APPEARANCE COUNTS IN MARKETING.

"Eef you musta squeeza da fruit squeeza da cocoanut," a Hoboken fruit vendor admonishes his prospective customers. And Tony is right. No one wants to buy damaged fruit. The selling value of fresh fruit and vegetable shipments is judged largely on appearance when received, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture. Fruit should be well graded or assorted, packed in the most approved manner and shipped when weather and market conditions seem most favorable. Grading is one of the most important factors in preparation for the market. It is being studied by specialists of the bureau from every angle. Grades, which are optional, have been suggested for a number of commodities, and this work is being continued. The marketing of the apple crop suggests the value of grading. If apples were not graded the entire crop would have to be disposed of within four months. It is estimated that proper handling has extended the marketing period to seven or eight months. Investigation and experience have both shown that it only pays to ship the best produce. Stock which is not suitable for storage and shipment may be disposed of in the vicinity where grown and the lowest quality should be diverted to by-products factories.

The newspaper man believes that advertising is a powerful factor, but he does not often get a chance to claim that anyone can in that way sell a coat to the president's wife. But this is just what happened to one concern, according to the Dry Goods Economist. It appears that when Mrs. Harding purchased a fur coat to wear inauguration day from a certain firm, she said she had been interested in the advertising printed by that house, and she had been attracted thereby to look over that line and as a consequence gave these people an order. There is no person too high up to feel the fascination of truthful advertising of useful stuff. And if the most successful people feel the value of this service, those who are struggling to make both ends meet, feel even more the need of getting information in this way.

At the beginning of the war it created some disturbance in conservative circles, that women were doing so much of the clerical work in banks. Formerly almost all of this service was performed by male clerks. But women are not likely to stop with these subordinate positions. In Clarksville, Tenn., is a woman's bank that has attracted nation-wide attention. Though established but a few months ago, it now has deposits of over $60,000. You can't set any limits to the business fields that women are destined to occupy. Success in this line depends a great deal on estimates of character. A woman's keen intuition should make her a good judge of credits, after she has learned to weigh the merits of a business proposition. This ability will come to those who make a study of it.

Council Holds Short Meeting

A sure sign that spring is here is the annual interest of the city council in bad sidewalks. Ed Cockelreas appeared before the council and reported some very bad sidewalk on First avenue, North, in North Roseburg, and the sidewalk was ordered rebuilt at once, together with the walk on Rose street, between Washington and Douglas, on the east side of the street along the Marks and Haines property.

The public service commission came in for a good scoring following the reading of a letter from Corvallis denouncing the commission and the new telephone rates in no uncertain terms. Notice was given that the commission is to hear two crossing petitions in Roseburg next Friday, one for the Union Oil company's spur track at Second street and the other for the city's crossing at the old Alexander bridge. Councilman Seely offered a bet that the oil company gets its crossing and the city does not.

The mayor reported that he had investigated the purchase of drinking fountains and that all of the bronze fountains which would be satisfactory are too expensive. The present concrete stands will be repaired and new fixtures installed at once. A new fountain will be obtained and installed at the corner of Cass and Jackson streets.

It was reported that an inspection has been made of the restaurants of the city and that all have been found to be in fine condition.

The usual monthly reports were read and bills allowed, there being little routine business to be attended to.

Second Coming Interesting Topic

By C. H. Hilton.

The revival at the Christian church continues to grow in interest. A splendid crowd was present for Monday night to hear the evangelists. The singing is full of pep, and the duet last night sung by Mr. and Mrs. Curtis was enjoyed by all. Evangelist Stivers spoke on "The Second Coming of Christ." He said this subject has been abused. "Many hold it as a hobby, but the Apostles held it as a hope, and that is the way we should look upon it today. I belong to a church that is not a sticker for any one phase of truth, but stand for all truth that is represented by Jesus Christ.

"As to the time of His return, no one knows when He is coming back, for the book says, 'Of that day and hour, knoweth no man,' so it is foolish for man to figure out the time of His coming. The Bible is plain on certain things about His coming. The book tells us it will be a time of separation. We should be ready when He comes, then we have nothing to lose, but everything to gain. Again it will be an unexpected time, for as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be in the days of the second coming of Christ. Procrastination is not only the thief of time, but the thief of a man's soul that puts off the acceptance of Jesus Christ. 'Be ye ready for in a day ye think not, the Son of Man will come,' says Jesus. It is wise to follow his advice."

Tonight Evangelist Stivers will speak on "The Downward Steps of a Fast Young Man." Plan to hear this sermon for it will interest you.

Next Friday night will be great, for it will be a service held in honor of mothers.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend these services. A warm welcome and a glad hand await you.

Salem Woman Is Seeking Divorce

SALEM, April 5.—Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, Grace L. Otjen, wife of B. E. Otjen, farmer, who attempted to commit suicide on March 30 by shooting himself with a .22 caliber revolver, filed her complaint for divorce with the county clerk today.

According to the complaint the couple were married in Marion county in 1910, and it alleges that shortly after their marriage Otjen began to subject his wife to personal indignities which rendered her weak and nervous.

Mrs. Otjen claims that her husband also used abusive language to her and that he was continually, during the last part of their married life, making false accusations against her which involved George Shank, the hired man.

