Many times you have passed some one on the street

carrying home a bag of ground coffee. The wonderful aroma it gave off made you hungry for a cup of it too. That was the flavor, the real life of the coffee, passing into the atmosphere. Think of it—paying a good price to get a quality coffee and then losing much of what you pay for—flavor—simply because it is not packed right.

Hills Bros. "Red Can" is vacuum packed which insures you of coffee that is as fresh and flavory as when it left the roaster.

Movie Closeups

Robert Walker has the rather difficult part of an eastern tenderfoot who goes west and makes himself liked and respected in "The Texan" a Tom Mix western produced by Fox, which will be shown at the Antlers theatre tonight. He is seen in the part of Winthrop Endicott, and he has quite a job on his hands, so to speak, to live down to his name and his eastern nativity.

Walker had an extended stage career, considering his youth and was for a time in musical comedies. He played in pictures produced by Edison, Metro, Select, Goldwyn and for Universal before joining the Fox organization for "The Texan." This is a stirring romance from the pen of James B. Hendryx, noted as a writer of live-wire western tales of the open and the picture was filmed by Lynn F. Reynolds, a most capable director. Mix's leading woman is the charming and clever Gloria Hope—she of the glorious auburn hair.

"Variety is the Spice of Life."

Realart certainly believes in this as regards their young comedienne, Wanda Hawley. For every one of the player's stories have been radically different from the others—and now they are shifting leading men to give a further variety. Wanda Hawley is not going to get stale with her public, there isn't a chance.

Jerome Patrick is the latest actor to make his appearance opposite the star, succedding such favorites as Harrison Ford, and Ramsey Wallace.

Tall, athletic, and with fascinating wavy brown hair, Mr. Patrick forms a perfect foil to the delicate blonde beauty of Miss Hawley in "Her First Elopement," which comes to the Majestic theatre tonight.

HONEST BASEBALL

Commissioner Landis, writing a letter to Hugh Lacey, who introduced a measure to penalize crookedness in baseball in the Massachusetts legislature, expressed the opinion that there should be laws in every state that also would reach and punish every man who makes a bet on a ball game, in grand stand and bleachers. The best assurance of honest baseball, says Landis, is not to permit a bet to be made on a play or on the result of a game.

LONGEVITY ON THE DECREASE

University Professor Thinks It Is, and Gives Some Cogent Reasons Why It Should Be.

Prof. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins, after an exhaustive study of life probability extending through a historic period of two thousand years, arrives at the conclusion that while man's possibilities of life at birth and in earlier stages has been steadily improving, his expectation of life at advanced age has been steadily decreasing. Comparisons ranging from the Romano-Egyptian to the present day offer statistical proof. The theoretical explanation is that in early times, with less provision for the protection of babies and infants, only the more rugged pulled through. Nowadays with increasing care for childhood, the weak are carried into adolescence and adulthood. Where formerly only the fittest or toughest managed to reach the shady slope of life, and were consequently more likely to hang on to ripe old ages, the salvaging of the weaker brings them into the fifties and sixties with less hope of prolonged life. It sounds plausible and may explain the apparent decrease of longevity. Incidentally, his statistics brought out the fact that while women formerly had less expectation of life at all ages, this has been reversed—another blow to the tradition of "the weaker sex." Women now appear to have the greater probability of prolonged life.

KNOWS MACHINES HE BUILDS

Head of Great Locomotive Works Has More Than Business Acumen to His Credit.

On a hot day last summer an express train between Philadelphia and New York came to a jolting halt, says Nation's Business. The passengers first joked, then grumbled, then grew impatient. A big man, white-haired, but youthful in motion, climbed down from a chaircar and marched up to the engine, which was the center of a ring of passengers.

"What's wrong?" he asked.

In effect, the engineer said that the engine had quit and he didn't know what the several things was the matter with it.

The big man peeled off his coat and waistcoat and rolled up his shirt sleeves. Then he sort of disappeared in the interior of the unwilling engine and the ring of watching passengers grew.

Half an hour later he emerged with a smudged face and grimy hands, and said, "She's all right now," put coat and waistcoat over his arm and walked back to his chair car, wiping his hands on a handful of waste he'd picked up in the cab.

She was all right, and the man who made her all right was Samuel Matthews Vauclain, millionaire president of the Baldwin Locomotive works, and a real boss of their 20,000 workmen.

Airplane an Essential Now.

In 50 minutes after the Birmingham office of a Shelby county mine operator had gotten in touch with the mine rescue station at West End, experts at the station had engaged an airplane and with special life-saving apparatus had been landed at the mine, 30 miles distant.

This marks a new field of usefulness for the airplane. Physicians, life-saving experts and mine-rescue apparatus may be carried through the air to the scene of a mine disaster and many lives may be saved by this quick service.

When the airplane has evolved into a medium for the saving of human life, it may indeed be said to have entered the class of the essentially practical.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Work of Y. W. C. A. Abroad.

Secretaries of the newly organized Y. W. C. A. in Krawok, Poland, were surprised recently to have a membership card of the Cleveland (O.) Young Women's Christian association presented to them by a young girl who was on her way to America. The girl proved to have a sister living in Cleveland who had taken out membership in the International Institute of that city, and then sent the card to the traveler as a guarantee of assistance along the way. Girls as young as twelve and sixteen are passing through the Y. W. C. A. office in Poland on the way to America.

Good Work Is Costly.

The remarkable difference in prices of tennis rackets is not so much due to the difference in the cost of the raw materials of which they are made as to the kind and amount of labor on their making, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. Best tennis rackets are works of art, and the skill of the worker is reflected in the price as much as in any other article belonging to sport and athletics.
