REMNANTS OF SUPERSTITION.

It is surprising how remnants of superstition still exist in the popular mind. This is called a skeptical age. Many noble convictions are thrown over by superficial thinkers because they theoretically will not stand the tests of this materialistic age. Yet many of the same people who reject basic truths continue to attach weight to frivolous superstitions. There are still many people who will not start on a journey on a Friday, for instance. They twist and turn to avoid such an undertaking on that supposed unfortunate day. The politicians are called too highly sophisticated to be affected by popular illusions. Yet it was probably true that the work of nominating candidates at the recent republican convention was speeded up by the desire of many delegates to have them made on a Thursday, before Friday, June 13th, came along. If the politicians did not attach weight to that superstition, they may have thought that many people would feel that a ticket named Friday the 13th must be hoodooed. In the same spirit in daily life, it used to be said that not many workmen would take jobs in factories beginning Friday. If they were hired on Thursday, they would insist on entering the factory and beginning then, even if they did no more than arrange their tools. And if they could not get such a start before the factory closed Thursday, they would put off their beginning until Saturday or Monday. While such trifling superstitions do no great harm, yet they are not creditable to human intelligence. If people are governed by small illusions, it may be easier for their minds to cherish prejudices that interfere with their success in life and with the progress of their communities.

Doheny, the oil manipulator, got one vote for the democratic nominee today. The honor was placed by a delegate whose profession is that of an undertaker. The latter probably thought Doheny a fit subject for the bone yard.

The Japs are still fussing about the exclusion law with the idea in view that it will be possible to change America's attitude—but it can't be done.

And the democrats are still balloting. Some stickers, we would remark.

McAdoo, Smith and Davis were still in the running at the eleventh hour.

Better swing William Jennings Bryan into the arena as the dark horse.

VAUDEVILLE ON HOLIDAY PROGRAM

As a holiday attraction at the Antlers Theatre a combined vaudeville and picture program has been arranged by Manager Goux. Three vaudeville acts will augment the picture program on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. Little Miss Shirley, the juvenile wonder, will delight the audience with her impersonations, and the team of Witt and Marion will give a one act comedy skit, and Shirley and Marion, the Harmony Duo, will entertain. A Pathe Review, a comedy, and the feature "Tiger Rose," with Lenore Ulric, will complete the program. Lenore Ulric created the title role of "Tiger Rose," for the stage, and is said to be exceptionally good in the film version.

OAKLAND GIRL IS MARRIED TUESDAY

A simple wedding ceremony was performed at eight thirty last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Crawford, uniting in marriage Miss Frances Henninger, of Oakland, Oregon, and R. H. Williams of San Francisco. Rev. A. O. Dodge of the Episcopal church read the ceremony in the presence of only close friends and relatives. The bride was very charming in a frock of orchid georgette, with a matching hat. A wedding supper was served after the ceremony by Mrs. Crawford.

Miss Henninger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Henninger of Oakland, and for the past year has been teaching school at Gilmore. Mr. Williams travels for the L. Dinkelspiel company of San Francisco, and maintains his headquarters there. After a wedding trip north Mr. and Mrs. Williams will go to San Francisco.

COUNCILMEN SEE FIRE APPARATUS

Well Pleased With Demonstration of Equipment Given by Agents.

PRESSURE TESTS MADE

Pumping From Four Inch Main on Hillside Proves Value of Pump in Meeting Conditions Here.

Councilmen Shambrook, Kohlhagen and Powell, Fire Chief James Fletcher and Mechanic Leo Devaney, returned last night from Bellingham, Seattle and Portland, where they have been making an investigation of fire fighting apparatus. At Bellingham they were given a fine demonstration of Stutz equipment, and have returned quite enthusiastic over the performance of the machine.

One question was definitely settled by the demonstration and that was the fact that more water with greater pressure can be thrown from a four inch main. There has been considerable argument over that point, some claiming that suction through a small main would tend to collapse the main, and that the vacuum created would not pull water through. A test was made on a hillside hydrant on a four inch main a pressure of 48 pounds being registered at the hydrant. Without the pump, and with 200 feet of hose laid uphill tipped with a 11-4 inch nozzle a stream of water was thrown at 25 pounds nozzle pressure, 230 gallons delivered in a minute. The pump was then hooked 386 gallons per minute with a pressure of between 75 and 100 pounds at the nozzle. At no time did the vacuum in the main exceed 8 pounds during this test. It would have been possible to have pumped four streams under good pressure off the four inch main.

Several suction tests were made, water being drawn up a ten-foot lift from the lake. With 160 pounds engine pressure and a 1¼ inch nozzle, the pump gave 120 pounds nozzle pressure and delivered 730 gallons per minute.

With 120 pounds engine pressure and a 1¼ inch nozzle the delivery was 909 gallons per minute, with 100 pounds nozzle pressure.

With 120 pounds engine pressure through a 2 inch nozzle the delivery pressure was 75 pounds and the volume was 1030 gallons.

