Klamath County News.

Klamath Republican.

Perhaps no other county in the United States presented a cleaner docket than that taken up by Judge Frazer in this city Monday. Three days were sufficient to wind matters up, and if the attorneys had been ready for business, one or at the outside, two days would have sufficed. That speaks well for the peace and moral tone of Klamath county. It has reached a point where peace officers and courts are a superfluity, for there is no apparent need for their services. A grand jury was asked for and the following names were drawn: Robert Hunsaker, foreman, John Janssen, C. Leon Lewis, J. M. Fountain F. W. Eglington A. I. Kilgore and E. G. Kilgore. N. Langell was appointed bailiff. Being the first grand jury called for some time, considerable speculation was rife as to its object, but its services resulted in the returning of but two true bills, one for Ed. Wiggins for forgery and one against Joseph Coburn, for the theft of a cow belonging to J. G. Wight. It is alleged that he stole this property last November. His bail was fixed at $1000. Wiggins plead guilty and received the minimum sentence of two years. Considerable regret was felt that it became necessary to impose such a heavy sentence, but under the law his was the best the court could do. The grand jury made an examination of the county offices and report approved the work that is being done therein.

It recommended that the sanitary conditions in and around the county jail be improved. M. Krtnic, who was held on a charge of assault on the little Welch girl, was turned loose, no true bill having been found against him. Court adjourned Wednesday evening and Judge Frazer returned to his home in Portland.

Condemnation proceedings have been instituted by the government against Alex Martin, jr. and wife and Fred Mills and wife, for the right-of-way for the Keno canal. The complaint states that the government has offered $1000 for the required ground, but that this has been refused and $3000 demanded.

The train that left Pokegama Wednesday morning took French leave of its engineer while making the Y at Thrall and shot across the main line of the S. P. Among the passengers on board were I. D. Applegate, Mrs. Lena Hargus and two children, Abel Ady, B. E. Jacob, A. A. Cunningham and Leo Robinson. Some of the passengers lost their heads and jumped and as a result sustained slight injuries. Those remaining in the train were uninjured. An accident occurred on the new stage line near the Klamath Hot Springs last Sunday, resulting in the serious injury of H. W. Straw, one of the proprietors of the new line. When nearing the hotel the driver missed the end of a culvert, causing the stage to topple over, smashing it badly. None of the passengers were injured. Mr. Straw is reported as improving rapidly and will reach here probably next week.

Work is progressing rapidly on the California Northeastern. Chief Engineer who was in the city this week and stated that there were one thousand men at work and that the road would undoubtedly reach Dorris schedule time. This is the first time that Hoey has assumed the role of a prognosticator, and when he undertakes a job he knows whereof he speaks. Arrangements were completed this week for the letting of a contract to Mason, Davis and Co., for the construction of the roadbed throug the marsh land, and the papers were sent to Mr. Hood for approval. If it is accepted by him, and it is almost certain it will be, for all moves thus far made by Mr Hoey, have met with the instant approval of his superior, it will mean that the work on this end of the line will be finished within nine months. Trains will be running into Orr's Lake July 15, and will reach Dorris, twenty miles from this city by November.

Klamath Falls Express.

W. I. Vawter, president of the Jackson County Bank at Medford, was a Klamath Falls visitor Saturday and Sunday.

At the direction of the secretary of the interior suit for right of way for the Keno canal across the F. H. Mills holdings on the west side of Link river has been brought against Alex. Martin, Jr. and wife and F. H. Mills and wife. The Government offered Mr. Mills $1000, but his demand was for $3000.

Ackley Bros. have leased the steamer Canby for three years and have put the boat in commission to do a general freighting business on the water of the Lower lake. The boat was secured by this firm in order to make sure of having a boat to do its towing for the sawmill. Ackley Bros. state they will build a 60 foot barge and in addition to doing their own work will engage in a general freighting business.

A stage accident occurred Sunday night near Shovel Creek on the Ager-Keno stage line, of which H. W. Straw is proprietor. Mr. Straw was on the stage and sustained injuries that disabled him for a few days. The other passengers were only slightly injured, and some escaped without scratch. The driver missed culvert and the coach was overturned damaging it quite badly. Extreme darkness was the cause of the accident.

