The Western Booms.

At Woodland, Cal., a lady recently found a twenty-dollar piece in the street, invested it in a lot, and in two week realized $1,250. This is the story they tell, and it may be true. Things like that frequently happen in Omaha. Not long ago a boy threw a chunk of dirt at a man. The man held on to the chunk and is now worth half a million dollars. He was worth about that before the boy threw that chunk of real estate at him, but outside papers will not mention that part of the story. Omaha World.

Low-Priced Fortunes for Women.

A fortune teller can hit a woman's case nine times out of ten. "You've had sickness and trouble. You'll have some property fall to you. You do not have full confidence in your husband. Beware! He is deceiving you! You have a very gentle nature. Everybody loves you. You have had trouble with a relative. It was not your fault. Beware of a blue-eyed woman with a mole on her left cheek. She will make you trouble. Good bye—one dollar—call again.

A Young Lady's Incidental Remark.

It was a pleasant family party and all were seated around the fire in regular domestic style, talking about children and their pretty ways and how we all doted on them. Presently somebody qualified the notes of admiration by remarking:

"Well, I'm fond of children, but I don't like too many of them together."

"Oh!" cried a gushing young lady, casting up her radiant eyes, "one at a time is bad enough, but twins would be too awful to think of."

By silent and general consent the subject was not pursued.

Ready to Talk Business.

Charlie (to his sister's beau)—Say, Mr. Griggsby, pa bought a big dog this afternoon, and he's chained up behind the house, and he's going to be let loose at ten o'clock.

Griggsby—Indeed, Charlie?

Charlie—Yes; and he bought a shotgun and had copper toes put on his boots to-day, and he says if you don't leave by ten he's going to take the law into his own hands. Now I want to talk business. What'll it be worth to you to have me poison the dog, take the shot out of the gun, hide the boots and set the clock back an hour? I'm ready to open negotiations.

AN ARTFUL SHOPPER.

A woman entered a dry goods store and approached one of the clerks, "Please do these up," she said, handing him two old newspapers.

He looked surprised and she explained:

"I ain't out on a regular shopping tower and ain't agoin' to buy anything; but there's that Mrs. Simpson that has half of our pew at church just loaded down with bonnets. She'll never know the difference."

As the clerk was tying up the newspapers she said in a low voice.

"Make it look as much like a silk dress pattern as you can; it'll worry her more."

A Just Doubt.

Don Juan—I really fail to comprehend, Anna, why you should doubt the sincerity of my affection. I assure you no other young lady does so.

The winters are having a good season in the Behring sea.

Jennie—Why, Annie, your hair is all mussed, your collar is torn and you are red as a beet. Annie—Charlie called.

There is a woman in Connecticut who wears a number nine shoe. When she sets her shoe down her head and walks around it and says: "I'll see if I will."

A year has passed without a shock of earthquake at Charleston, S. C., and the city is celebrating the event.

The late term of court at Florence, A. T., sent thirteen criminals to prison for various terms from five months to twenty years.

"What was Nero's greatest act of cruelty?" asked the teacher of the class in history. "Playin' the fiddle" was the response; and the teacher let it go at that.

The postmaster of Seymour, Ind., has created quite a stir in his city by posting conspicuously in his office a notice that "all letters addressed to girls under 18 years of age, or to boys under 21 years of age, will be placed in the care of their parents or guardians."

It is said that if you go into the office of a justice of the peace in St. Louis and balance the office copy of the revised statutes on its back, it will always open at the page on which the fee bill is printed.

The Crow Indians have been trying to induce the Northern Cheyennes to take the warpath in Dakota. Eighteen companies of regulars have almost surrounded the Crows and Cheyennes, and will attempt to drive them back to the reservation without a fight.

WHAT TRUE MERIT WILL DO.

The unprecedented sale of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles. 21-1y which is a chronic disease of the Lungs, and usually accompanied by general debility, is taken before the last stage is reached. From its wonderful curative powers in this most fatal disease, when it is evident that no medicine is a remedy to the disease, the proprietor feels justified in calling it his "Consumption Cure," but changed his mind as to its fitness for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, nutritive, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, and nutritive properties, is unquestionably a remedy for consumption in its early stages.

CONSUMPTION,
