BATH TUB PARTY PROMOTER MUST DO YEAR'S TIME

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, lost his appeal today from a sentence of a year and a day in Atlanta penitentiary for perjury committed in connection with grand jury investigation of a "bath tub party" in his theater. United States circuit of appeals today affirmed both the verdict of guilty and the sentence imposed by the lower courts.

Carroll was brought to trial last spring after newspaper stories had been printed saying that at a Washington birthday party, at the Earl Carroll theater, Joyce Hawley, a show girl, had served champagne to male guests from a bath tub on the stage in which she was seated undraped.

Before two grand juries, Carroll swore that no one had occupied the bath tub and that the beverage it contained was not intoxicating. Four counts of perjury were laid against him and he was found guilty of the two counts which related to his telling the grand juries that no one occupied the bath tub. He was found not guilty in telling the same juries that no liquor was served at the party.

He was fined $2,000 and sentenced to a year and a day on each count, but the terms were made to run concurrently. He was released in $5,000 bail pending the appeal which ended in his defeat today.

A. H. MEDFORD DIES SATURDAY

Augustus H. Medford, proprietor of the Roseburg Apartments, and a resident of this city for the past several months, died suddenly Saturday evening as a result of heart trouble. Mr. Medford came to Roseburg in August, purchasing the Roseburg Apartments from J. E. English, and operating the apartment building up to the time of his death.

Mr. Medford was born in Scotland 65 years ago and at the age of 2 years went to the West Indies with his parents. When 29 years old he came to the United States and made his home in St. Paul, Minn., after leaving New York City. In 1903 he was married to Anna Sophia Karenes in St. Paul. The family came to the Pacific coast later and for a time resided at Ellensburg, Washington. Five years ago they came to Oregon and have resided in Medford and also at North Bend, where Mr. Medford operated an army store. He was a member of the M. E. church of Roseburg and was a member of the Woodmen of the World in the east.

He is survived by a widow and two children, Marie Blanche and Lowell W. Medford all of Roseburg, and several brothers and sisters in the West Indies. One brother, from whom he had not heard in some time was living in St. Paul at the last news of him. Mr. Medford is also survived by a niece, Mrs. Chelsey Speyers of Ellensburg, Washington, who arrived this morning. The body has been taken to the Douglas Funeral Home where it may be viewed by friends until 9 o'clock this evening. The body will be shipped tomorrow to Ellensburg, where burial will take place.

SUNDAY BIG DAY AT BIBLE STANDARD TEMPLE

Sunday was a great day in the revival that is in progress at the Bible Standard Temple, being conducted by Evangelist Dr. E. F. Webber. The interest is growing and people who heard Dr. Webber yesterday for the first time regret of missing one sermon.

Several members were taken into the church on Sunday morning and a very large crowd was there to enjoy the sermon on Sunday p. m., by the evangelist on the subject of divine healing and also the many questions regarding the subject were answered from the Bible . Many were prayed for and healed in the service. The evening service was well attended, the lower floor being filled. The subject of the evening was the "Prodigal Son," in which the evangelist exceeded any sermon we ever heard on this theme. The soloist and choir sang, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight," which brought many to tears and several came forward and were converted.

Subject for Tuesday night, "Where Are Our Dead?"

Wednesday night, "After Christ Comes What?"

Other subjects will be given Wednesday.—Correspondent.

NEW GOVERNOR GIVES VIEWS ON STATE AFFAIRS

tuition fees by those institutions," he said.

Agricultural Needs

Concerning irrigation, he reiterated declarations he made in the campaign last year, that farmers on irrigated lands, who have shown good faith should be protected. He proposed repeal of the constitutional amendment providing for guarantee by the state of interest payment on irrigation district bonds.

He favored legislation which will encourage and promote reforestation by private owners on land from which timber has already been removed.

Careful consideration of the report of the legislative committee which has been studying workmen's compensation laws was suggested.

A constitutional amendment providing that increase in the salary of any elective officer of the state during the term or which he is elected, was avored.

Highway Extension

Concerning highways he cautioned against hasty legislation, and said that conservative road construction should be continued. He expressed the view that increase in the number of cars will make it possible for the state to bear the full burden of acquiring right of ways and constructing state roads without requiring the assistance of counties. This plan, he said should not be so construed as to relieve any counties of obligations now due for past advance of money or work by the state highway commission or to interfere with any existing contracts.

"When relieved of the necessity of contributing to the expense of state highway construction," said the governor, "county courts will be able to give much needed attention to the more remote roads, to the end that rural residents may at all times of the year, have easy access to market places."

Governor Patterson favored completion of the Roosevelt highway as rapidly as funds can be made available. He declared the highway of paramount importance to the coast counties, and indirectly to the whole state.

