JANUARY 21, 1909.

A daily automobile service to Coos Bay would be a good boost for Roseburg. Even with an eight or nine-hour schedule it would get all the business.

Help to get all the new industries you can for Douglas county this year, but don't forget the street paving. This will help everybody and increase business and property values. We are soon to have good roads, and we must have paved streets, too.

Well, the politicians of the old machine, led by the Oregonian, did not succeed in making perjurers of any of the Statement No. 1 legislators, after months of effort trying to do so. A few of those members, however, showed their real sentiments and weakness of moral fibre when they can their ballots only after expressing personal protests.

STATE GUARD CRITICISED BY GEN. BRUSH, U. S. A.

Oregon National Guard Maneuvers at American Lake Last Year Are Analyzed.

Brigadier-General Daniel H. Brush, commanding the Department of the Columbia, has issued his report on the joint maneuvers of 1908 regular army and National Guard troops at American Lake last summer. The report is made to the adjutant-general at Washington, D. C., and embodies a detailed statement of the big military field operations. The report is not the usual lengthy lay of praise, being written in rather a critical vein, credit being given only where due.

The two Oregon infantry regiments are dealt with in a most favorable way in this report, although minor criticisms are made. With reference to the participation of the Oregon troops the report has this to say:

Third Regiment—The Third Regiment of Infantry, Oregon National Guard, to which was attached Captain Clifford Game, First Infantry, as assistant and adviser, arrived in camp by rail on the day set, in three detachments. Men detained promptly by and baggage promptly unloaded by company details. These details were not kept well in hand and there seemed lack of co-ordination among them. They made camp promptly, but rather slowly ..... Military courtesies not particularly well observed by enlisted men. Equipment was extremely good enough shoes. Few men were properly shod. The results of the ... troops were particularly seen in the two days' maneuvers they participated in, many lame men being observed, although they generally stuck to their work. Physical appearance of the men as a whole was very good, set-up fair ..... They kept a very neat camp and complied with all sanitary regulations as soon as they learned what was required ..... At maneuvers they were willing, energetic and intelligent. They broke camp promptly and without confusion, and entrained with dispatch, although the cars were not divided or otherwise marked with company letters as required. There was no delay or confusion in loading company baggage by company details, such as was observed on arrival. They left a fairly neat camp ground, with nothing to criticise. On the whole, the regiment created a most favorable impression by its action, spirit and equipment.

Fourth Regiment—The Fourth Regiment of Infantry, Oregon National Guard, to which was assigned as assistant and adviser First Lieutenant Charles M. Gordon, Jr., Sixth Infantry, arrived in camp by rail on the day set, in three detachments. The command detrained promptly, but baggage was poorly handled by company details, which were inclined to wander and not attend to their work ..... Made camp promptly, but rather slowly ..... Military courtesies were not well observed by enlisted men, neither on guard nor out of ranks. Equipment was very good enough shoes. Few men were properly shod. Physical appearance of men as a whole was very good, set-up fair ..... They kept a fairly neat camp and complied with all sanitary regulations as soon as the men learned what was required. At maneuvers they were willing, energetic and intelligent, but inclined to lose their alinement under formations too long before beginning for action. They broke camp promptly, but there was some confusion owing to cars not being properly marked with company letters, as required, and misunderstanding of verbal instructions thus made necessary. There was no delay or confusion in loading baggage by company details, such as was observed on arrival. They left a fairly neat camp ground, and enthusiastic cheering were at once addressed to before departure. On the whole, the regiment created a most favorable impression, especially as it is understood that it has only recently been organized.

The Medical Corps is complimented in these words: "The younger medical officers of the National Guard, especially Oregon, Washington and North Dakota, showed a soldierly of the highest commendation. This also applies to the Medical Corps of ... of Oregon and ... [illegible] ... as the case may be."

BOOSTING HOP PRICES —MAY REACH 20 CENTS.

Portland Journal, Wednesday: The most startling news in the local hop situation given out in recent months was today sent to the Journal by Harry Pitman of Pitman & Sons, of Tacoma. Here is the way Mr. Pitman views the future of the hop market:

"Information which we have been getting of late shows that short sellers will need from 4000 to 14,000 bales of hops this month. The way growers are handling their product at present," he says, "leads me to believe that between this time and the first of the month hops will go to 6 and 10c a pound, with the market much firmer. After that the market may come down for awhile. Our firm has covered entirely its short sales.

"Farmers will be foolish to withhold their standing crop at 10 and 12c a pound—these prices being freely offered now—for I certainly believe that the market will go to 20c a pound during the coming season. The fact that such eminent financiers in the hop market as Kisher, Wolf & Secker, Carlis & Lion, Kohn Sons and Henry Hart—men who have been admittedly right on the market—are still buying 1909 hops, leads me to believe that there will be material advances during the rest of the season for 1909 goods. These interests are likewise taking all the contracts they can get on the 1909 crop.

"Any farmer who plows up his hop yard just as the tide is turning in his favor is throwing just that much money away."

BREWERS WOULD AMEND LOCAL OPTION LAW.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 20.—Within the next few days, it is asserted, agents of the brewing interests of the state will come to the capital to work for the passage of a bill soon to be introduced to amend the local option laws. In an endeavor to stem the growing tide of prohibition sentiment, according to authentic reports, the brewers intend to cut loose from the liquor forces in future and battle their own cause. The main feature of the proposed measure, it is understood, will be a clause segregating beer and general liquor licenses and permitting dealers and producers to sue on them separately. By this system, it is believed, many places from which the sale of both spirits and beer is excluded will vote in favor of allowing beer to be sold, which would in no circumstances permit the retailing of stronger intoxicants.

