What God Says about—THE LOOK THAT BEATS THE DEVIL

"And the Lord turned and looked upon Peter."

Yes—"and Peter remembered the word of the Lord how He said unto him, Before the cock crow thou shalt deny me thrice." And Peter went out and wept bitterly.

Say, Brother Christian, where are you? Are you in wrong? Have you followed Jesus afar off till you are cold-hearted and shamefaced and is with a crowd of worldlings doing as they do; denying your Saviour and acting and living a lie all the time? Well, then, watch out! Something will happen pretty soon to remind you that perhaps years ago God warned you about getting in wrong. With Peter it was a rooster's crow. And then that memory. Why, Jesus had told him that Satan desired to sift him as wheat, and there he was, being sifted. He warns you now, probably while you are reading this, and you remember. What a blessed thing it is to remember some warning word of God!

But best of all, "Jesus turned and looked upon Peter." Yes, and He is looking on you now. Don't you see Him looking sorrowfully, looking pitifully, looking with hope and assurance in His eye. Don't you see Him look that look that conquers Satan—that look that says, "Satan has desired to sift you as wheat, but I have prayed for you." Don't you see that look now beats the very Devil at work with you? That look that brings remorse to your soul for your unfaithfulness? Don't you see that look of Jesus that starts you out of your shameful association. Oh, brother, it's the compassionate look of Jesus that saves you now from the power of sin. Just glance up and see it and remember that Jesus Christ is praying for you now.

Ascension Church, Episcopal, Riddle—Services on Sunday, May 21, as follows: Holy Communion at 11:30. Evening prayer and sermon, 7:30. Celebrant and preacher, Archdeacon Black.

The Church of Christ has some very brilliant children attending its Bible studies. You should hear little Josie Brown repeat from memory all the books in the Bible, and give the number of chapters contained in each book. Also hear her narrate the story of every of the characters in the old and New Testaments. She is one of the best, if not the best, readers of her age in Roseburg. She often reads more than her chapters during the week, and gets A and A plus in all studies, in Sunday school and state public school. Others making the per fect in Bible study. Regular services at Roberts Gulch every each Lord's day, at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m., and Wednesday 8 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Christian Church, corner Pine and Woodland streets; F. M. Hunsaker, minister. This church will observe its twenty-fourth anniversary on Sunday. Fifty-five of service has been given for an all-day meeting, and an added feature is music. Mrs. D. C. Poole of Eugene will preach the morning sermon. The pastor will speak in the afternoon on "Keeping the Faith," and in the evening on "The Greatest Testimony." A special musical program has been arranged for each service, and there will be a thirty-minute enthusing concert in the evening. Bible school begins at 9:45, and this school is doing wonderful work. The industry department of school begins at 9:45. C. E. at 6:30. Subject, "Something in the Bible That Has Helped Me." A cordial invitation is extended the public, and all members and friends in the city and county are urged to attend.

First Methodist Episcopal Church, South Main at Lane; William Steward Gordon, pastor. The Sunday school will meet at 9:45 and the church services at 11 and 7. The subjects for the sermons of next Sunday have been suggested by the various contests in which our children and young people have been engaged this week. The morning theme will be "Promotion and Merit," and the evening topic, "Paul's Lesson From a Roman Foot-Race." From a half dozen scripture references it is evident that Paul had been present at the contests either at the great arena at Rome or at Ephesus, or probably at both. Mr. Gordon will attempt to reconstruct the scene as it must have appeared in Paul's time and speak of athletics in their relation to life. The Epworth League will meet as usual at 7. An interesting meeting is assured. The Question Box will be opened before the evening address and a number of vital topics will be discussed. The music is in charge of Mrs. C. S. Helvline, assisted by Miss Lois Geddes and an excellent choir.

International Bible Students, 939 W. First st., Sunday morning at 10:30. We are still continuing the subject of the Kingdom of God. In what sense is Christs' Kingdom now reigning? The church at present is not the Kingdom of God set up in power and glory, but is in its incipient, embryo condition. It now suffers from violence at the hand of the world; the King was well treated and crucified; but the promise is held out that if now we (the church) suffer with Christ, we also, in due time, where he takes to himself his great power and reigns, shall be glorified and shall reign with him.

First Church of Christ Scientist, 512 East Douglas street. Regular services are held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, this meeting including testimonies of healing. Sunday school convenes each Sunday morning at 9:45 all from ages of 4 to 20 years are invited to attend. The reading room in the front of the church building is open daily except Sundays and holidays from 2 to 4 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend the services and visit the reading room. Subject of Sunday's lesson is "Mortals and Immortals."

GOOD EVENING FOLKS—

The county track

Our village today
And some of the Alleged hicktown fellers
From the sticks weren't
So slow as the Big town guys were
Want to think.

DUMBELL DORA THINKS—

Wooden wedding anniversaries are celebrated by knot-heads only.

In addition to having new cluster lamp posts which will add to the beauty of the village we might also state that Fred Jones has a spankin' new tweed suit.

