If you buy farm equipment of unknown brands, you undertake a field-testing job at your own expense. You take the chance that the machines won't give the service you hope for.

Play it safe! Choose farm equipment that's both nationally known and field-proved.

Fairbanks-Morse products are backed by 115 years of successful engineering and manufacturing experience. Every unit is performance-proved. You know before you buy that it will serve you long and well . . . because it has proved its merit on thousands of other farms.

You know, too, that repair parts will always be available should you need them.
