FINN THOUGHT IT OVER DAY TOO LONG

(Associated Press.)

PORTLAND, Oct. 29.—United States district judge Wolverton today refused the application of Hjalmar Anttonen, a Finn, for citizenship because Anttonen failed to file before the expiration of seven years from the date of his declaration of intention. The last day fell on Sunday and Anttonen waited until Monday instead of filing Saturday. The judge held that he had seven years to think it over and that the delay was inexcusable.

TEAM TO PLAY LAST HOME GAME

The Roseburg high school football team plays its last home game of the season against Eugene high school here next Saturday. The team will probably be stronger when it meets the Eugene players than it has ever yet been and a good game is expected. Eugene also has a reputation this year and is purported to have a strong organization. After this game the locals will meet only two more teams, Grants Pass on Armistice Day at that place, and Ashland later in the season. The boys are getting down to real training this week and are all determined to give Eugene a good hard fight. The high school expects to see its team go through the entire season with the Medford defeat of one point to keep it from saying that not a game was lost.

REMODELING DISPLAY ROOM

The display room of the J. O. Newland & Son garage is undergoing a thorough remodeling preparatory to the installation of a display of accessories. Mr. Newland states that the work will cost about two thousand dollars, but that it was made necessary by the fact that he now has on hand some eight thousand dollars' worth of accessories and parts which he is unable to display. More space will be given for the display of machines also, and the offices will be placed in a more advantageous position. A shop for the repair of cars will probably also be installed during the remodeling work.

DEVELOPING NEW MARKET FOR PRUNES

SALEM, Oct. 29.—While there has been talk of opening new avenues of consumption for the lowly but highly palatable Oregon prune, H. S. Gile & Company and the Willamette Valley Prune association have been going quietly ahead on their own hook and are sending prunes to every part of the world, under newly devised packs.

The warehouses are now jammed to the roof with cases of prunes packed in new ways.

One Order for India.

One order for shipment of 1000 dozen or 500 cases of evaporated prunes is going to Calcutta, India, and is now being packed, but rather than being packed as prunes ordinarily are, they are packed in tins. But they are not the usual canned prunes, the packing being of high-class evaporated prunes placed in tin cans and ready to eat as they come out of the can.

The shipment is going to a large English house to meet the constantly growing demand for prunes among the large British population there. In addition to the packing in cans, each can is separately wrapped in paper, and these are placed in packing cases carefully surrounded by sawdust. Shipment, it is expected, will take from six to eight weeks and the prunes are scheduled to arrive there in perfect condition, regardless of the long journey through numerous changes of climatic conditions.

LANE CITIZEN HAD AGED WINE

EUGENE, Oct. 29.—Julius M. Wilde, 56, one of the most prominent and one of the wealthiest of the Danish colony west of Junction City, was arrested Saturday night by Howard Lant, a special state officer, who heard of Wilde's private liquor cache in some way and came down from Albany to arrest him. About 100 gallons of wine, all of it pretty old stuff, was found on the place, it is said. The wine is now in the sheriff's vault.

Fine of $350 and costs for possession of liquor was meted out by Acting Justice Harold J. Wells this morning when Wilde pleaded guilty to the charge.

Wilde, who says he has made wine ever since he was married, claims he never sold a drop in his life. Neither did he consider wine fit to drink that was less than six years old. Some of the stuff taken was made in 1908. It is said that he was making a batch for a neighbor at the time of his arrest, as a favor for the neighbor.

According to Lant the wine was found in a room partitioned off from the chicken house.

S. P. Peterson, Junction City marshal, accompanied Lant in the raid at Lant's request, when the latter showed a search warrant taken out in Eugene justice court. Peterson came in this morning with Wilde, who is an old friend, and had custody of him while awaiting court action.

Wilde lives on the old "Gib" Millett place.

ELGAROSE AND MELROSE

The Melrose Grange hall Saturday evening was a gathering place for the Hallowe'en merry-makers of Melrose, Elgarose and many from Roseburg. They appeared in all manner of disguises. The prizes were won Hanson, both of Elgarose, as being by Mrs. Sara Holmquist and Lillie the best of the masked characters. They caused much fun for the crowd. After the grand march games were enjoyed. The "country store" was in charge of Joe Fredericksen and William Sandstrom. For refreshments the ladies served pumpkin pie and cider. The hall was attractive in the various Hallowe'en decorations.

Friday evening, November 2, at 8 o'clock, the Elgarose school children will celebrate Hallowe'en with a program to which all are invited.

You'll see witches and cats,
Some owls and bats,
And pumpkin heads galore,
But that isn't all,
If you'll make us a call,
There'll be that and a great deal more.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

by

MRS. ELLSBURY

(Address all communications to Mrs. Ellsbury, care of News-Review.)

Dear Mrs. Ellsbury: I have given my little girl and boy a Hallowe'en party each year, and I have always tried to make them different and jolly so that their little friends will look forward to them each year. My own mother always gave me a birthday party, and they are among the happiest memories I have. My girl is 12 and my boy 13. You see they are growing up, and it is harder to give them an enjoyable party. I have racked my brain for something new to eat, and new to do, but so far have failed to find an inspiration. Will you spare time to help me? MOTHER

MOTHER—It is indeed difficult to find something new to entertain the children. Try sending your invitations on Hallowe'en cards, and request everyone to come in costume. Pin numbers on the guests as they arrive, and ask them not to unmask until ten o'clock. Then distribute pencils and paper with the numbers listed, and have each person write down who they think each number is. These will be judged when ten o'clock comes. A witches cauldron is also very good. Suspend a large kettle over a make believe fire. Have an old witch enter, and hand the hostess a basket filled with charms, then crouch over the fire. Form the children in a line, and blindfold them, the line ending with the witch at the fire. The hostess then passes first a hot baked potato, a chestnut burr, a piece of ice, an old glove filled with mush, a soup bone, a large grape without the skin and an oyster. These things pass quickly down the line, the horrid feeling causing many shrieks of terror. The old witch receives each one, puts them in the kettle, stirs and mutters, and then draws forth a fortune for each guest. The fortunes have been previously prepared and placed in the kettle.

