Judge Studies Franks Case In Seclusion

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—In the retirement he will maintain for the next 12 days, Judge John R. Caverly today began consideration of the sentence he will impose September 10 on Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers, slayers of Robert Franks. He had before him the records of the 32 days of testimony and argument in the hearing which closed yesterday, in which the state demanded the gallows and the defense pleaded for imprisonment, offering a theory of mental sickness.

Before he abandoned the bench, Judge Caverly arranged to admit to his court room only the defendants, their relatives and counsel, the state's attorneys and newspaper men, when he fixes the fate of the youths. Extra guards of policemen and deputies will exclude all others.

• The precautions are taken, he said, not because of threatening letters he has received and which he attributed to cranks, but to prevent any demonstration. Other judges in the building have been requested to delay convening the courts until after the judgment has been passed.

MORE KIDNAPPINGS IN BISHOP LIKELY

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—Prospect of further kidnappings in Bishop, Inyo county, by Owens Valley people of agents or persons friendly to Los Angeles in the feud over water rights was expressed in a dispatch received by The Associated Press today from Harry Glasscock, editor of the Owens Valley Herald at Bishop, which has been the recognized mouthpiece of the Owens Valley people in their fight against the Los Angeles aqueduct officials.

"The people here are desperate over the situation and it would not be surprising if many more who are agents of Los Angeles or are friendly to that city would not meet the same fate as L. C. Hall," Glasscock's dispatch said. Hall, an attorney, was seized by seven men in a restaurant on the main street of Bishop yesterday, disarmed and carried out of Bishop with a warning never to return.

"Feeling in this section is intense and it is only the cooler heads that are keeping in line," the dispatch says.

SAILOR'S ATTACK IS CAUSE GIRL'S DEATH

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

TACOMA, Aug. 28.—An information charging murder in the first degree was filed against C. W. Nichols, 23, a sailor on the battleship Arizona, in superior court here this morning. Deputy Prosecutor Thomas Ray announced that the state will seek the death penalty for Nichols, who is accused of slaying Miss Minnie Flem, 9, during a criminal attack on her.

Prosecutor James W. Selden in a statement today said that it had been established that Miss Flem, a girl of chaste character, met her death from a blow on the chin, presumably struck by Nichols a powerful athlete. The blow, according to a medical examination dislocated a vertebrae in the neck and caused death.

Nichols, according to the officers, has been in the navy for six years, and he says he has a wife in Los Angeles. He denies that he killed Miss Flem, but the officers say that he has confessed struggling with her and buying a bottle of "moonshine" which she refused to drink.

KING PRODUCTS SALES PROBED

Criminal Liability of Stock Sales and Activities to Be Investigated.

INVESTORS VICTIMS

Suit Is Filed to Recover Money Said Invested After Company Was Insolvent.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

SALEM, Aug. 29.—Authorization to the so-called West-committee to conduct a full investigation into the affairs and operations of the King's Food Products company upon the stock sales of which the committee recently reported, to determine whether or not criminal liability exists in the manner in which the affairs the company were conducted will go forward to Oswald West, chairman of the committee, today, Governor Pierce announced this noon.

The announcement comes as the result of allegations by fruit produce growers in the Willamette valley that the King's Food Products company last year, with its officers knowing the company to be then insolvent, accepted produce from them without making payment for it processed this produce and turned it over to a trustee for the bank creditors of the concern to be allocated as security for the loans made by the banks of the company.

The West committee was originally appointed by the governor to conduct an investigation into the alleged sale of worthless stock and bonds in the state, and its initial report of the King's company dealt only with the sale of stocks of the company which the report declared had caused losses totaling over $600,000 to innocent investors to whom the standing and prospects of the company were misrepresented in making the sales.

"The additional findings of Mr. West anh his committee will be transmitted by me to the attorney general with the request that it be thoroughly investigated from a legal standpoint and reported upon," said the governor. "What further action the state may take will depend upon the findings of the attorney-general."