Mary drove her little flivver
In a way to make one shiver,
When upon the gas she stepped
One saw she was not adept.
Mary in the churchyard lies.
'Neath green trees and sunny skies,
Flivver wouldn't climb a pole.
That's why she's in such a hole.

An obituary read that a man who died left a "bride of five months." Evidently this man was talked to death.

Quite a flock of corn-fed damsels from the country districts were in town today proving that spuds and gravy are more fattenin' than ice cream sody and choc'lat eclairs.

Things are certainly ultra modern. Nowadays they have track meets for the kids. When we went bare-footed they played "run sheep run."

Some fellers only have an ambition to shoot a good game of pool but the chances are there will be no pool tables in the poor house.

At any rate you can patronize a soda fountain without being button-holed by some weepy chap who wishes to tell the sad story of his life.

A man may be proof against all other flattery, but his vanity wiggles with delight when you ask his advice.

You notice when the girls took to trousers they didn't buy long baggy ones.

"What makes a cook a cook?" asks a headline on the women's page. Back in 1917 cooks were made in various ways. 'What's your trade?' asked the army officer. "Garage mechanic," replied the recruit. "No, you're a cook." And thenceforth he was a cook.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

by MRS. ELLSBURY

(Address all communications to Mrs. Ellsbury, care of News-Review.)

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I am 18 years old and I want to pluck out my eyebrows down to a thin line as many are doing. My mother and father absolutely forbid me to do it. Every one is doing it, and I think I ought to if I want to. Does it hurt the eyes or skin? How is it done? MAXINE.

Maxine—Plucked eyebrows have entirely gone out of style and if you pluck yours you will be not in the fashion, but decidedly out of it. Those who have plucked eyebrows in the cities and always want to be right up to the minute, are pasting on false eyebrows until theirs grow out. However, most people would be improved if they would do a little judicious plucking around their eyebrows. Most everyone has a few straggly eyebrows sometimes not more than four or five that, if plucked, would improve the shape of the eyebrow. If your brows are of a good shape don't pluck them by any means. The plucking is done with a small pair of tweezers, purchaseable at any drug store. No, it does not injure the eye.

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: In buying a suit to wear this summer what kind of blouse should I get. I haven't kept up and don't know what kind to buy. GOOD DRESSER.

Good Dresser—Much depends on the kind of suit. If it is a sport suit, get a sport blouse, one of the tailored crepe de chines, monogrammed perhaps. If it is a dress suit, more formal, one of the new printed silk overblouses would be good.

MOVIES

FAMOUS "MOTHER" AT ANTLERS

"Silver Wings" featuring Mary Carr, the picture William Fox chose to open his Broadway season and which enjoyed a successful six months' run on the "lane of white lights," is playing at the Antlers Theatre tonight.

Mary Carr, known as "the sweetest mother in all the world" has, in this new production, the role of a mother who spares the rod and spoils the child—the child in this case being a selfish son who browbeats a loving sister and a brother. His arrogance leads the mother to sacrifice the fruits of years of labor in order to clear his name from a stigma.

The prologue shows an ideal American family in a humble home, and the comedy element is especially evident here. It is described as good wholesome humor, and the play itself is said to be replete with laughs, thrills, and heart-throbs.

There are duels, and hot loves and hates, intrigues and suspicions and bitter antagonisms and finally the revolt with tremenduous battle scenes.

The battle scenes are unusual in scope and development. The charging cavalry the puff puff of musket fire, the panic of the natives, the sway of the tide of battle—all these combine to produce thrills.

Then, too, the romantic scenes in which Johnnie Walker as a gay and courageous caballero in gaudy attire and Shannon Day as a bewitching senorita, as the central figures lend a fetching note to the production, which is based on the original story by Johnston McCulley, author of "The Mark of Zorro." At the Liberty Theatre Saturday only.

Tire-Making History

Experience Only Could Have Built C-T-C Cords

EXPERIENCE—a quarter-century of it—enters into the hand-building of C-T-C Cord tires. The men responsible for C-T-C Cords grew up in the tire-making industry; took part in its progress, its developments, its improvements, occupying the highest technical positions.

One of these men was among the designers of the first cord tire sent forth. Another supervised the entire production of a plant making thousands of tires daily. To another is credited the improved processes of many tire-making plants in this country and abroad.

The culmination of that experience—experience which includes every operation in fine tire making—centered in building the most improved plant in America—right here in the northwest; in providing the most improved tire-making processes; in assembling the finest materials obtainable, and in building the staunchest, stronger, more serviceable C-T-C Cord tire.

C-T-C Cords are improved in design and construction from the extra-powerful bead, more durable sidewalls, to the heavily buttressed, wear-resisting, non-skid tread—and can be driven with 30% lower inflation than prescribed for ordinary cords—yet giving extra long-distance mileage, while taking the bumps out of riding and the road shocks from the car.

C-T-C Cords 30x3½ to 35x5; Fabrics 30x3 and 30x3½ only. C-T-C Inner Tubes are the heaviest, strongest standard tubes on the market.