It is expected that the distillers will organize to oppose the proposed amendment. It will also meet with strong resistance from prohibition quarters, and in anticipation of its introduction a number of members of various anti-liquor organizations are already on the ground.

UTAH SENDS MOSSMAN BACK TO U. S. SENATE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 19.—Senator Reed Smoot, of Provo, one of the 12 apostles of the Mormon church, whose election to the United States senate was contested six years ago, was re-elected today for a second term. He received 43 out of 63 votes in the house and all 18 votes in the senate. Two democrats in the house voted for former Congressman King. Smoot's re-election will not be contested.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of patent medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken into confidence his patrons and patients and his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them the medicines of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that the formulas for such medicines as he makes and offers to sick people, are such that he can not afford to conceal them in the usual manner.

We may now see the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into it, and, moreover, that every ingredient is of the highest medicinal value, and that they are made from native medicinal roots of great value, also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, overworked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed," the knowledge of the use of which was learned from the Indians. The plant is now cultivated and yields a fine quality of our most valuable native medicinal plants. The Indians gathered it from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, suppressions, prevention and suppression, promoting painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

NATIONAL CHILD LABOR COMMITTEE IN SESSION.

Will Urge Congress to Pass Pending Bill For Children's Bureau —To Check Evils.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—To save the children of the nation from the jeopardy of the factories and the blights of the mines is the object of hundreds of earnest men and women who gathered in Orchestra Hall today for the opening session of the fifth annual child labor conference, under the auspices of the National Child Labor Committee.

Isaac N. Seligman, of New York, chairman of the National Committee, opened the conference, and a response was made by Governor Deneen. A discussion of the proposed children's bureau, to be established in connection with some department of the federal government, will be held tonight.

Practically all the states of the Union, except a few in the South, now have some sort of laws regulating child labor, but delegates to today's convention assert that most of these laws are inadequate and ineffective in checking what has become a crying national evil. It is pointed out that these breeders realize the evils involved in the premature working of a child, and it is asserted that as much regard should be paid to the young of the human species.

The conference promises to be one of the most comprehensive on the subject of children ever held by the committee. "The Children of the Nation" will be the general topic of the discussions, which will be participated in by some of the most prominent social workers, physicians, educators, and labor leaders of the country.

One of the objects of the conference is to arouse public sentiment in favor of the adoption of a bill pending in congress to establish a national children's bureau. The bill was introduced in the senate three years ago, but did not come to a vote, although it received the indorsement of President Roosevelt and other high officials of the federal government.

The national child labor committee will urge the passage of the bill at the present session of congress. The proposed bureau is designed to devote itself specifically to the interest of the children of the nation. It is proposed that it investigate and report on all matters pertaining to the welfare of child life, particularly with reference to child labor, infant mortality, birth rate, juvenile delinquency, orphanage, delinquents and juvenile courts, dangerous occupations, accidents and diseases of children of the industrial class, and legislation affecting children in the several states and territories.

RULES OF REFORM LAW FOR LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

National Model License League Opens Convention in Louisville—Some Statistics.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 21.—To secure the adoption of model liquor laws, as a check to the wave of prohibition and local option that is now sweeping over the country is the object of the National Model License League, which commenced a three-day session in Louisville today.

The league is a national organization of 600 distillers, brewers, wholesalers, wholesalers, retailers and influential businessmen and is conducting a national campaign in behalf of a model license law.

The objects and purposes of the Model License League are to take the liquor question out of politics and to take the traffic out of the liquor business. If there is to be any radical reformation, it is declared, it must be along these lines.

The model license law was formulated by T. M. Gilmore, of Louisville, president of the National Model License League. For years Mr. Gilmore studied the liquor business by personal observation in this country and in Europe, and he selected the best features of the best laws of the best governed nations in the world.

The model license law provides that all liquor licenses in effect at the time of the passage of the law shall remain in effect until suspended or cancelled because of violation of the law.

The law provides also that upon conviction for a first offense the license holder must forfeit the right to do business for a period of thirty days, and upon a second conviction he must forfeit forever his right to hold a liquor license in the state in which the license has been forfeited.

Holders of licenses would be protected from undue competition by that clause of model license law which provides that after the passage of model license law no new licenses can be issued until the population is in the proportion of "one" for hundred to each license. This would not only give the license holder assurance of a reasonable amount of profit on his investment, but would protect society from the evils that it is claimed result from a multiplicity of drinking places.

The Model License League does not advocate excessive high license for the alleged reason that such license compels the dealer to handle inferior wares in order to make a profit. The license fee, it is asserted, should be sufficient to give a good revenue to the local and state governments without being oppressive.

According to the league's figures, the people of this country drank two billions of gallons of fermented and distilled alcoholic beverages in 1907. The amount consumed in 1908, notwithstanding the claims that the liquor industry suffered with almost every other line of business on account of the financial stress, was about as much as in the year previous.

This consumption is equivalent to twenty-three and one-half gallons of alcoholic beverages for every man, woman and child in the country, and league officials say it would be foolish in view of this enormous demand, to believe that this nation is prepared to give up the use of alcoholic beverages or that the day of prohibition will arrive tomorrow or next day, or in the next few decades.

President Strips Orchids.

Hundreds of orchids have been helped by the President of The Industrial and Orphans' Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates the vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up thin, pale, weak children or run-down people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at all druggists.
