President Carries Election Campaign To California

Times Nationwide Survey Indicates Democratic Gains In House Of Representatives

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said today a nationwide survey of political conditions by Times correspondents indicated Democratic gains in the House of Representatives in the Nov. 4 election.

The Times said the general impression, slightly more than two weeks before the election, was that the Democrats might gain from 15 to 40 House seats.

This would give them a comfortable majority in the next Congress. When the present House was at full strength, the Democrats held 235 seats and the Republicans 200.

The Times said the survey was not intended as a final forecast. It noted that many races were reported close and subject to change in the closing days.

Not Included

Not included in the survey were Maine, which voted Sept. 8, and Alaska, where elections will be held Nov. 25.

The Times survey reported:

Democrats were confident—and many informed Republicans privately agreed with them — that they would add to their present House majority.

Correspondents of the Times reported that the Democrats had fair to excellent chances of adding one or more House seats in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, California, West Virginia, Indiana, Michigan, Washington, Maryland, North Dakota, Kentucky and Ohio.

There seemed to be little chance that Vice President Nixon would get the nationwide vote of confidence in the Eisenhower administration for which he has asked. Nixon has urged campaign audiences to vote for Republican House and Senate candidates who would support President Eisenhower's program.

Possible Landslides

There were few signs of the landslide that some Democrats predicted when they said their party would gain 60 to 80 House seats.

Other samplings of political opinion reinforce the impression of The Times survey that the Democratic gains in the House proportionately would fall below the expected Democratic increases in Senate seats.

Recent surveys, including those by teams of New York Times correspondents, have shown that the Democrats might gain as many as 10 or 14 Republican-held Senate seats, while no Senate seat now held by a Democrat is in serious danger.

The last Senate was divided 49 Democrats to 47 Republicans.

Truman Brands Nixon Assassin Of Character

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman today accused Vice President Nixon of carrying on a political campaign of character assassination.

The Democratic political leader, in a news conference at which he also took cracks at two leading Southern Democrats, said Nixon once "called me a traitor, and that's about as low as you can get."

Answering questions, Truman said Nixon was elected to the Senate by "character assassination in the first place."

"I see by the Republican press that he's reformed, I don't believe it," Truman said. He added that he feels that when Nixon slanders a man, "that's a compliment to him."

Truman also told the reporters: "The South won't have a third party and the Democrats will win the presidential election in 1960."

The Democrats may not keep all of the Southern states, "but we won't need them all."

He believes most Southern states would stay Democratic because Southerners don't want to lose their chairmanships of major Senate and House committees.

Then, with a grin, he said: "It might be good for the country if they did."

Asked if he had reference to Chairman Harry Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee, Truman said he had Byrd "particularly in mind." He said he also had in mind Chairman James Eastland (D-Miss) of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Truman said he could name others but did not do so.

His statements were made when he was asked if he thought the Democrats could win the presidency with a strong civil rights plank in their 1960 platform. While President, Truman once quipped there were too many Byrds in congress.

Junior Posse Organizes In Camas Valley Meet

Several orders of organizational business were discussed as 15 members attended the first regular monthly meeting of the Douglas County Sheriff's Junior Posse Sunday in Camas Valley.

Collene Thrush, reporter for the newly-organized group, said members decided to adopt the same uniform as worn by the regular posse. Taking note of growing country-wide interest in the group, members also decided to hold future drill meetings in the Roseburg area to better accommodate members from throughout the county.

The posse had drilled on the past three Sundays and more drills are slated for each Sunday at 2 p.m., weather permitting. Leathercraft classes will be staged during winter months when it becomes impossible to drill.

Members added a monthly social to the calendar of events. The social will honor members observing birthdays during the current month.

Club officers invited teen-agers throughout the county to attend meetings or write Kay Maisenbach, secretary, at General Delivery in Tenmile for information.

Others Argue Foreign Policy And Its Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower carried his election efforts toward California today while other campaigners argued about his foreign policy and its place in the political debate.

A stepped-up weekend tempo also found Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler virtually inviting those Democrats who disagree sharply with the party's civil rights program to get out of the Democratic party. He said they could "take political asylum" in the Republican party or a third party.

With the congressional election campaign moving into its final two weeks, Eisenhower speaks tonight in Los Angeles and Tuesday in San Francisco in what the White House said would be a hard-hitting explanation of Republican accomplishments.

