, Okla. —(U.P.)— Polly, a 30-year-old parrot owned by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Watts, usually has a sarcastic remark for anyone and everyone, but she turned unexpectedly gentle when pups were born in the Watts household.

The old parrot developed a liking for the six puppies of a pointer on the Watts farm 14 miles northeast of here. She became a regular pup-sitter.

Her most chiding remark reserved for the adopted brood was a "Whatsa matter, pup?" when one of the clumsy little dogs stepped on her tail feathers.

She acted like an angry mother hen one day when a truck driver poked his head in the barn door. She flew in his face, flailing and squawking.

"What kind of wild animal does Watts keep in his barn?" the man asked.

Forest Grove Gay 90's Celebration Opens

Forest Grove— (U.P.) —Forest Grove's annual Gay Nineties celebration opened today with three days of life at the turn of the century and barbershop harmony competition highlighting the festivities.

A total of 40 male and female barbershop quartets will vie for honors in the ballad singing competition. Free buggy rides, street stunts, a dance, an old-fashioned pancake and sausage breakfast, band concerts, quartet singing and a Saturday afternoon parade of some 70 entries are on tap for Forest Grove citizens and visitors.

Revolutionary War Vet's Grave Studied

St. Paul, Ore.—(U.P.)—Reports that a veteran of the Revolutionary war may be buried here were under investigation today by the Oregon Sons of the American Revolution.

The group said it understands that the man, named Cannon or Canning, was buried in 1854 and came to Oregon with the John Jacob Astor expedition. It understands he worked at Astoria's trading post and later was a blacksmith and justice of the peace.

The Sons of the Revolution proposes to erect a suitable monument when more data is gathered.

Martin Van Buren, the eighth president of the United States, was nicknamed at various times as "Red Fox of Kinderhook," "the American Talleyrand," and "Little Magician."
