Siezed Airfields At Hollandia Being Shaped for Bases

MacARTHUR'S ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS New Guinea, April 25.—(AP)—American and Dutch invaders, slowed more by mud and mountain than by disorganized Japanese resistance, closed from two sides today on three airfields in a 350 square-mile area of Dutch New Guinea around captured Hollandia.

A fourth airfield, seized by another invasion force against sniper opposition 150 miles to the southeast near Aitape, was pressed into service less than 48 hours after its capture. Fighters and troop transport planes landed there yestreday.

Nowhere in the Hollandia area, less than 1,200 miles from Minanao, was there any word of organized fighting by the 14,000 Japanese estimated to comprise the defending force.

On the west flank, American soldiers, last reported within five miles of the main Hollandia airfield, told AP Correspondent Murlin Spencer that some Japanese "didn't even have guns." This invading force, landed at Tanahmerah bay, had moved six miles southeast by Sunday afternoon.
