HOW TO HELP YOUR TOWN.

Order your dry goods from San Francisco.

Go to some other place to get your printing done.

Contribute what information you have to any but your home paper.

Buy of peddlers as often and as much as possible.

Obtain the services of some minister who lives in a bigger town and has a bigger salary, and let the home preacher live on saw dust and pine needles. It's fashionable you know.

Glory in the downfall of some man who has done much to build up the place.

Keep every cent you get and don't do anything of a public nature unless you can get something out of it directly.

If a stranger comes to town tell him everything is overdone and predict a general crash of the town in the near future.

Patronize outside newspapers to the exclusion of your own, and then denounce them for not being as large as the San Francisco papers.

If you are a merchant don't advertise in the home papers, but buy a rubber stamp and use that—it may save a few dimes, and make the paper look like it was published by amateurs in a one horse town.

If you are a farmer, curse the town where you trade as the meanest place on earth—talk this to your neighbors—make them believe the business men are all robbers and thieves—it will make your property more valuable.—Ex.
