SLEEPING SICKNESS

"The U. S. Public Health Service has no statistics in regard to the prevalence of encephalitis lethargica, popularly known as sleeping sickness, that are sufficiently reliable and complete to warrant a statement as to the extent of the disease throughout the United States," says Surgeon H. S. Cumming. "The disease is 'reportable' by physicians in comparatively few States; and in the larger part of the country the only data available are based on newspaper reports. Moreover, the disease is therefore likely to be unduly magnified. Thus, in an investigation made by Dr. H. F. Smith, of the Public Health Service, of the 1918-19 epidemic, 22 per cent of the supposed cases had to be excluded as being really cerebro-spinal meningitis, cerebral syphilis, brain abcess, tuberculous meningitis, epilepsy, poliomyelitis, hysteria, or acute alcoholism. The disease appears to be only difficultly communicable. Not a single secondary case is known to have occurred in the immediate families of the patients reported in 1918-19, although some 900 persons were exposed. The fatality is rather high. Of the 159 cases studied by Smith death resulted in 46, or 29 per cent. It is interesting, though perhaps not signficant, that the peak of the outbreak of 1918-19 was reached in New York City in January; in Virginia in February, and in Louisiana, Texas, and Illinois in March. In California the largest number of cases reported in any one month was in April. Whether this progress was related to the season of the year or was merely a result of the spread of the disease is not known. Comparison with the present spread may throw some light on the subject. The disease is slow in development and long in duration. The period of convalescence is variable; in some cases recovery is completed within two weeks after the subsidence of the acute symptoms; but in others it is prolonged and leaves its record on the mind, on certain muscles, and on the nerves of the cranium. The mental troubles, however, usually passes off eventually. The appearance of encephalitis in epidemic form has, except for one epidemic from Austria, always been preceded by an epidemic of influenza. Forty six per cent of the cases studied by Dr. Smith had had influenza and 54 per cent had not. The influenza attack rate has been ascribed to the lowering of the vitality of the patients by the influenza; but has also been explained as being really due to another attack of influenza which has invaded the central nervous system of the body. Whether or not there is any connection between the two diseases has not yet been established."

Dear Folks:

Peggy Fay has ways and manners that are pleasing and sincere. They are part of Peggy's make-up and whenever they appear, they reveal her personality with all its charm and grace and you see the heart of Peggy that is shining thru her face. When she talks she has a diction that is wholly all her own in the manner of her speaking and the sweetness of her tone. In her eyes there is expression, that in eyes is seldom found, full of life and pep and ginger they are big and blue and round.

Lucy Torrey too was charming in another kind of way but she envied little Peggy and her manner bright and gay. So she gave up being Lucy and she did her level best to be something that she wasn't and it made her friends distressed.

For poor Lucy wasn't Peggy in a single thing she did, while her own sweet personality she tucked away and hid underneath the imitations which she thought were trite and smart, but which only told the world that she was acting out a part.

Peggy's ways were not for Lucy. No one's ways are meant for you. Be yourself in your expression of the things you say and do. For you'll find that being natural will always stand the test and by being so the folks you meet will see you at your best.

TOO MUCH FAITH

A Southern darkey became converted and for some time his religious fervor was a matter for awe among the bretnren. One night, however, he showed up at meetin' with a lugubrious face.

"Ise backslid," he announced mournfully from the platform. "Ise a doubtin' sinner. I ain't got de faith in divine providence what Brothah Johnson got.

"Brothah Johnson he got such faith in divine providence, dat jest to show off, what dat man do but climb a lightin' rod in a thundah storm. Me, I stays down below on terra cotta. Yassuh, Ise backslid."—American Legion Weekly.

DUMBELL DORA THINKS
George Ade is a new drink.

'All the little boys and girls, who wish to go to heaven please arise," said a Sunday School teacher.

Whereupon all, with the exception of Johnny Holstein, promptly got up.

"Don't this little boy want to go to heaven?" reproachfully inquired the teacher.

"Not yet," said Johnny.

—YOUTH—

Youth is not a time of life, it is a state of mind. It is not a matter of ripe cheeks and supple knees; it is a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of emotion. It is a freshness of the deep springs of life. Youth means temperamental predominance of courage over timidity, the appetite of adventure over the life of ease. This often exists in one of fifty, rather than one of twenty.

Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair—in these are the long, long years that bow the heart and turn the cringing spirit back to dust.

You are young as your faith, as old as your doubt. As young as your self-confidence, as old as your despair.

In the mental plane of your heart is an ever-green tree, its name is love. As long as flourishes you are young, when it dies you are old. In the central place of your heart is a wireless station, as long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer, grandeur, courage, and power, from the earth, from men, and from the infinite, so long you are young. When the wires are down and all the central places of your heart are covered with snows of cynicism and the ices of pessimism, then you are grown old—even at twenty, and may God help your soul.

FRENCH AS SHE IS SPOKE

R. H. L.: My friend Syn Mollusk who was raised in Waskom says that he has been here since the first Balkan war, but I swear he speaks worse French than anbody on either side of Cherbourg. The other day at Bouclets he ordered a tarte milanaise for dessert and he got something that looked like a kidney stew. He ate it and liked it so well that he ordered another. This time he got a salade Romaine, with two hard-boiled eggs. Can any of the brothers beat that for bum French? —Bill Brown.

LAKE TO BE CLOSED DURING FISH SEASON

EUGENE, March 24.—Gold lake will be closed to anglers during the coming season in ordr to provide facilities for trout egg taking by the officials of the state game commission, according to the announcement of Captain A. E. Burghduff, state game warden, who is on an official visit to the Lane county hatcheries looking over the plants in preparation for the trout season. The state official states that Gold lake is expected to provide an appreciable amount of trout, spawn for the McKenzie river hatchery and that the state game commission is formulating a program for the building up of the egg taking in Lane county.

Although the Lane county hatcheries produce more fish each year than any of the other large state plants the taking of eggs in the county has been very small. Out of a total of 4,942,500 trout hatches at the McKenzie plant last year only 60,000 eggs were taken from the Lane county streams, the remainder being shipped in principally from Southern Oregon streams, according to the figures compiled by Captain Burghduff.

THE SOUTH CALLS

Scoutmaster Lintott received a letter from Glendale this week informing him that fifteen boys signed up who wanted to join the Boy Scouts and start a troop at Glendale. They also call for an initiating team to journey to Glendale and start them off on the right road. This is indeed quite a trip. However, Scoutmaster Lintott will take the matter up locally and see if it is possible to make arrangements for this trip, and if it is possible, only picked Scouts will go and they will all be workers, each having a certain duty to perform. We sure hope it will be possible to make this trip and help Glendale get started off with a bang.

We certainly must congratulate Glendale on their splendid work, which without a doubt will be successful, and we, Roseburg Scouts, will try and make connections some way, so that at least a few of us can get to Glendale.

Good work, Glendale, keep it up, and don't be afraid to call on Roseburg for help if you need it.

CONTEST

Next week will close the second section of the interpatrol contest between the patrols of troops 1 and 2. The scribes will then furnish Scoutmaster Lintott with the attendance of each patrol by patrols for each meeting during the last three months. They will also furnish him with any tests passed and what scout took the test. They will also furnish him with the list of patrols and who are in each patrol. This must be done and in Lintotts' hands by the first of April.

The contest will continue as before and Troop three will be included. This adds two more patrols to the contest. The third and last section includes the months of April, May and June, closing July first. The information pertaining to the contest is found on the Bulletin Board in the scout room at headquarters.

The scribes will furnish Mr. Lintott with the names of all fellows in their troop and what patrols they are in as they start April first on the third lap of the contest. Lets see you show some pep for a change.

1923 CAMP

Only 17 weeks until camp follows. Whee! Ain't it a Grand and Glorious feelin'.

PAUL BUNION SEZ

Once there was a man, what had one, two, three, six or maybe it was 12 sons. We'll say it was 12, just for good luck. It just seemed that these sons couldn't hitch no team work Well, it seems that this here man wanted his 12 sons to work together, so one time he called them over to a bench where he was sitting. He picked up 12 sticks and put them in a bunch and tried to break them over his knee. Then, he handed the bunch 'round to each of his sons, but try as they might, they couldn't break it nohow. He then handed one stick to each son, and the sticks were easily broken. The man said: "Boys them sticks are like you; taken singly they are easily broken, but put them all 12 in a bunch and you can't bust 'em. Stand together, boys."