Last night the governor referred to the attorney-general with instructions to "consider these reports and report to me as early as possible your findings and recommendations." The original report made by the committee upon the King's company, and a subsequent report of the operations of the Dundas-Martin company of Portland.

Coincident with the announcement of the governor today came the statement from Rev. H. D. Chambers of this city, chairman of the committee of stockholders named last March to investigate the condition of the company, that he will immediately institute suit against the King's company and ts officers for the recovery of $1,050 which he paid for stock last October. He will also ask for accumulated interest and cost of the suit.

Rev. Chamber alleges that the stock was sold to him when the officers of the company knew it be insolvent, after these officers had been advised by a Portland firm of auditors that the company was insolvent and that further stock sales should not be made, and while the license of the company to sell stock was under suspension by the state corporation commissioner.

SALEM, Aug. 29.—Governor Pierce yesterday turned over to Attorney General Van Winkle the reports of Oswald West and George Black of Portland relative to the methods of stock selling by the Dundas-Martin company of Portland for the King's Food Products company and various other concerns. The governor asked Van Winkle to look over the reports and return them to the executive office with recommendations.

Whether prosecutions by the state are likely to follow has not been intimated.

BOBBED HAIR TABOOED FOR ZIEGFELD FOLLIES; LONG HAIR RETURNING

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Bobbed hair is going out of style, at least on the stage. The authority for this statement is Ned Weyburn, who stages the Ziegfeld Follies.

In his address before the American National Association of Masters of Dancing here last night, Mr. Weyburn declared that: "Bobbed-haired girls are losing favor. I am not going to use any more girls with bobbed hair. The future musical comedy productions will not consider a bobbed-hair girl, because she has no chance to dress her features. I prefer girls of the Ann Pennington type."

SHERIFF KILLER IS CAPTURED BY POSSE

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

ONTARIO, Or., Aug. 29.—Fred Yardlow of Elko, Nev., who is alleged to have shot and fatally wounded Sheriff W. Austin Goodman of Harney county, Wednesday at Pollock ranch near the Harney-Malheur county line, was captured late yesterday by a posse led by the slain sheriff's son, F. Goodman, on the top of Stein's mountain. The alleged killer surrendered only after his horse had been shot from under him. He will be returned to Malheur county for trial.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

BEND, Or., Aug. 29.—Sheriff C. E. Terrill of Jackson county, arrived here late yesterday from Burns and brought additional details of the slaying of Sheriff Goodman, of Harney county who was a friend of Sheriff Terill.

According to Sheriff Terrill, George Price, 26, a companion of Fred Yardlow, slayer of Goodman, is being held as a material witness to the killing. Price witnessed the shooting, according to Terrill's report. He said Yardlow asked Goodman for permission to unsaddle his horse, but instead took his 3030 rifle from the saddle and turned it on the sheriff, who warned him to lay the rifle down.

Sheriff Goodman reached in his car for his gun, and got hold of it, but Yardlow shot him in the leg, severing an artery. Sheriff Goodman fired one shot, but was dazed and missed Yardlow, who mounted his horse and made his escape. Price, another man, and two women took the wounded sheriff into a house. Price said Yardlow's home is at McDermott, Oregon.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

LINCOLN, Nebr., Aug. 29.—Charles G. Dawes arrived here today to open his western speaking campaign in the city where he began his career 37 years ago, and in the home town of his democratic opponent, Charles W. Bryan.

The city of Lincoln cordially welcomed its former resident, now the republican nominee for vice-president.

Mr. Dawes responded to the welcome with a brief address from the balcony of a down town hotel, in which he assured his former neighbors that "no matter what the politicians may think in the campaign, I am going to be myself and say what I think."

"That's what this country needs—men who are themselves and not demagogues," he shouted waving his arms. Mr. Dawes wih Mrs. Dawes standing at his side, waving her hand at old neighbors and friends in the crowd, thanked the people of Lincoln for the reception given him.