To Resume Tuesday

Former President Harry S. Truman and Vice President Nixon resume their campaign activities Tuesday in the East, after a weekend of rest for each.

Adlai Stevenson, twice the Democratic presidential nominee, called U.S. policy toward the Nationalist Chinese islands of Quemoy and Matsu "this miserable mess."

Speaking in Milwaukee Saturday night, he said, "We have had almost four years of grace over the last crisis of Quemoy to extricate ourselves. Instead, we have allowed Chiang Kai-shek to bring us closer to war, to imperil the prestige and the peace of the United States over little islands . . . which in the long run are untenable."

Both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles had said they thought foreign policy should not be a subject of partisan debate, though each left some loopholes and later approved Nixon's action in attacking Democratic critics.

Truman said in Washington Friday he is glad that Eisenhower now "agrees with me" that foreign affairs should not be a campaign issue.

Butler was asked about that during a television interview. He said he thinks Truman was speaking then primarily as an ex-president who thinks there should be mercy on the man in the White House.

Blames Republicans

"I think the Republican party has made foreign affairs an issue by saying they are responsible for peace. Then the Democrats have the right to discuss foreign policy and areas of disagreement," he said.

Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn took issue with another Truman statement which described as "the Korean surrender" the armistice ending that struggle. Truman said, "A settlement was made that I could have made on the same terms three years before."

In a statement, Alcorn said that "the only possible interpretation to be made of this comment is that, if it were up to Mr. Truman and his party, Americans would still be bogged down in the casualty-ridden morass of the Korean War . . ."

Butler, questioned about his comments on civil rights during the television interview, said they applied specifically to Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas and also to Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss) if he felt the same way.

He said the Democratic party would welcome as many Americans as possible, but added that "if they don't want to go along on the racial problem and the whole area of human rights, than I think they are going to have to take political asylum wherever they can find it, either in the Republican party or a third party."

U. S. Has Not Resumed Quemoy Ships Convoys

munists as a central factor in the whole Formosa crisis. Warships began escorting Nationalist supply vessels in an effort to help them break the Communist artillary blockade of Quemoy which began Aug. 23.

Convoying was stopped as soon as possible after the cease fire was first proclaimed by the Reds Oct. 5. Both in starting the operation and in calling it off, the United States said military necessity governed its moves. White said that rule is still operating. It provides the principle for deciding whether convoys should be resumed.

The decision will be made by Washington, White said, on the recommendation of the responsible U. S. commander in the Pacific. So far as he knows, White said, that decision has not been made.

Accepted Offer

Dulles decided last Tuesday to accept an invitation from President Chiang to fly to the capital of Nationalist China because, associates said, he thought it vital to reach a better understanding with Chiang so that the Reds could not succeed in driving a wedge between Formosa and the United States.

The desire to break the Chinese Nationalists away from the United States was believed by Dulles to be the major objective of the Reds in carrying out their cease-fire operation.

In first announcing the cease-fire, the Reds proposed direct talks with the Formosa government.

The United States followed up by meeting Red China's demands for a halt in convoying but the Chinese Nationalists rejected the Red bid for negotiations on the grounds the cease-fire itself was some kind of trick and that no agreement with the Communists could be trusted anyway.

Would Continue Suspension

Nevertheless, U. S. officials said both publicly and privately that the suspension of American warship escorts for Nationalist supply vessels would be continued so long as the Communists withheld their attacks.

One of the most puzzling elements in the Red reversal today was the charge that U. S. warships had resumed convoying. This was contrary to the stated Washington position and raised the suspicion here that the Communists might have concocted this claim as an excuse to start firing again.

In any case, the key to the new Communist tactic may lie in the references to Dulles' visit to Formosa and the charge that the Chinese Nationalists have rebuffed Red overtures for negotiations.

What this suggests is that the Communists may be trying to undermine the success of the Dulles-Chiang talks in advance by demonstrating their ability to blast Quemoy at will.

Bring Condemnation

Regardless of the Red aim, it is believed here the termination of the cease-fire will react against the Communists throughout the free world. Dulles has said any resumption of shelling the Nationalist offshore islands would bring free world condemnation of Red China.

Whatever its real purpose, Red China's declared aim with respect to the United States has been to force American abandonment of Formosa. Since they could not expect to achieve that end by negotations—in the diplomatic talks at Warsaw, for example—the Reds may well be trying to create a situation in which the Nationalists would lose faith in the power of the United States to support them effectively.