"Gets-It"
The Corn and Callus Peeler

This Corn Remover is Guaranteed.

Relief from corn suffering follows the application of "Gets-It" almost as quickly as pain follows the thrust of a pin or knife into the flesh. Not only hard corns or soft corns but every kind of corn or callus surrenders to "Gets-It" and peels right off. It takes just a few seconds to stop the pain with two or three drops. Go to your druggist today, get a bottle of "Gets-It." Costs but a trifle everywhere. Your money back if not satisfied. Mfd. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

MOTHER IS DEAD.

Mrs. George Burchard today received a telegram from her husband who is at Parkersburg, Iowa, to the effect that his mother died there yesterday noon after a long illness. He was called east several days ago by the illness of his mother and arrived before her death occurred. She was quite old but has always been in good health until recently.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Bids will be received until 7:30, April 11, 1921, for the erection of a church at the corner of S. Main and E. Lane streets, in Roseburg.

Blueprints and specifications are with R. E. Guthridge and J. C. Jones, addresses and phone numbers found in directory.

The building will be of re-inforced concrete and pre-cast stone, the contractor to furnish all material except windows in the main floor. No excavating.

The right to reject any or all bids reserved.

Roseburg, Oregon, April 1, 1921.

SUIT SHOP IS SOLD.

Ray's Suit Shop, located on Cass street, was sold today to Wm. H. Amos, who has been residing near Green for several months. Mr. Amos is an overseas veteran who has been residing in this locality since his return from service, and who has been quite active in church affairs in this city. Mr. Ward has leased 90 acres of the Boggs farm four miles south of Roseburg and will make his home there. Mr. Amos will retain practically the same personel as now employed.

TO PLANT 450,000 TREES.

Plans for the spring planting of burned over areas on national forests of Oregon and Washington have been completed, according to J. F. Kummel, in charge of reforestation for the local forest service bureau. About 450,000 trees from the Wind River nursery will be planted in areas on the Rainier, Santiam and Crater national forests, the first in Washington and the other two being in this state.

Wild West Days to Be Reenacted

In the good old days when the Umpqua valley was a howling wilderness and the buffalo tanked up on Deer creek aqua pura, joy and merriment reigned supreme. Those dear old days of almost prehistoric character will be re-enacted this week at the armory when the Umpqua Sportsmen's club stage their "Days of '49" show. The three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will be red letter days for Douglas county. Dancing, fun galore, and gobs of amusement will provide the program. The new Sunset orchestra, the bunch "that makes 'em like to dance," will furnish the music for the three nights. They will be right at home in the wild and woolly west atmosphere and some real music is promised.

Rain Drives Many to Sea of Matrimony

(By United Press).

CHICAGO, April 5.—"Night's the time for wooing," said a well known Scotch authority.

But L. C. Legner, in charge of the Cook County marriage license bureau has another version.

"When its rainy and the fog settles down over the old town, why then, people just naturally get lonely" said Legner, "and they dream of cozy flats, and fire places and home made biscuits—they want to love and hold hands."

"So, on rainy days, we issue many more marriage licenses than when the sun is shining brightly."

Dan Cupid is still as active as ever his year, but marriage licenses are falling off, according to Legner. The high rents, the employment situation of "something else" is the cause, and Legner doesn't quite know the cause.

Last year 42,503 couples were married in Cook county. The A. E. F was married in 1920. But now, most of the war romances have gone on the rocks or the participants are all married. But 1921 is going to be a sad year for weddings.

The marriage license window is an excellent barometer of the country's condition," said Legner. Cupid's aim is waning and that 'people aren't lovin' any more."

"One can be in love and not get married," he explained.

Dispatches here from other parts of the United States reflect a very similar condition. People are simply putting off their weddings until their jobs look safer.

ENJOYABLE SURPRISE PARTY.

On Friday evening, April 1, while the pastor of the First Methodist Church, with his wife, were at the church attending Young People's meeting, their daughter brought the word that their presence was desired at home immediately. They hurriedly made their apology to the leader of the evening services, and wonderingly made their way home. Supposing and expecting a wedding ceremony was to be performed they opened the front door, but alas, what a scene broke upon their vision. It seemed almost impossible to get in, the room being filled with shining, happy faces and surely it was an April first joke. They could not get the gist of the matter through their brain. What the object of the meeting could be, they did not know, but in a few moments there was heard the murmuring of many voices outside, and lo, here came the company from the church and such a happy company is not to be seen every day here in the city. Soon Mrs. C. C. Beard made the statement that she would be pleased to say a few words, and with a few well chosen introductory remarks, made a presentation of a fine suit of clothes for the pastor and an unmade suit for the pastor's wife, and surely it brought tears to the eyes of the happy recipients of these visible testimonials to the fact that they have a place in the hearts of the people. The value of the presents, accompanied by some cash, would reach something near fifty dollars. The pastor and his wife hereby tender their thanks to the jubilee. The evening was interspersed by singing and prayer and the following persons were present to enjoy the evening, socially and also spiritually:

Mr. and Mrs. Luckey, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. McLennon, Miss Mae Sebring, Mrs. Martha Redbarn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Levi White, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Vanwey, Mr. and Mrs. C. E.
