LETTER FROM W. T. RUBELL.

Following is a copy of a letter written by W. T. Rubell, a former Eugene boy, at present in the English army in Afghanistan, to his brother C. F. Rubell, of Monterey, county, Cal., and published in the Dal a- Premizer:

PEIWAR KOTEL, May 13, 1879.

Dear Brother Claude: I have not received your letter yet, but I expect it every mail. There is very little to write about. Everything seems at a stand still. We have been expecting peace to be read out every day for a month, but it has not been done, and may not be for some time. The weather is more variable here than any place I have ever been. As a rule the mornings are as fine and warm as could wish, but almost invariably a storm, either of hail or rain, comes on by 11 or 12 A. M. and the afternoon is generally cold and miserable, and is made doubly so by our having no means of whiling the time away. I shall be glad of the day when we are on e more in station, although we are very lucky to be where we are just now, as both small pox and cholera are in Rawul Pindi now and are likely to remain all summer.

I am now in possession of a good conduct badge, with a large increase of pay (two cents) to my already enormous salary (twenty-four cents per diem), out of which we have to pay for tea, coffee, sugar, rice, salt, potatoes etc. We also pay for our cook ng, and employ native cooks, who rob us under our very eyes, and we dare not do anything to prevent it; besides we are forced to keep and pay them. We have to pay for our washing, as well, whether we get anything washed or not. Last winter, when we had to wash our own clothes, or put up with the consequences, as the "dobee" came about once a month, we had to pay just the same.

Our breakfast consists of a pint of weak tea, which we pay for, a quarter pound of bread and about two ounces of meat, such as it is. We have to throw half of it away, it being a composition of gristle, mashed bones and glue. For dinner we have a pint of soup (you could see a dime in the bottom of a gallon of it), the same quantity of the same kind of meat as for breakfast, a spoonful of rice, three or four little watery potatoes and half pound of bread. For supper we have four ounces of bread and a pint of weak tea. There is no coffee to be had at present. Of course when we can we spend most of our pay for something to eat, but there is very little to be got there. When in station there is plenty of beer to be had, and the average Englishman would sooner go on half rations than do without his beer. It is growing late and I must close.

Your brother, W. T. RUBELL.

Death of Senator Palmer.

From our correspondent at Corvallis, under date of the 25th inst., we learn that Hon. J. S. Palmer, State Senator from Benton county, died at Corvallis on Sunday, at 2 o'clock P. M. He was in usual health on Saturday; during that night he was taken sick, and became unconscious about 9 A. M., on Sunday. He passed off very easily, sleeping from about 9 o'clock until he died. The immediate cause of his death was heart disease. Mr. Palmer came to Corvallis in 1858, and has resided in Benton county ever since. In 1866 he was elected Sheriff and held the office continuously until 1876, he was elected Joint Senator from Benton and Polk counties, and consequently held the position to his death. He has been married twice, and leaves a wife and four children, who mourn the loss of a kind husband and an indulgent father. Mr. Palmer was a man of generous impulses, and while he was human, having his faults, they wronged no one, and when a friend, he was always true and firm. He was public spirited and always took a leading part to advance the interests of his county, and his loss will be felt by the people among whom he has so long resided. Judson S. Palmer is no more, and many warm friends will kindly remember him and deeply sympathize with the bereaved widow and orphaned children in their sad affliction.—Standard.

FREAK OF JEALOUSY.—About two weeks ago we published a dispatch from Hood river respecting the murderous and suicidal conduct of a man named Cline, and last night received additional particulars. A man named Cline living back of White Salmon, W. T., while laboring under a fit of jealous insanity on the 7th instant, attempted to kill his wife with a hatchet, after which he shot himself with a pistol and soon died. The wife, under the medical care of Dr. P. G. Barrett, of Hood river, we learn is rapidly improving and will most likely recover.—Standard.

L. L. Williams, formerly clerk of Douglas county, writes from Virginia City, Montana, emphatically denying that he has eloped with Mrs. Daniels from the Upper Columbia country. Daniels, however, believes it, and is suing for a divorce.

So far as Benton county is concerned, we are led to believe that the rust has done more damage to crops than was at first supposed. It is now thought that, notwithstanding the yield will fall from 10 to 20 per cent. below an average.

