America's Book of Secrets

A new episode called 'Mind Control" examines reports of clandestine programs implemented around the world during the last century that were intended to control the human mind — and subsequently, the behavior of the individual or group affected. Now, there are a growing number of people who believe that these programs, which allegedly were createdd for military use during wartime, currently are being used not only by governments but also corporations to control us all. Lance Reddick is the host.