The Southern Pacific company is putting forth every effort to bring about the early competition of the California Northeastern extension to this fact. Since the right of way dispute between Abel Ady and the company has been amicably settled Mason, Davis & Co. have made a bid on the dike across the marsh lands and while in here the first of the week Chief Engineer. Hoey, of the California Northeastern, practically accepted the bid of Mason, Davis & Co. and sent the contract to William Hood, chief engineer of the Southern Pacific company, for his approval. As soon as the contract is returned Mason Davis & Co. will begin the preliminary work that must be done before actual construction can be commenced. A barge must be built for the large dredging machine that will be imported and the large clam digger used on the canal must be removed to the scene of work. It will require considerable time to get everything in readiness for actual work, but with two large dredging machines rapid progress will be made.

Great Soldiers of Small Statur.

Did the contemplation of General Kuroki, who is but little more than a yard and a half long, impel President Roosevelt to add an inch to the requirements for admission into West Point Military Academy? On and after this date a youth to get into training as an officer in the United States Army, if 17 years of age, must be 64 inches high, and if the candidate is over the age of 18 years he will be rejected unless he is full 65 inches in height. Under this regulation General Joe Wheeler, one of the most brilliant cavalry officers of the Civil War, would have been rejected from the service; Napoleon Bonaparte would have been deemed unfit to become a military officer, and perhaps Alexander the Great who was not great in stature, but in military genius, would have had to put soap in the heel of his stocking when he was measured. General Kuroki, the conqueror of the empire that first brought the great Napoleon to grief, is an exceedingly diminutive man, and if military efficiency depends upon avoirdupois and inches as the President seems to think, he would have made a poor figure before the giant Cossacks. And yet he conquered them. Lord Roberts, of the British army, is another who would have been deemed unfit for an officer by Mr. Roosevelt. If such an order as that now promulgated by the president had been in force before the Civil War, the Union cause would have been without the military skill of General P. H. Sheridan, whose full height was 5 feet 4½ inches and his weight 14 pounds.

SCULPTOR WORKS AT HIS ART.

While Awaiting Trial for Murder Prisoner Models Royal Family.

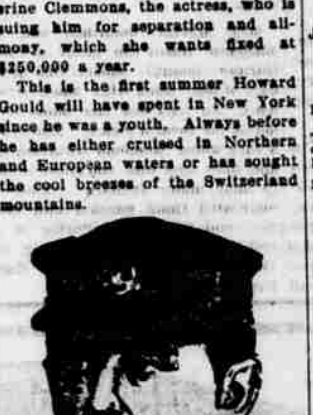
Rome, June 1.—Filippo Cifarello, a noted Italian sculptor, who was in prison in Naples for more than a year awaiting trial for the murder of his woman companion, who was a music-hall star, has recently been permitted to work at his art in order to ease his mind of his material troubles. An adjoining cell has been fitted up as a studio and here the sculptor, who is believed to be mad, passes the day modeling with feverish activity. His latest work is a magnificent group of the royal family which he has taken from a picture postcard. The artist has announced his intention of having it cast in bronze, after which he will turn it over to King Victor Emmanuel. He expects that it will be sold and he hopes that the money it brings will be used for the benefit of the prisoners' families.

GOULD'S SMALL INCOME

DEMAND OF A QUARTER OF A MILLION DOLLARS ALIMONY STARTLES HUSBAND.

New York, June 2.—Howard Gould has decided not to go abroad this year. Instead he will remain in New York for the legal battle which his wife, formerly Miss Katherine Clemmons, the actress, who is suing him for separation and alimony, which she wants fixed at $250,000 a year.

This is the first summer Howard Gould will have spent in New York since he was a youth. Always before he has either cruised in Northern and European waters or has sought the cool breezes of the Switzerland mountains.



HOWARD GOULD.

Gould has been taking an active part in the legal fight ever since it began a month ago. There have been few days when he has not visited the office of his lawyer, Delancey Nicoll. Every move from the Howard Gould side of the controversy is made only after Gould has sanctioned it.

"I am becoming a good lawyer," he said last week to one of his friends.

The phase of the legal battle which is just now interesting the husband is the amount of alimony he will be obliged to pay. He and his attorneys are preparing a statement of his wealth, knowing that it will be demanded by the court or by a referee should one be appointed after the motion by Mrs. Gould's attorneys for alimony and attorneys' fees.

MRS. HOWARD GOULD.

Gould has announced that his annual income is about $600,000 from a fortune of $12,000,000. Mrs. Gould says that she can prove that her husband owns and has an interest in properties which bring his income up to more than $1,000,000. Upon this basis Mrs. Gould has decided to ask the court to allow her $250,000 a year alimony. Cases will be cited by Mrs. Gould's attorneys in which courts have allowed a wife one-fourth of her husband's income.