Well, this here reminds me of some of the patrols in this town. The scouts don't get in on no team work. They don't pull for the patrol. All they think of is themselves. Scouts, forget all about yourself; think only of that patrol. Stand back of your patrol leader and make your patrol a whiz. Obey his orders as you would your Scoutmasters, for your patrol leader is representing him. Glee, Scouts, get teamwork into that patrol, and for the love o' mud, stick together. The united patrol will walk away with every event in any contest. So, as the father of these 12 sons said, "Stand together, boys."—Scout Beacon News.

Note: Roseburg Scouts read the above twice. I dare say it hits most of you square between the eyes. It certainly applies to a number of the Roseburg patrols. Think it over and try it out, for it works when given a fair chance.—Editor.

IN MEMORIAM
ELKTON

PING-PONG

It is quite evident that the Roseburg Boy Scouts are quite slow or else they do not care to play Ping Pong. You remember you each pledged to give a dime toward the making of a ping pong table. The table is made. The bill is not paid. You have broken the first six balls which are also unpaid for. It is hereby ordered: That Every Scout Who Has Not Paid In His Dime Must Do So Before April First. You made this pledge on your scout honor and the same was accepted so kindly keep your word as a Scout is Truthworthy. You can either pay this amount to your scribe or if you can't see him conveniently stop at the Parslow Furniture Store and pay the same to Scoutmaster Lintott. So come on fellows and get some pep into your system. You are not only keeping your self from having a chance to play but also keeping the other scouts who have met their obligation. Do you call that fair? Think it over.

TROOP NEWS

Troop No. 1.

The meeting was called to order by Scoutmaster Lintott with 17 men and three officers present. Last week an unnecessary disturbance was caused by several of the older Scouts who should have known better. These fellows each received a sentence from our Scoutmaster which we hope will teach them to think twice before they try another trick of that kind. The three fellows implicated were Martin, Gile and Seely. Two of them received a two weeks' suspension and the other a three weeks' suspension. This sentence can be wiped out by appearing before Scoutmaster Lintott and having a private talk with him and making an apology for their un-Scoutlike actions.

We also enjoyed the News-Review radio concert, Mr. Lintott having a hard time keeping the boys working on scouting, as all ears seemed to be listening for radio.

We had practice in seal first aid by Hilton, which was somewhat better than signaling. We then had practice in the Scout Law by Scoutmaster Lintott.

The surprise was then brought forward which was enjoyed by all present. The surprise was furnished by Mrs. Ruff the mother of Scout Ruff and consisted of a big dishpan full of popcorn and also a basket of apples, every fellow appreciated and none turned down the "seconds." We ask Mrs. Ruff to accept our thanks for her gift in the form of "eats" as every fellow certainly enjoyed it.

As there was no more business to transact we passed games and listened to the Radio Concert until Scoutmaster informed us it was 9 o'clock and all must go.

Calvin O. Webber, Jr.

Troop 2.

The meeting of troop 2 was held last Tuesday with a very poor attendance there being only about fifteen members present.

The business was quickly transacted and the meeting was adjourned in favor of outdoor games. The initiation to have been held was postponed until next meeting.

Interest seems to be on the decline in our troop but if troop members will just ask any one who attended this meeting they will tell you what a dandy time they had. Better get out for the next meeting fellows.

Floyd Church.

Troop No. 3.

Troop 3 met Wednesday evening with a fair attendance. The usual business was held, after which a number of the boys played baseball.

One new member was admitted into our troop which is fastly filling up, however we still have room for a few more.

Kenneth Olson.

FAST WORK

Thursday noon Scoutmaster Lintott received word of Scout Executive Dimmick of Portland that a troop was being organized in the Portland boys' home and asking if Roseburg would help. Scoutmaster Lintott formulated an article appearing on the Scout page of today's News-Review and at 6:45 Scoutmaster Lintott was in formulating that article in south Jackson street. This information was sent to Scout Executive Dimmick immediately and in this way it is hoped that a troop will be formed. Thanks to the News-Review for accepting the Scout page of the issue of Thursday.