They may feel one way to go about that would be to turn off and turn on the shelling of Quemoy at will and, in effect, to tell the Nationalists as today's announcement did that they are being punished because their own leaders in cooperation with the United States did not live up to the truce conditions which Peiping had dictated.

Pope's Doctor Quits Under Fire For Articles He Sold

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, Pope Pius XII's doctor, has resigned as director of Vatican City Health Services. He is under fire for articles he wrote and sold to newspapers recounting the pontiff's final hours.

A letter of resignation dated Oct. 18 was sent to Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals.

Sources close to the Vatican said the resignation was "the only possible solution" to a situation in which the doctor had been condemned by the press and criticized in Parliament.

The National Assn. of the Italian Press unanimously condemned him today for "disgusting comportment" in selling the articles.

Newspaper reporters at the Vatican Press Office were told that the College of Cardinals had given instructions to the Swiss Guards that Galeazzi-Lisi is not to be admitted hereafter to Vatican City or Vatican properties outside Vatican City.

One Rome newspaper last week started printing the doctor's series of articles but carried an editor's note saying parts had been deleted because they seemed "too crude."

The Rome Medical Assn. was to meet tonight to consider whether sale of the articles had violated the legal and moral obligations of a doctor.

Galeazzi-Lisi told the press: "I feel completely at rest with my conscience.

"I have not betrayed any professional secrets," he declared. "The medical profession secret ends with the death of the patient."

Attack On Woman Brings Demand To End Prison Camp

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — The weekend knifing of a 22-year-old woman has stirred strong feelings in the Weathers community south of here against prison work gangs.

A detachment of prison workers was returned to the state penitentiary here early Sunday after the convict camp at Boling Hollow was invaded by almost a score of area residents armed with shotguns.

The irate residents demanded that the camp be evacuated, and Asst. Warden Clint Gladden ordered the move.

Touching off the incident was an attack on Mrs. Arliss Clunn, mother of three children.

Mrs. Clunn was struck over the head, knifed and robbed at a store in the Weathers community Saturday afternoon.

Two prison trustees working on the Boling Hollow project were jailed at McAlester in connection with the attack.

They were identified as Sammy Crawford, 38, and Ilendus Parks, 28, both of Oklahoma City. Crawford is serving a life sentence for burglary, second offense, while Parks is serving a four-year term for grand larceny. Both are Negroes.

Mrs. Clunn was taken to the Hartshorne Clinic, and attendants said she suffered severe abdominal wounds. She told officers a man entered the store and gave her a note demanding money.

The plane stalled just as it became airborn and crashed back onto the runway where it broke in half and burned. Hornecker was killed outright in the crash. Hunter, who apparently was the pilot, died a few hours later at the airport infirmary.

British Forces Being Pulled Out Of Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—British forces started to pull out of Jordan today. Airborne paratroops first landed in Amman 96 days ago to protect this kingdom's independence.

The first unit left the port of Aqaba, in Jordan's extreme south on board the tank landing ship Macleod bound for Cyprus.

The main body of troops will start leaving for Cyprus next Saturday, a spokesman said.

Policeman Kills 4 In Cold Blood In Restaurant

NEW YORK (AP) — What deadly impulse drove policeman James McDermott to the cold-blooded slaughter of four men in a Broadway restaurant?

Did injuries he suffered last year in a car accident twist his mind with destructive urges?

Did he bear a grudge against the victims? One was a convicted loan shark and two of the others also had police records.

Had he been drinking?

Police investigated these angles today to try to uncover some explanation for the 34-year-old patrolman's violent outburst in the Pic-a-Rib Restaurant.

McDermott himself could not supply the answers immediately.

He lay speechless in critical condition in a hospital bed. His body was riddled with five bullet wounds inflicted by other policemen, who waged a spectacular gun duel with him on midtown streets as he fled.

Two of the capturing policemen were from McDermott's home precinct.

McDermott, married and the father of four, was off duty when he entered the restaurant on Broadway near 53rd Street about 1:45 a.m. A few minutes later, without warning, he drew two guns and blazed away at helpless patrons. Four men fell mortally wounded.

McDermott crashed through the glass paneling of a door and fled.

Pursuing policemen opened fire, hitting him five times. He returned the fire, wounding one of the pursuers, before he collapsed, unconscious, about three blocks from the restaurant.