Favors Motor Bureau

Creation of an administrative officer, to be appointed by the governor to relieve the secretary of state of the work in connection with the motor vehicle laws, was urged by the governor.

Repeal of the provision for an accidental fee of 50 per cent on motor vehicles not common carriers, was recommended; and study of the certificate of title law and headlight law for amendment was suggested.

Halt Bonding Errors

Warning against the tendency of corporate bodies in the state to issue bonds for improvements, the governor asked that funds be provided to obtain data on the present financial condition of all subdivisions of the state, so that some regulatory system may be worked out. Under the present bonding system overlapping divisions pledge credit on the same property, he pointed out. State, county, port district and school district may pyramid bonds on the same property, he said. In a certain city every parcel of property was carrying a bonded obligation of 22.15 per cent of its assessed valuation. In another city the bonded obligation amounted to 63.27 per cent.

Centralization of purchases for state purposes in the board of control was suggested. Further study of a plan for diverting revenues of self-sustaining state activities to the general fund was advised. Concentration of branch offices in Portland to one building, or in fewer buildings was another recommendation.

Pierce's Farewell Message

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 10—Five major issues were presented to the legislature in the farewell message of Gov. Walter M. Pierce, who retired today after four years as chief executive. These were hydro-electric development, reforestation, taxation, law enforcement and irrigation.

Declaring that Oregon should follow the example of Washington in low-cost power, Gov. Pierce recommended passage of a law making it possible for any district or city to organize, acquire power sites, issue bonds, construct hydro-electric plants and sell power. Not only should factory wheels be turned, but homes in city and country should be lighted and heated, he said.

Appointment of the state board of forestry by the governor without the necessity of following suggestions of organizations interested in timber, as the law now provides, was urged by Gov. Pierce in his discussion of forestry. He also urged a severance tax on timber, the entire proceeds to be used in reforestration.

Clings to Income Tax

A large part of the message was devoted to taxation, and Gov. Pierce reiterated recommendations for a state tobacco tax and the Grange graduated income tax bill. He claimed credit for reduction of more than $2,000,000 in the state tax levy had resulted from a ten months experience with an income tax which was repealed. He urged a tax on excess corporation incomes, and increase of corporation fees.

Gov. Pierce declared that the sentiment for law enforcement grow steadily better as the years come and go. He said there was decidely far better degree of law enforcement in Oregon today than when he came governor. "There is not 5 per cent of the liquor consumed in Oregon today that was consumed ten years ago, and the amount is growing less year by year," he declared.

He praised the highway commission and recommended that there be no decrease in automobile license fees or gasoline tax, but suggested that licenses on old cars be reduced and, if necessary increase on new and high priced cars.

Tithing Idea Sticks

The governor reviewed finances of the state penitentiary, which he claimed to have put on the way to becoming self-supporting. He urged that the central building of the penitentiary be made fire proof, as, he said it was now a fire trap.

He urged that change be made in the industrial accident law and recommended that self-sustaining commissions should turn in their receipts to the general fund. He proposed a new state office building for Salem, of at least six stories He favored an old age pension.

He proposed abolition of the elected service commission, and creation of one to be appointed by the governor. He asked for funds for an investigation of the Paccific Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Corbett Unopposed.

STATE HOUSE, SALEM, Ore., Jan. 10.—With Henry L. Corbett, of Portland, as president of the senate and John H. Carkin of Medford, as speaker of the house, the 34th legislative assembly convened here this forenoon at 10 o'clock.

Both houses convened a full hour earlier than usual for the opening day in order that a joint session might be held at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon to hear the messages of outgoing and incoming governors. Both will broadcast their messages at Portland tonight.

When time for election of president of the senate arrived on the organization program Senator Harry W. Corbett of Portland was placed in nomination by Senator Moser, who was president two years ago. The nomination was seconded by Senator Strayer, Democrat, of Baker, and no opposition candidate appeared.

The following senate officers were elected without opposition: John P. Hunt, of Woodburn, chief clerk; Mrs. Elizabeth Glatt, of Woodburn, assistant chief clerk; M. J. Hardesty, of Clatsop county, reading clerk; Albert Goddard, of Pendleton, calendar clerk; Colonel W. G. D. Mercer, sergeant-at-arms; door-keeper, H. T. Bruce, of Washington county, and mailing clerk, Lane Morely, of Salem.

In the house Carkin was elected speaker unanimously.

Paul B. Burris of Salem, was elected chief clerk with Harry McClallan of Roseburg, for assistant chief clerk.

Bert Gooding of Portland was elected calendar clerk.

Elbert Bede of Cottage Grove was elected reading clerk.

Joe Singer, who has been sergeant-at-arms, beyond the political life span of most men, was renamed to the post.

Rolla Southwick of Salem was chosen doorkeeper.
