PRESBYTERIANS FAVOR NEW MEN IN SEMINARY SHAKEUP

ST. PAUL, May 28.—Two opponents of the plan of reorganization of Princeton Theological seminary, adopted Monday, today were ignored in list of nominations for the new board of trustees of the seminary presented to the 141st general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America. Clarence E. McCartney of Pittsburgh was the only decided opponent of reorganization nominated.

Opponents of the plan of reorganization who were dropped were Samuel Craig, editor of the Presbyterian, ultra-conservative organ published at Philadelphia, and Dr. E. D. Warfield, president of Wilson college, Chambersburg, Pa., both members of the former board of directors.

NEW LIGHT ON OVERWEIGHT

Not Caused By One Food Alone—Many Factors Must Be Considered

It is always interesting and important when sound scientific opinion explodes a popular theory. Recently we asked one of the most prominent scientific authorities on diet to make public his opinion about the cause of overweight. "Too many people today blame sweets for everything," he said "but I can tell you positively that overweight is not due to sweets alone.

"The simple truth is that some people gorge one foodstuff, others another. Men and women who are overweight have become so by the heavy overeating of starches, or sugar, or fats and oils.

"I am certain that I am right in saying that the average increase in overweight cannot be laid to the increasing intake of sugar or any other single food."

Perhaps the most valuable conclusion to be drawn from this famous man's remarks is that a balanced diet is most conducive to good health. Many foods that rightfully belong in such a diet will be more readily eaten if sugar is used to make them more appetizing.

Sugar brings out all the best flavors of cereals, fruits, vegetables and many beverages. It freshens and invigorates the appetite. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Wee Carpy eyed the fish and cried, "Of all the funny things I've spied, this surely is the funniest. I guess you all agree. To think that four big flying fish can pull this raft just as they wish. Well, never will another thing give more surprise to me."

"It is real queer," another said. "But we keep moving right ahead. I guess the fish don't mind their task, 'cause if they did, they'd stop. Our raft is moving sure, but slow. I wonder where we're going to go. The water must be deep here. Gee! I'd hate to take a flop."

This made the Goofygoo reply, "Well, I'd advise that you not try to move around upon this raft too much. You'd best sit still. If you fell off 'twould be too bad. Of course I'd rescue you, my lad, but, shucks, of dipping in the sea I think I've had my fill."

And thus the raft moved right along, and not one little thing went wrong. The flying fish seemed quite content to sail along through space. The stream swerved 'round, and so did they, and not a thing got in their way. The Tinies wondered if they soon would reach some wondrous place.

Just when most everything was still, there came another sudden thrill. The flying fish began to sweep down toward the water top. The Goofygoo began to fuss. Said he, "They'll play a trick on us." And then he shouted to the fish, in angry voice, "Hey, stop."

But all four fish dove in the sea, as Scouty shouted, "Mercy me!" Of course the raft tipped up on end. It was an awful plight. Just then the fish released the rope that pulled the raft. This gave new hope to all the little Tinies. Then the fish swam out of sight.

(A large whale appears in the next story.)