Russians' Pride Jet Showpiece Reported Crashed

LONDON (AP) — The crash of a TU104 jet airliner, showpiece of Soviet aviation, took the lives of the 65 passengers and all crew members, Red China announced Sunday night.

Peiping radio said there were no survivors of the crash Friday night at Kanash, 400 miles east of Moscow, and that among the dead were 16 Chinese government officials.

It was the first crash to be announced for the jet airliner, the pride of the Soviet commercial air fleet.

The other 49 passengers were described as "foreign friends" and experts on their way home from Red China. They included one Briton, four East Germans and the son of the Cambodian ambassador to Peiping.

The number of crew members was not given, but the TU104 usually carries up to 10.

The Peiping broadcast gave the first details of the disaster. Moscow radio, in one of its rare announcements of air mishaps, said Saturday night that the plane went down on a regular Peiping-to-Moscow flight but did not disclose how many had been killed.

Aeroflot, the Soviet state airline, said in Moscow no further details would be disclosed until an investigation has cleared up the case.

Escaped Convict Captured After High-Speed Chase

YREKA, Calif. (AP) — Siskiyou County sheriff's deputies captured an escaped convict Sunday after a high-speed chase over mountainous backwoods roads.

They identified him as Carl E. McCraw, 23, who broke out of the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., last week.

With him was his wife, Shirley, 20.

Deputies said McCraw stole a 1959 Ford from an Ashland, Ore., auto dealer and was driving south into California when he encountered roadblocks thrown up as a result of an all-points bulletin.

McCraw doubled back, ran into more roadblocks, and took to the unpaved side roads which end in wilderness on the slopes of Mt. Shasta or the Siskiyou Mountains.

After a day of dodging, he ran his car off the soft shoulder of a road and it stalled. He and his wife were captured on foot. Although he had a gun, McCraw surrendered without a fight, deputies said.

He and his wife were held in Siskiyou County Jail here for federal authorities.

Cardinals Begin Final Preparations To Select New Pope

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church today began the final week of preparations for election of a new pope.

The nine days of funeral services for Pope Pius XII ended Sunday in St. Peter's Basilica with a two-hour solemn Requiem Mass attended by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles and other diplomats and representatives of 30 non-Communist nations.

The arrival Sunday night of Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski from Poland brought to 47 the number of princes of the church assembled in Rome for the secret conclave which will convene next Saturday to elect a new ruler of the church.

By the weekend all but two of the 54 living cardinals are expected to be at the Vatican. The absentees will be Josef Mindszenty, a fugitive from Hungary's Communist government who has taken asylum in the U. S. legation in Budapest, and Alojzije Stepinac, confined to his native Yugoslav village by President Tito's government.

A thousand cheering people massed at the Rome railway station to greet 60-year-old Cardinal Wyszynski, who was kept under house arrest by the Communists for three years. The crowd included both exiles from Poland's Communist regime and representatives in Italy of that regime.

The welcome amazed the prelate, who exclaimed, "My God, I did not know I was so popular. Why? Why?" It took almost 10 minutes for police to clear a path for him to a waiting Vatican automobile.

Mrs. Buell moved with her parents to Idaho when a child, and came back with them to Myrtle Creek in 1892. She was married there June 26, 1898, to Fred G. Buell, who died in 1945. She moved to Dillard with her family in 1910, where her husband operated a general merchandise store for many years.

She was a member of the Dillard-Winston Methodist Church and the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Surviving are three children, Mrs. Willard (Vivian) Laurance, Stanford Buell and Mrs. Bert (Virginia) Laurance, all of Dillard; a sister, Mrs. Bertna Armitage, Newport; five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be in the Dillard-Winston Methodist Church Wednesday at 2 p.m. with the Rev. William Walker officiating. Concluding services and vault interment will be in the IOOF Cemetery at Myrtle Creek. Arrangements are in care of Long and Orr Mortuary.

Estimated 1,500 Persons See Air Force Band Play

An estimated 1,500 persons saw the U.S. Air Force Band perform Sunday at the Douglas County Fair Community Building.

The band played at an afternoon and evening performance. About 900 persons attended during the afternoon and 600 in the evening. The band's appearance was sponsored by the Roseburg Knights of Pythias Girls' Drum and Bugle Corps.

Band students from schools throughout the county attended the afternoon performance, Thomas Hartfiel, Pythias grand chancelor for the state, said. Funds raised from the event will be used to help pay the Pythias band's way to the organizations national convention next year at Denver.
