We also recommended the purchase by the fire department of some additional equipment. This will be taken up with the representative of the manufacturers of our fire apparatus who is expected here soon.

There were five arrests by the police force during the week: 1 for disorderly conduct, 1 for assault and battery, and 3 for traffic violations.

The total of stock were impounded of lost in the mountains of Michoacan, has almost been discontinued, with the location of treasure still a mystery. It was reported that Garcia buried much of his loot in a labyrinthine cave near Peniamillo, Michoacan, and the people of that village for months have maintained an enthusiastic but futile search for it. A similar search was made in the state of Durango where Tomas Urbina, another bandit, was said to have hidden a large amount of stolen goods.

THRILLING PRIZE FIGHT IS STAGED IN "SPORTING LIFE"

One of the most exciting ring battles ever shown in any motion picture is that in which Lord Woodstock fights a victorious battle himself after the man he had wagered upon had been drugged by his enemies. This is one of numerous thrilling scenes in Maurice Tourneur's fine picturization of "Sporting Life," the famous English melodrama, which will be shown at the Arcade theatre tomorrow and Sunday.

John, Earl of Woodstock, is a young British nobleman who is harassed by debt. He is a thorough sportsman and when Joe Lee, a gypsy prize fighter is matched, Lord Woodstock bets every dollar he can raise on him. But Woodstock has a powerful enemy who causes Lee to be doped by the father of the girl he had wrecked and Woodstock, in order to save his wagers, enters the ring himself and fights a victorious battle.

It also develops that Lord Woodstock has backed his mare, Lady Love, to win the Derby and to beat him, his enemy gets into action again and has Lady Love stolen. Then, to clinch his villiny, he kidnaps Woodstock and circulates the report that he is dead. Both master and horse are rescued in time and when Lady Love wins the Derby, Woodstock cashes in to the tune of many thousands of pounds.

The picture is one of unusual thrill and expectancy. The love element is provided by Lord Woodstock who loves Norah Cavanaugh, a daughter of his chief trainer and when he gets into trouble with she staying him in the face, Norah saves him. The photoplay was produced under the direction of M. Tourneur and the results have been highly effective.

PRISCILLA DEAN IN "THE WICKED DARLING"

Priscilla Dean, the fastest rising star in the photoplay firmament, is coming to La Grande in another of her Universal Special attractions. This one is called "The Wicked Darling," and will play the Star theatre on Saturday and Sunday. Anyone who has not enjoyed this star's vivid and versatile personality has not seen her. And anyone who has not seen her is to be pitied. But it is not too late. See "The Wicked Darling" and join the circle of Priscilla admirers. You will be the two million and oneth. The succession of "Kiss or Kill" and "The Wildcat of Paris" will be made into a wonderful trio by the addition of "The Wicked Darling." And there are more just as good to follow.

"The Wicked Darling" is the story of a girl who tried to keep back in the straight and narrow path because she, all of a sudden, had learned to love a man who trod that path unswervingly. He did not know she had been a thief, and above all, he did not know she had the pearl necklace she had stolen from his fiancee still in her possession. She was afraid to give it back, lest he find out about her. And then an old associate in crime sold the man after all.

Well, that's all of the story you ought to know until you see it. Evelyn Campbell wrote the story and Tod Browning directed it. And see this: Lon Chaney, Sportiswood Aitken and Wellington Playter are all in the cast. 'Nuff said.

Some stores give quality first consideration, others consider price first. We consider both at the same time.

When we offer you a necktie at 50 cents, or a hat at $4.95, you may feel sure that it's the best quality for the price on the market.

The fact that a big percentage of buyers come back for additional supplies when in need of them is a good sign of satisfactory dealing.