"The seven happiest years of my life were spent here; my children were born here, and I have always felt that Lincoln was more of a home to me than any

GERMAN SENATE ACCEPTS PLAN

Formal Ratification Dawes Committee Is Given by Reichstag.

NATIONALISTS ACTIVE

Opposition Party Wages Fight Against Adoption —Railway Bill Is Big Issue.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The German Reichstag today accepted the Dawes reparation plan agreement concluded at the recent London conference, by adopting, by a vote of 34 to 127 the necessary two-thirds majority, the railway bill to put into effect the provisions of the London agreement.

The German nationalists whose open opposition to the agreement and whose attacks on it during the debate yesterday and today had made the results of the voting problematical, voted in favor of the railway bill, but they voted against the banking bill, another of the Dawes measures which was adopted by a vote of 295 to 172, a two-thirds vote being unnecessary on this bill.

The industrial debenture bill, the third of those provided under the Dawes plan also was adopted by the necessary majority. The vote on the railway measure provided twenty voices in favor of the bill in excess of the two-thirds majority which was required, more than two-thirds of the nationalists favoring its acceptance.

Up until ten minutes before the vote was taken on the all important railway bill, the outcome of today's voting on the London agreement had been wholly conjectural although persons in well informed circles had learned early in the day of a peace pact which was said to have been concluded between Foreign Minister Stresemann and the nationalists.

It was this eleventh hour agreement between government and the nationalists which resulted in the deflection of 57 votes from the ranks of this opposition party and which enabled the government to obtain a constitutional majority in support of its work in London.

The price which the government paid for the support of the nationalists, which up until midnight last night had still been in doubt, is reported to be a promise that the present cabinet will be reconstituted in the near future to include several nationalists.

The government's approval of a tariff on grain is also reported to be part of the bargain made by Dr. Stresemann, who acted as a go-between for the present ministry.

The Reichstag today adopted by a vote of 295 to 172, the banking bill whereby the banking provisions of the Dawes reparation plan agreement concluded at London will be put into effect in Germany. There were two abstentions from voting and the German Nationalists voted against the measure.

Fliers Hold Up Labrador Hop Awaiting Weather

Flight Will Probably Be Continued Tomorrow Morning — Wade and Ogden Working on Ship to Finish With Two Others.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

U. S. RICHMOND, AT ICE TICKLE, Labrador, Aug. 29.—Continuing stormy weather has caused further postponement of the American army world aviators' flight here from Ivigtut, Greenland. It is announced that no attempt will be made to get away before tomorrow morning.

The route of the flight stretches for 572 miles across the arm of the Atlantic which sweeps northwest into Davis strait and serves as a highway for icebergs floating down the Labrador current into the broad ocean. The warm airs from the south, melting the ice, cause dense fogs almost constantly, making an aerial perilous except under unusually favorable conditions.

Unusual precautions have been taken by the convoying naval squadron to safeguard the birdmen on this final and dangerous leg of their homeward trans-Atlantic swing. No less than six ships will be stationed along the route, in constant communication and with an elaborate system of signalling the aviators as they pass.

Weather reports from each vessel will be transmitted by wireless to the U. S. S. Milwaukee at Ivigtut for the information of Lieutenant Lowell Smith and his comrades before they take to the air.

The longest gap between the ships will be 110 miles.

A message received by Rear-Admiral MaGruder from Lieutenant Smith last night said the new engines had been installed in the planes and tested and that the fliers were awaiting only favorable weather to begin their hop to Labrador.

Fair weather is predicted on the Labrador coast for today, but the storm passing east will probably bring rain and wind at Ivigtut, indications are that the weather will clear up tomorrow on the Greenland side of the water.

