Strife Over Top Congress Posts Confronts GOP

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. —(AP)— The prospect of intra-party strife over divvying up the spoils tempered Republican elation today over the party's landslide victory in Tuesday's election.

Party leaders arranging for policy sessions starting next week were bedeviled by clearly etched signs that the first sweet taste of political victory in 15 years may be soured by fights for top congressional posts.

But the leaders appeared confident of one thing: whatever fights may develop during the jockeying for position will be reconciled quickly enough to permit a united front when Republicans organize the Senate and House of the 80th congress on January 3.

Between November 14, when the Republican house steering committee meets, and January 3, GOP leaders expect to pick a slate of officers for party caucus ratification and to erect the framework of their legislative policy.

Top Spots on Program

High on the policy agenda are decisions on:

1. Taxes—Whether to cut individual income taxes by 20 percent, or $3,000,000,000, as Republican Representative Knutson (Minn.) insists should be done quickly. Knutson is in line for the chairmanship of the tax-writing ways and means committee.

2. Price controls—Whether to finish off OPA in short order rather than allow the agency to linger on until June 30.

3. Federal spending — Specifically, how to balance the budget if taxes are cut.

The major organizational battle is expected to revolve around selection of a floor leader in the house. There is no one on the horizon to challenge the bid of Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts for the speakership to be vacated when Sam Rayburn of Texas steps down from the rostrum to take his place with the Democratic minority.

In the field also are Reps. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Earl Michener of Michigan and Thomas Jenkins of Ohio.

All Work, No Rest.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Boston firemen aren't going to sleep on the 48-hour weekly tour that voters granted them in the recent election.

Mayor James M. Curley ordered all beds removed from fire houses with the remark that he presumed the firemen would be in the fire houses for eight hours of work daily and "therefore would have no need of beds."

The beds were provided originally for men obliged to do 24-hour straight stretches.

Feed Shortage Showing Effect In Lack of Eggs

By PAUL W. HARVEY, JR.

SALEM, Sept. 27. —(AP)—Housewives who are having a hard time finding eggs to substitute for vanishing meat can blame it on last spring's wholesale chicken slaughter.

Millions of chickens were killed last spring because of the failure of the feed supply. State Agriculture Director E. L. Peterson warned federal officials that unless they sent feed to the northwest, this section would face a shortage of eggs and chickens.

Peterson's prediction has come true, and now the three coast states are not producing enough eggs even for local needs. Eggs are even coming from the midwest to help out, but still the demand far exceeds the supply. And with no possibility of meat supplies improving for some time, the egg demand will increase.

Of course, part of the current egg shortage is caused by the fact that this is the off-season.