A few days since says the Pendleton Independent, while on a drunken spree, a son of Umapine shot at an Indian's dog which came running out of the wigwam as he rode by, the ball passed through the wigwam and struck an Indian named Peno le shinle-cutz, and made a severe wound in his thigh.

Fourteen car loads of railroad iron arrived at St. Joseph last evening, says the Yamhill Reporter, and Mr. DeClark sent word up by Mr. Henderson's hackman at an early hour that track-laying would commence this morning at eight o'clock. At that rate we may look for the cars in three or four days at the farthest.

One of Life's Shadows.

At eight o'clock the other morning a wife followed her husband down to the gate as he was starting for down town, and kindly said to him:

"William, you know how sadly I need a blue bunting dress."

"Yes dear," he remarked, "but you know how hard up I am. As soon as I can see my way clear you shall have the dress, and a new hat to boot. Be patient, be good, and your reward shall be great."

Forty minutes after that he emerged from a restaurant with a big basket and a fish-pole, bound up the river. In the basket was a chicken, pickles, cake, fruit, pie and a bottle of liquor of a rich color, and he was just lighting a twenty-cent cigar when his wife came along.

"What! you here?" he exclaimed.

"Yes, I was going to the market. Where are you going?—what's in that basket?"

"I was going to carry this fish-pole around to a friend," he modestly answered.

"And that basket?"

"This basket—well, I was a going to take it to the Orphan Asylum as a present to the children. It is a donation from six leading physicians."

"William, I don't believe it."

"Sh! Don't talk so loud!"

"William, I shall talk louder yet!" she exclaimed. "I'll bet you are going fishing!"

"Mary, have I ever deceived you?" he plaintively asked. "I never have. As proof of my sincerity, you can take this basket to the asylum yourself!"

"And I'll do it!" she promptly replied, as she relieved him of it.

"Mary, hadn't you—?"

"No, sir, I hadn't. You'd better hurry up with that fish-pole, as the man may want it, and be careful how you stand around in the hot sun!"

She left him there. He watched her take the car for home, and then he returned the fish pole and crossed the street and said to an acquaintance:

"Tom, I'm suffering with neuralgia, and the excursion is off till next week. Too bad, but we can never tell what a day may bring forth."

There was chicken and pickles and other good things on the table at dinner, but he never smiled. Even when his wife wished she was an orphan, if that was the way they were fed, he never betrayed the gloom in his heart. It was only when she handed him the bottle he had so carefully tucked into the basket and he saw it labelled, "Good for Little Children," that he said:

"Mary, it is an awful thing for a wife to get the impression that her husband is a cold blooded liar."

"It must be," she replied, as she took the other chicken-leg.

A Tramp's Maxims.

In the hip pocket of an old vagrant, pulled in by the police lately, was a memorandum book full of his own writtings with a pencil, and some of his philosophy is good enough to be perserved. His first paragraph reads:

"Drinking bad whisky because it offered free, is like getting in the way of bullets purchased by an enemy."

A second reads:

"Honesty is the best policy, but some persons are atisfied with second best. It is hard to be honest on an empty stomach."

A third runs:

"A dry plank under a rain-proof shed is better than a feather bed in jail, and one isn't annoyed by the jailer bringin' a square breakfast."

A fourth says:

"Pay as you go. If you haven't anything to pay with, don't go. If you are forced to go, record every single indebtness and let your heirs settle the bill.

A fifth explains:

"Politeness costs nothing, but it is not expected that you will wake a man up at midnight to ask his permission to go through his hen roost. It is more courteous to let him enjoy his needed repose."

The seventh and last is noted down as follows:

"Don't be ashamed of your occupation. We cannot all be lords, nor can we all be vagrants. As I cannot be a lord, I should not lament being a vagrant. Be truthful and out spoken. That is, tell them you are a Chicago fire sufferer. Keep reasonable hours or some other vag will get your plank first. Be hopeful, cheerful and good-natured. Growling won't cure a sore heel."

HEARD FROM.—Mr. Halstead, of Turners, who disappeared so mysteriously a month or so ago, has been heard from. It seems that he went back on a visit to his old home. It is claimed now that he will soon be back to look after those parties who took the liberty to close up his place of business, he claiming that none of the claims against the house were due or would be till fall.