ON BOARD U. S. S. BARRY, PICTIU, Nova Scotia, Aug. 29.—The destroyer Barry arrived here today with Lieutenant Leigh Wade and Lieutenant Henry H. Ogden, who were compelled to discontinue the flight when their plane was wrecked off the Faroe Islands. Lieutenant Wade and Lieutenant Ogden, his mechanician, plan to start work immediately on conditioning another plane with which they will rejoin their comrades in the flight from here to Boston.

PRESIDENT'S REST CONCLUDED TODAY

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—President Coolidge returned to Washington at 7 a. m. today after a two week's vacation on his father's farm at Plymouth, Vermont.

The president with Mrs. Coolidge and their son John, left the train immediately for the White House for breakfast, after which he took up at once his official duties. Beginning the day's work with a cabinet meeting this morning and an address later in the day before the delegates attending the convention of the national fraternal congress, his first vacation since taking office was ended.

ON BOARD TRAIN WITH PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, Enroute to Washington, Aug. 29.—Having concluded his annual vacation, spent on his father's farm at Plymouth, Vt., President Coolidge with Mrs. Coolidge and their son John, were speeding toward Washington this morning, where they are due to arrive at 7 o'clock.

The presidennt and his family, after saying good bye to his friends at Plymouth, visited the cemetery where are buried the president's mother, his sister and his son, Calvin, Jr. The party boarded the train at Ludlow, Vt., after greeting town folks and tourists who were at the station to see the president off. Many times during the early evening the president went out on to the platform to wave at the crowds that lined the tracks in Vermont and Massachusetts.

After passing through North Ampton, Mass., the city where the president made his home for years, and where he began his political career, the party retired for the night. At North Ampton the train did not stop but the president stood on the observation platform to acknowledge the greetings of thousands.

BRITIAN EXPECTED SUGGEST NEW PLAN

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

GENEVA, Aug. 29.—Having delivered a fatal blow to the famous pact of mutual assistance and guarantees, elaborated by the disarmament section of the League of Nations, the British government, it is expected, will come to Geneva for the fifth asembly of the Legue of Nations with some practical suggestions which can serve as a substitute for the pact.

While nothing official has reached the secretariat of the League, the impression prevails that Premier MacDonald may favor on the floor of the assembly an extension of the policy of arbitration as the most feasible and most effective means of preventing war.

News dispatches from the United States reaffirming President Coolidge's intention to convoke a new conference on limitation of armaments at some favorable moment, stimulated interest in international circles in the great circle of reduction of land and naval forces.

The assembly will open next Monday.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED

A fire in the kitchen of the Roseburg Hotel yesterday evening caused the fire department to make a hurried trip to the scene with both engines. On account of the good work of the department a serious blaze was prevented and only about $50 damage done. The range had set fire to the floor and it was spreading rapidly.

Russian Leader Gets Death Sentence for Anti-Soviet Activities; Career Colorful

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

MOSCOW, Aug. 29.—The trial and conviction yesterday of General Boris Savinkoff constituted probably the most dramatic case that has come before the revolutionary war tribunal. Savinkoff, former military governor of Petrograd and assistant minister of war in the Kerensky cabinet, was sentenced to death on a multitude of charges growing out of his seven years' struggle against the Soviet regime. A stay of execution was ordered, however, to allow an appeal for pardon to the executive committee, as Savinkoff acknowledges his guilt and expressed a desire to support the Soviet.

The case was regarded by the government as important to its safety and prestige.

The court room was packed with members of the government, including acting Premier Kamenedf.

There was neither prosecution or defense, but every detail was dramatic and thrilling. Savinkoff himself a revolutionary organized the assasination of Prime Minister Plehve and Grand Duke Sergius, which gave the first signal for the Russian revolution. He was responsible for the advance of the Russian army in July, 1917. After the Bolsheviki revolution he assumed leadership of the anti-Bolsheviki forces and also organized the Yaroslavl rising which ended in demolition of the town with considerable bloodshed, as well as numerous risings in Siberia and Ukrania. He raised an army to defend the constituent assembly in Samara and directed activities against the Bolsheviki from Poland. All of this Savinkoff acknowledged. Speaking with emotion, he said to the court:

"I know your decision beforehand. I don't value my life and I am not afraid to die. I recognize all my guilts, but they were all involuntary, as I never sought anything for myself."

