SAYING IT WITH FLOWERS

A man from the East boarded a street car in the South.

A Southerner got up to give a lady his seat. The Eastern man beat the lady to it.

The body will be shipped back East for burial.

* * *

AIN'T IT SO

Laugh and the boss laughs with you
Grouch and you lose your job;
For many a sale has been clinched with a smile
But gosh darn few with a sob.

* * *

He—Pardon me, but did you drop your handkerchief during the last dance?

She (glancing down)—Oh, horrors, that's my dress.

* * *

Child (Innocently)—Mother, how did Dad bekum a professor at the university?

Mother—So you've begun to wonder, too, have you?

Whether a man is a convincing speaker depends upon whether he is talking to the board of directors or his wife.

An optimist is a man who wipes off his glasses before sitting down to the breakfast table to eat his grapefruit.

There are no secrets in a small town. Even the secret of the married who is in love with another woman's husband is known.

Some parrots always talk a lot
Whenever they are ruffed
But I know one that never peeps,
The bloomin' thing is stuffed.

Perplexed Salesman: "There is a lady out front who has bought a lot of garden seeds. She wants to know how she can tell the plants from the weeds when they first sprout in the spring."

Pessimistic Boss: "Tell her to watch the neighbors' chickens. They will not touch a single weed."

Somebody once remarked that classical music is probably not as bad as it sounds. Jazz is though, fully.

Truth is stranger than fiction—and a lot scarcer.

We are wondering if the temporary White House has a nice breakfast room. It begins to look as if Mr. Coolidge is going to have to buy some buckwheats for Mr. Borah.

AT THE THEATERS

Last Showing of "Barbara Worth" This Evening

A great photoplay of the American desert is Henry King's production of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" for Samuel Goldwyn, at the Sherry theater. Based on the famous novel of the same name, the motion picture version loses none of the power of the Harold Bell Wright story which thrilled more than ten million readers.

The production is another triumphant success for Mr. King.

The tense and romantic story of the water reclamation of the vast western wastelands is the theme of the picture. It opens with the first trickings of humanity coming slowly to the desert. It portrays the sufferings, trials and disappointments of the pioneer, and unlike most productions, carries the work of reclamation through to ultimate success, affording, by the way, an interesting and complete education on that great and important work—irrigation.

Ronald Colman steps forth with a new and delightful portrayal of Willard Holmes, young eastern engineer who comes to the desert to manage the irrigation projects of his foster father.

Vilma Banky, blonde beauty of the screen, cooperates with Colman and a delightful Spanish moon in supplying the love element.

In addition, Miss Banky demonstrates her versatility by playing the mother of the infant Barbara in the prologue, which sets a high pitch for the action which follows—some eighteen years later. The role calls for the maximum of dramatic interpretation, the pathetic mother being a decided contrast to the gay Barbara of later years.

Love, Intrigue And War in Pola's Latest

Ever since Pola Negri came to the United States, film fans have been waiting for her to top the heights she attained in "Passion."

In "Hotel Imperial," her latest Paramount vehicle, which came to the Arcade theater yesterday for a three day showing, she has more than accomplished this. This new film of love, war and intrigue is easily her finest since coming to America. In many respects, it's the greatest achievement of Miss Negri's screen career.

As the girl about whom centers a tumultuous love story, with the fate of armies at stake, she brings all the tempestuous artistry into play that has made her the screen's first emotional actress. The tremendous exactions of her portrayal sweep Pola from the depths of tragedy to the heights of rapture, carrying her audience with gripping tensity through climax after climax to the final breathless denouement.

Lajos Biro supplies a vehicle worthy of her genius, and the production's perfection offers a mark for all film makers to shoot at. Against a background provided by the Russian drive into Austria-Hungary, a tense drama of passionate intrigue has been woven.

James Hall, former Broadway stage star, takes another long stride toward the pinnacle he is inevitably approaching, as the fugitive Hungarian officer. George Siegmann gives a splendidly brutal performance. Max Davidson, Otto Fries, Michael Vavitch and Nicholas Soussanin are all more than capable.

Glenn Tryon in "45 Minutes From Hollywood" is the comedy feature on the program.

"Wings of Storm," Dog Picture, at Star Today

Fox Films has scored another outstanding hit with "Wings of the Storm," showing at the Star theater today and Wednesday with Thunder, the great dog star, in the featured role. It has aroused renewed interests in "mama's best friend," while the vivid performances of Virginia Brown Faire, Reed Howes and William Russell are very pleasing.

The scenic beauty of the production, which was directed by J. G. Blystone, is in itself a genuine delight and the photography is excellent.

The story is based on the mental and physical evolution of a dog.

But it is the remarkable performances of Thunder, the magnificent police dog, that arouses the greatest interest. His performance is fascinating in the extreme and the acme of dog intelligence. There are several other good dog actors in the cast, among them White Fawn, Thunder's mate but all are overshadowed by the work of Thunder.

Road Show Coming to Arcade Mar. 24

In case somebody still thinks "Cradle Snatchers" coming to the Arcade theator, Thursday March 24 is a domestic comedy, a sort of "hand that rocks the cradle sort of thing, let that innocent be disabused instanter. It is full of shocks.

But the audience in New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco where it has played to capacity houses, proves one vast shock absorber, and shakes for two and one-half hours every performance.

Louis O. Malcoon's production of "Cradle Snatchers" bids every second for raucous laughter, and gets it. The situation involves three married couples, some amusing but not dangerous young flappers, also there are three "Gigolos."

Helen Bolton is a comedienne with a strut and a high-powered wink and all members of the company are excellent in their parts.

We hope that some of these warlike lonislators who are always threatening to meet one another outside really do meet one another outside, after the next elections.

BEWARE OF COMPLICATIONS

PILES in themselves sooner or later become unbearable. Add, then, the suffering from lost vitality, stomach troubles, neuritis, sciatica and epilepsy, which often arise as direct reflex conditions from Rectal and Colon ailments. Piles will not cure themselves; nor will patent medicines or hospital operations give permanent relief. But the famous Dean treatments have cured thousands of the most extreme cases, and I will GUARANTEE in writing to cure yours, or return your fee. Send today for my FREE 100-page illustrated book. It tells how.

ART IS LONG

Customs officers have decided that the modernist sculpturings of Constantin Brancusi, the Rumanian, are not art and therefore are subject to duty, 40 per cent as usual. This will be an awful blow to the big dot-dash-and-dollar artists of Europe who every few weeks send across their mess of color for a mess of choice American pottage. . . . They even had King George puzzled a while back. He stopped before a painting of an Abyssinian sunset or something and wanted to know if it was a dog or just a fish. . . . A picture of an Alpine crag was sent over to America recently and it took the experts four days to decide whether it was a school of salmon attacking a tin can factory or the artist's concept of a bevy of Brazilian bezarks pursuing a crazed ovis poli. . . . One of Brancusi's work looked so much like an egg to the inspector that he thought he'd boil it, but when they told him it was "Bird in Flight" he let it fly. . . . But art is long and life is like that.
