Messrs. W. H. Fisher, Frank G. Micelli and A. A. Bellows returned this morning from Portland, where they attended the annual convention of the Oregon Development League and also visited the Lewis and Clark fair grounds. The League is doing active work for attracting settlers and investors to Oregon and have succeeded in securing one fare rates for the round trip for those who will come. At the fair grounds there is great activity and the exposition will prove to be a far larger institution than was at first anticipated. Space has been reserved for a Douglas county exhibit but it must be occupied without delay or it will be assigned to some other county, as there is a heavy demand for exhibit space. The fair is being extensively advertised, with the aid of the transportation companies, not only throughout the United States but in foreign countries also, and thousands upon thousands of visitors are expected during the Fair season. Portland people are making great preparations for the accommodation of these visitors and arrangements are now completed for taking care of 80,000 at one time. It now behooves Douglas county people to act quickly in preparing and placing their exhibit so as to attract settlers and investors to this county.

Early this afternoon fire destroyed the upper portion of S. I. Thornton's house, situated on the hill abutting the east end of Douglas street. That the building was not entirely consumed by the flames is due to the prompt work of the local fire department members, who reached the scene after a long run, within five minutes after the alarm was sounded. The house was occupied by Mrs. Frank Brothers, who with the assistance of neighbors, saved nearly all of her household furnishings. The origin of the fire was not learned as Mrs. Brothers, who, with her little child, were the only persons in the house at the time the fire started, became so hysterical that it was impossible to get a statement from her. The house was insured for $400, which will probably cover the loss.