Make any kind of hard cookies, and cover each with a plain white hard icing. When icing is firm, paint on Jack-O-Lantern faces using melted chocolate, and a small camel's hair brush. Serve with lighted ice cream, which is indeed a novelty. Freeze the ice cream very hard. Shape it with the usual cone shaped scoop, and quickly roll each cone in chopped nut meats, place each cone on a plate, top it with a tiny candle in a birthday cake candle holder, or with toothpicks, and pour around each cone a sauce made by cooking together maple syrup, a few raisins, and a bit of stick cinnamon for ten minutes, and chilling the mixture. Light the candles and serve.

110 DISASTERS IN YEAR ENLIST RED CROSS AID

Nearly $400,000 Spent in United States—Greek Refugee Work Completed.

For its preparedness to render relief through effective and generous aid to the sufferers from disaster the American Red Cross is universally regarded as the one organization from which response to appeal for help is immediate. In the last year, according to the annual report of the Red Cross, its disaster relief operations were carried out in 110 localities in the United States. This work, with activities carried over from the previous year, required the expenditure in the United States of $397,468.04 by the American Red Cross, its Chapters and Branches. In the emergency following the defeat of the Greek forces in Turkey and the burning of the city of Smyrna, which entailed the relief of nearly 900,000 men, women and children, Red Cross National Headquarters expended $2,605,696.09. The food distributed in Greece aggregated 25,000 tons; garments, 809,000; blankets, 48,550; new shoes, 5,000 pairs; medical, hospital and sanitary supplies, 304 tons. In the feeding of the refugees there was listed upwards of 32,000 children under three years of age.

The disasters in the United States during the past year reported 249 persons killed, 991 injured, 12,631 rendered homeless. The total property loss was estimated at $20,710,000.

Relief of suffering caused by disasters of such magnitude as to overwhelm the resources of the communities in which they occur is fundamental to the charter of the American Red Cross. In addition to making appropriations from its treasury and assigning trained personnel to relief work, the Red Cross in disaster centralizes and makes more effective relief funds and supplies contributed by the country at large.

Since 1881 the Red Cross has administered more than $20,000,000 for the single purpose of disaster relief. That it may continue to accept the responsibilities which grave emergencies place upon the American Red Cross appeal is made for a nation-wide renewal of membership during the annual roll call, which opens on Armistice Day, November 11, and closes on Thanksgiving Day, November 29.

Life Saving Work Of Red Cross Corps Wars on Drownings

The insignia of the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps on the bathing apparel of men, women and youths is seen everywhere at favorite bathing places along the coasts, rivers, lakes and ponds. In its unrelenting campaign to reduce loss of life by drowning the Red Cross is making constant headway. The demands for instruction from organizations in all parts of the country were so numerous the past year that it was necessary to more than double the staff of Red Cross instructors. This work of training for water life-saving showed an enrollment of over 30,000 volunteers enlisted for duty on patrol, for rescue and resuscitation, all competent to instruct others in the standard water-safety methods. The Red Cross by request of the War Department gives water first aid training at the United States Military and Naval academies and in the military training camps for reserve officers and civilians. The four cash prizes awarded by the Red Cross last year for heroic rescues were conferred upon two girls, a boy and a man, indicating that the youths of the country stand well at the top in conserving life along our water courses.

Red Cross Field Of Action Covers All the World

Represented by 93,668 members, the American Red Cross penetrates to nearly every part of the world. The insular and foreign roll call statistics for the past year are a most conclusive manifestation of the Red Cross spirit carried into the most remote lands. In Europe there are 4,088 members; in Turkey, and active in the Constantinople Chapter, 2,545. China has an enrollment of 2,252; Africa, 126; India, 224, and Australia, 29. Even Vladivostok, in frigid Siberia, has a live chapter with 190 members. The Philippine Islands can mobilize 58,747 under the Red Cross banner and Hawaii 7,863. The total funds raised through foreign and insular membership enrollment and sent to national headquarters in Washington mounted to $60,214.54, while an additional $38,350 was forwarded for the endowment fund of the American Red Cross. The high seas roll call in 1922 was an inspiring success. The Navy signed on 4,331 for the Red Cross and the merchant ships 4,141. Of the total membership outside the United States 52,590 are registered with chapters in foreign lands, the insular possessions and dependencies.

"I want to; therefore I can!" is the spirit that spurs the Red Cross worker in well-doing.

RAFFLES, MAN MYSTERY, COMING TO ROSEBURG

Raffles, the man of mystery; Raffles, the evasive; Raffles, the much sought after, will make his appearance in Roseburg at various places of business Wednesday and anyone fortunate enough in capturing him will secure a huge reward of merchandise.

There are no impossible conditions attached to the capture of Raffles. One must appear in the stores at the time designated for his appearance and as advertised by the dealers in their ads, walk up to him and show a copy of the Roseburg paper and say, "you are the Raffles advertised in the paper, I believe in buying my merchandise from Roseburg dealers."

In Seattle he evaded capture from even the police and other sleuth hounds who in a spirit of fun entered the game of capturing him. But it is a great deal harder to escape in a small city as compared with Seattle, for everyone knows the other fellow. His capture in Roseburg is evident.

His appearance in Roseburg is in conjunction with his Adversho at the Antlers Theatre Wednesday, where he will make actors out of people in the audience and give away Oregon made products.

In other words he intends to sell Oregon to Oregonians.