He now was convinced, Savinkoff asserted, that the Reds were right and that he was wrong in regard to the support of the Russian people of the Soviet regime.

Savinkoff asked the court to remember, in delivering sentence that he had never been an enemy of the people, that he had spent his life as a revolutionary and that he had had his neck in the noose a hundred times.

It is generally believed that the death sentence will not be carried out.

WAIVE HEARING IN WILSON CASE

Defense Notifies Commissioner Examination Will Not Be Required.

WOMAN STARTS SUIT

Complaint Filed in Circuit Court to Transfer Judgment of $2,000 to Oregon.

H. G. Wilson, charged with violation of the Mann act today waived preliminary examination, and will go before the federal grand jury in Portland for investigation without a previous hearing. At the time of his appearance last week he demanded examination and all arrangements were made for the hearing, which was to have been held this morning, but late last night his attorney advised the district attorney's office in Portland, and U. S. Commissioner Hopkins, that no hearing would be necessary, and this morning at the hour appointed for the continuation of the case officially waived examination. His bonds were raised from $2,000 to $3,500, Commissioner Hopkins refusing to require the full $5,000 which was recommended by the U. S. district attorney.

Following the action this morning Alletta V .C. Lindsley brought suit in the circuit court to collect a judgment of $2,000 awarded her in the superior court in the county of Los Angeles, California.

The action of the defense came as a surprise to all connected with the case, and as a disappointment to the sordid minded who expected to hear some racy testimony. Before the hour appointed for the hearing a large crowd of spectators gathered at the office of Justice Jones which was secured for the preliminary hearing, but dispersed when it was announced that the government's case would not be heard.

"I believe the bonds of $5,000, as recommended by the government, to be too high in this case," U. S. Commissioner Hopkins stated in explaining his reasons for fixing the bonds at $3,500. "I understand that the womap sued Mr. Wilson for damages in California and that she was given a judgment of only $2,000. With this amount involved in a civil suit it does not appear that bonds of $5,000 should be required as security for an appearance in the federal court."

The time for hearing the case in Portland has not been announced. The government will present its case to the federal grand jury and Mr. Wilson will probably be notified and given an opportunity to appear in his own behalf if he desires.

If an indictment is returned by the grand jury he will be given a trial before the federal court.

The suit brought by the woman who claims to have been Wilson's second wife, is to transfer a judgment awarded her in California to the Oregon courts. She alleges in her complaint that she brought suit against H. G. Wilson in the superior court of the state of California, in Los Angeles county, and that she was awarded a judgment there in the sum of $2,000 on August 11th of this year. This judgment was not paid, she alleges, and she asks for the recognition of the claim in the Oregon courts.

In the complaint upon which the judgment was secured she sets forth a claim for damages in the sum of $50,000, which, however, the court reduced to $2,000 in the order made on the 11th of August.

In the complaint filed in the California court she alleged that she became acquainted with Mr. Wilson in the fall of 1922, and that he commenced to pay marked attention to her at that time. He followed her to New York City, she alleged, and there renewed his attentions, asking her to marry him and assuring her that he was amply able to provide for her. She finally consented, and she claims that they were married December 19, 1922 at Alexandria, Virginia, and moved to Oregon and lived together until July 1, 1923.

During the period that the lived together Wilson was absent a great deal of the time from home, claiming that his absence was caused by business.

About the first of July 1923, the woman alleged she learned that Wilson had another wife living and that he had not been divorced. She maintains that when she confronted Wilson with the fact that he produced papers which he claimed were divorce papers and which she later learned were fictitious.

Before her marriage with Wilson, the woman claims she had another suitor in New York, this man being quite wealthy, who
