"THE KING'S TOUCH."

In England, two centuries ago popular superstition credited the "Royal Touch" with curing scrofula. These superstitious practices have now become obsolete, and in their place we have a scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which eliminates the impurities from the blood by the natural channels, thereby cleansing the system from all taints and impurities from whatever cause arising. It is truly a royal remedy, world-famed, and the only liver, lung and blood remedy guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. As a regulator of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all Bilious attacks, Indigestion and Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa and kindred ailments. As an alterative, or blood purifier, it manifests its marvelous properties in the cure of the worst Skin and Scalp Diseases, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, and Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, as well as Lung scrofula, commonly known as Pulmonary Consumption, if taken in time and given a fair trial. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

A STATE WORLD'S FAIR CONFERENCE.

A preliminary conference was held Tuesday at Portland to start the movement for an Oregon exhibit at the World's Fair. A committee of the press association and of the state board of trade held several spirited sessions and considerable light was thrown on the subject. There is an unmistakable demand that Oregon take a decided and prominent stand among the Pacific coast states on the occasion referred to. There are many heads at work to get the matter in just the right shape, so that it will obtain the confidence of the people and command an enthusiastic support from the press from now until Oregon comes home from the great world contest laden with honors.

The people of the state will not be satisfied with any narrow-gauge scheme in this World's Fair movement. California and Washington have formed permanent state World's Fair associations, to educate the people and legislators to the needs of the state, to arouse local enthusiasm and foster state pride to that degree that people, law-makers and executive shall all be inspired for the greatest success.

The JOURNAL has believed that as the states on each side of Oregon have preceded in organizing, the state can safely follow in their footsteps in regard to method. We cannot afford to allow much experimenting when competing for honors with such wide-awake neighbors. A safe and conservative plan, that California has tried with great success, should commend itself to our people for imitation.

We have confidence that out of the agitation and discussion will come a finally acceptable result that will receive the cordial support of every interest in Oregon. The nearer the whole enterprise can be brought to the masses of the people the greater will be its educating influence and the more satisfactory will be the result to state pride and future prosperity.

NORTH HOWELL PRAIRIE.

Mrs. J. A. Norwood has returned from N. C, on an extended visit and thinks there is no place like Oregon.

The Sunday school is prospering under the leadership of Mr. Jas. Austin as superintendent.

An open meeting of the Howell Grange will be held on Thanksgiving day and a general good time is expected.

What has befallen our scheme for a mail route between Howell and Gervais.

Mr. Chas. Vinton has moved from this place to reside at Brooks. The good wishes of the neighborhood go with him.

American Universities.

We have enough of them. They are as plentiful as candidates. Whenever a man has heaped up a great mass of wealth straightway he founds a university, as it is called, and names it after himself. One man rarely has, or is willing to give, money enough to fit up even a small one-horse college as it ought to be, consequently we have a hundred or more American "universities" that have a course of study ashade above what a common high school ought to be and no more.

In the strict sense of the word a university is a school where a college graduate may go and study a profession, thus fitting himself for life work; or if not that, where he may pursue some branch of science or art. The university proper begins where the college leaves off. In this higher sense we have not a real university in America. We ought to have at least four—one east, one west, one south and one at Washington. At present Johns Hopkins, in Baltimore, although run on a plan too narrow and conservative to meet the needs of a free country in the last quarter of the nineteenth century, comes nearest to the real university of anything in America. Yet the Johns Hopkins school is cramped for means and cannot do the good it might on that account.

Here is a chance for Mr. Moneybags to confer a lasting benefit on the young people of his country by endowing the school mentioned, or some other well-established high institution of learning, and enabling it to gradually work up to the ideal university. But, no! Each petty moneyed man must found a school of his own, thus adding to the already too great number of ill equipped little colleges that are never more than half full of students.

Another fact works against the building up of a magnificent University in America. That is the sectarian feeling. In no other country but America does the question of theological denominations enter into the plan of an education. The German Universities are not sectarian, neither are the English, to the extent of making a matter of education one's creed. But in the United States each church denomination must try to found its own colleges. The Baptist would not have his children go to a Methodist school, and vice versa. If irrespective of the church to which they belonged, which is their own private affair, our wealthy citizens would unite in the effort to build one great school, endowed with all that wealth and learning could bestow, one that could take rank with the best in Europe, then our children would no longer need to go to Europe for their higher education.

Better yet, if they would add

Telegrams Cost Money.

The East Oregonian is paying a cent a word for its telegraphic news report. The daily East Oregonian is published in a town of about 4000 inhabitants. Can you find another town of its size with so good a daily newspaper? Every Pendletonian should take the daily at 25 cents a week, delivered by carrier. It is working for you by working for the town. Show your appreciation of its efforts by becoming a subscriber. Its politics may not be yours but no newspaper can suit all its readers in this respect. You can rest assured that it means to be honest and fair, but feels that it is its duty sometimes to be aggressive and step on corns. It is the people's newspaper, because it recognizes that is the rule of the people must justice is done; and it never denies to any one space in its columns to give utterance to their thoughts and demand their rights. The least among the people have equal privileges with the greatest to express their feelings in its columns. The East Oregonian gives employment to more labor than any other enterprise in Pendleton. It is truly a home institution and democratic in every sense of the word. It never shuns a duty because it is unpleasant and unprofitable. It first ascertains if it is right—then goes ahead. Its success is due to these principles. Take the paper! Don't you think you should?—E. O.

Women in the Methodist Church.

Times Mountaineer: The Methodist church, with its 2,000,000 communicants, will vote during the week for lady representatives to the general conference. At the last convention of this body held in New York city, women were not admitted as members, and an effort is being made to elect some this year. Rev. H. Brown, pastor of the church in this city, delivered two able lectures yesterday, advocating the rights of women in the general conference, and his sentiments were endorsed by many of his audience. But from the stand point of the New Testament, with the customs then prevailing in Asiatic countries, women had few privileges which men were bound to respect, and were simply a higher class of serfs—bound to obedience to their husbands, and to keep still and silent in all public assemblies. Christianity did not endorse polygamy or the harem, but it was not sufficiently advanced to place mothers, wives, and sisters in their proper position in society. The world moves and women should not be considered in the same light as when human freedom was a farce, and government the despotism of tyrants. In all the professions except the ministry, there is now no distinction regarding sex, and, it is strange at least, that the religion of him who claimed Mary and Martha as his warmest friends, should still continue, contrary to the spirit of the age, to place a seal upon woman's tongue in matters in which her fine temperament and high moral faculties have particularly adapted her to take the greatest interest.

The Home Truth of a Foreign Proverb.

The Spanish have a proverb—lemasladi espaignos—"one mouth is dangerous." "In brevity is the soul of wit," this means a great deal. Excesses and other inordinate devices in eating and drinking are productive of one tremendous evil—the progenitor of many others, and these are among the follies to which this pithy saying has direct application. The evil to which we allude is indigestion. In the relief and cure of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has contributed more than any medicine which science has given to the American people. This invigorating stomachic and corrective is the means not only of reforming a disordered or enfeebled condition of the digestive organs, but of renewing healthy action of the bowels and the liver. Besides this, it counteracts a tendency to rheumatism and kidney complaint.