Four lines each with a one inch nozzle were put in use and they registered as follows: 91 pounds pressure, 280 gallons delivery; 100 pounds pressure, 295 gallons pressure, 273 gallons delivery. The four lines delivered 1,128 gallons per minute during the pumping test.

The councilmen returned fully convinced that Roseburg is in need of a large sized fire engine, and are certain that it will deliver the needed pressure even on the hillsides.

They stopped in Seattle and Portland and investigated other makes of apparatus, although no other demonstrations were conducted. The bids will be opened at the next regular meeting on Monday, July 7, and it is expected that some good proposals will be received.

OLD MAN GLOOM DOWN AND OUT

SAYS FORMER SICKLY HOUSEWIFE PRAISING KOREX.

"The roses are back in my cheeks for the first time in four years," says Mrs. Bertha Kahn of Gadsden, Alabama. "When I commenced taking korex a week ago, I couldn't sweep a floor. Last Monday I helped with my moving, handling things like a man. When I see women with that 'worn-out look,' I want to say, 'Take korex and get full of pep.' Korex makes the world look brighter."

Thousands are now using korex compound the world over for weakness after the flu, lessened vigor, rapid decline, premature old age, aching muscles, stiff joints and poor circulation, and many are the reports made of speedy satisfaction even in cases where other treatments had failed.

Those seeking similar relief will be interested in learning that the American distributors of korex compound have arranged for korex to be sold in Roseburg at Lloyd Crocker's Pioneer Drug Store, 241 North Jackson street. Just ask the clerk for korex compound.

EVANGELISTIC TENT MEETING NEXT WEEK

Evangelist T. L. Thuemler will open a five weeks series of meetings night on North Rose street. In addition to the religious nature of the subjects to be presented, the matter of healthful living will also be the subject of a few discourses, and residents of the city will have the privilege of listening to these themes from a new angle. Evangelist Thuemler is identified with the Southern Oregon Conference of Seventh Day Adventists and has held similar services in Eugene, Medford and other of the larger places in the east. The gentleman is said to be a staunch defender of the Bible, and believes in its inspiration from Genesis to Revelation. He is also the secretary of the Religious Liberty Association of Southern Oregon.

The tent has been comfortably seated, is lighted electrically, and everything possible has been done to make the place inviting to those who attend the services. The entrance to the tent is on Rose street just north of the Ford garage. The meetings will continue until about August 10, when they will be adjourned on account of the big camp meeting that will convene in West Roseburg August 14. Good music will be a feature of the evening services at the tent pavilion, soloists from other places having planned to be here occasionally to help the local musicians. Miss Smith, of Grants Pass, pianist, will be here during the entire five weeks. Topics discussed by Elder Thuemler will be live issues of the times, it is stated, and the following subjects for the first week have been announced:

Sunday night, July 6—"Five Thousand Signs of Christ's Second Coming As Seen in Roseburg."

Monday night, July 7—"Will the Old Book Stand?"

Tuesday night, July 8.—"The Clash of the Empires."

Wednesday, July 9.—"Christ, the True Messiah."

Thursday night, July 10.—"The Bible Mellennium."

Friday night, July 11.—"The Home of the Saved—Where? What?"

Saturday night, July 12—"Spiritualism. Sir Oliver Lodge vs. Bible."

Sunday night, July 13—"God's Cartoon Description of Catholicism."

THEATRES

Antlers Theatre

"Dark Stairways", Universal picture starring Herbert Rawlinson, will be given its initial screening at the Antlers Theatre tonight.

While the play is one of the society crook variety, there is none of the Raffiesque about it, as those who carry out the actual robbery plot are characters of the underworld actuated by suggestion from a man of high standing in society. It is true that Sheldon Polk (Rawlinson) after he escapes from the penitentiary to which he has been sent on conviction of having robbed his father, does a little house-breaking, but it is only for the purpose of recovering what he considers his property. Incidentally he sees something about women, he hears their bedrooms, discovers that that is beautiful is hideous and so beautiful while hideously low.

Liberty Theatre

There have been many boxing fights screened for the Liberty until directors believed it was impossible to obtain a new angle or scene of this kind. Everyone knew had the handsome hero battle for fortune and the girl, and of course he always won. Who ever heard of a hero losing a ring battle?

But, "In Fast Company," now at the Liberty theatre today and tomorrow, Director James Horne, who made the Carlos production for Truart Corporation, with Richard Talmadge, daring thrill star, playing the part of a college boy, got an entirely new slant on the pugilistic battle, introduced into the picture. Not only does the hero lose, but in doing so, he has staged one of the funniest fight scenes ever seen on the screen.

It is the wildest kind of a fight with "The Bull" missing his mark time and again by a country mile, and he is nearly out by his own efforts. When Talmadge finally does fight all but won, he turns and sees in the audience, and—comes "The Bull" puts over the fatal punch, lapsing, himself, almost into
