EPISCOPALIANS TO MEET IN DETROIT

Three Important Changes in Church Matter to Come Before the Convention

DETROIT, Mich, Oct. 2.—Revision of the Book of Common Prayer of the Episcopal church, adoption of a new canon touching church unity, and revision of the canon on matrimony are three of the most important matters to be brought to the attention of the delegates at the triennal convenion of the church that will open here October 8. It is an gates and many of the leading churchmen of this and other countries will attend the convention, which will last two weeks or longer.

The proposed revision of the canon on matrimony would make it impossible for an Episcopal clergyman to remary divorced persons, or to the innocent part to a divorce. It has been anticipated that this question will proroke much debate. The proposed new canon on church unity, it is stated, would make it possible for a minister of another communion to be ordained in the Episcopal church without first giving up his original affiliation. The revision and modernization of the prayer books is expected to take much of the time of the gathering.

During the convention daily meetings on social service are to be held, and the Church League for Social and Industrial Democracy will complete its organization with Bishop Charles D. Williams of Detroit, its leader.

Representatives of capital and labor will be invited to give their views in the open forum meetings on social service, preliminary to the launching of the new league. The purpose of the league, it is stated, is a country-wide educational propaganda for better cooperation of all walks of human life "for a state of society in which man will get all he earns and earn all he gets, where no man will live on the fruits of another man's labor and no one will be denied the fruits of his own labor."

Church leaders anticipate that the question of open sessions of the house of bishops will again come before the convention as it has the past score of years. The proposal lost by one vote at a recent convention of the bishops.

Imperfect Vision In A School Child

often entails more than mere eyestrain. It must be remembered that trouble from imperfect seeing school work, comes not only from seeing words and figures wrongly but also from fatigue of the brain caused by eyestrain. Twenty-five per cent of children have defective vision. Frequently a bashful child fails to tell the teacher he cannot see the blackboard easily and so is unable to do his work—is accused of neglect and falls behind in classes—all because of lack of proper eye care. If your child has defective vision have it corrected by an Optometrist. Our equipment is the most modern in the optical Science.

Thickness

Before deciding on your next tire, have your dealer show you cross-sections of the various makes you are considering—so that you can measure the total thickness of the rubber and fabric used in building up the various makes.

You will find that Michelin Tires embody more of these mileage-giving materials. In the 34x4 Michelin Universal, for example, there is a solid though flexible mass of wear-resisting rubber and fabric almost an inch thick.

And every bit of the materials used is of the highest quality. Yet Michelins are moderate in price.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR CONFERENCE ON MONDAY.

QUESTION OF RAILROAD ATTENDANCE UNSETTLED

President Shea, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen, Said the Railroad Organizations Are Acting Together But Have Not as Yet Reached a Decision.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Arrangements for the opening Monday of the industrial labor conference called by President Wilson, were virtually completed tonight with only the question whether the railroad unions would send delegates unsettled.

With the transportation workers represented, many officials think the value of the conference will be reduced because of the tremendous part played by the rail men in the economic life of the country. There is not a question, however, but that the conference will begin Monday afternoon as planned.

President Shea, of the Brotherhood of Railway Firemen, was the only executive in Washington. He said the railroads were acting together and that no decision as to whether they would send delegates has been reached. He was in communication with the other unions. It was intimated that the railroad unions would appear at conference because of their interest as organized labor.

Captain Everett May, who was France during a great part of the war, and has had practical experience with the roads of Belgium and France sees the military necessity for a road system in this county and gives his views in a readable way in support of the proposed road improvement program.

Good Roads From Military Standpoint

"There is no person who was fortunate enough to spend a part of his army career in Europe who will not support the 'good roads' movement. We frequently hear argument concerning "Who won the war." There are some who say the British, some say France, and still others say America turned the trick. We hear that the British navy was responsible, still others say that the air force played the deciding role.

"Ask any man who has been at the front, who has seen the great volume of traffic which is necessary to carry on a war, who has been hauled from one front to another by means of French trucks in truck trains where hundreds of trucks were employed, who has hiked over half of Belgium and a good portion of France with a sixty-pound pack on his back during the winter season, and he will tell you that, had it not been for the good roads of Europe the war certainly would not have ended when it did.

Roads Help Win War.

"Had France had such roads as we have in the U. S., The American army could never have functioned as it did. It would have been impossible to get the necessary artillery into position, ammunition and ration trucks would have been useless, ambulances loaded with wounded never would have reached the hospitals. Naturally, we hope never to have to use the good roads of this country for military purposes but, who knows that it will not be necessary. Why did the government, only recently, send out military inspectors and engineers to all hospitals, and hotels, to ascertain the condition of roads, carrying capacity of all road bridges, etc., throughout the country? Those men were right here in La Grande. Suppose
