CRIME LAID TO YOUTHS

Rev. C. E. Vermilya, frontier secretary of the M. E. church, preached an interesting sermon to a large crowd at the local M. E. church Sunday morning. The topic of his sermon was the crime wave that has spread over the entire nation. He said that sociologists and criminologists had discovered beyond a doubt that the crime wave was not the result of hardened criminals' work, but that we had to deal with youthful criminals. To prove his point he quoted police records from many eastern cities and cited individual cases to prove his contentions. One interesting case of this kind was that of a girl of high school age in Minneapolis who presented a revolver with three notches in court, having got away, as she said, three men. Her partner in crime was a football player of that city. Social and industrial unrest is such now that it will never be able to get back to the industrial situation before the war, he said. New conditions and a new state of mind must be met. There will be no other relief, in his opinion, than spreading the gospel of "love thy God with all thy might and love ty neighbor as thyself."

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL TEAM IS DEFEATED BY BIG SCORE.

Visitors Have Improved Much Since Local Boys Last Had Chance To See What They are Like

The basketball season for the La Grande high school ended in a decisive defeat at the hands of the Wallowa big school team. The score stood 21 to 7 when the game ended. Wallowa's team picked up considerably since the local boys last met them and there was no getting around the fact that the visitors had a good team.

The local boys simply couldn't get started Saturday night. They may have been a bit over-confident and were undoubtedly surprised at the change in the visitors since the early part of the season.

The result of this game in no way changes the standing of the local team in Eastern Oregon. Baker is conceded first place and La Grande has second place, which, at least gives the local team an enviable standing.

Black and Christian played forward, Horstman and Thieson, guard, and Bean center, Saturday night.

THE DAIRY

WATER IS PRIME REQUISITE

Labor of Watering Stock Can Be Practically Eliminated by Installing Automatic Bowls.

Many dairy farmers are still depending on their hired help to lead the cows to the watering trough for water during the times they are confined to their stalls, depending on the workman to remember when a cow may need water and requiring much of the man's valuable time in watering the stock.

The labor of watering the stock can be practically eliminated and at the same time the milk production of the cow increased by installing sanitary automatic watering bowls.

Most dairy farmers realize the importance of an abundance of pure water for the cow, but do not realize the cost of labor consumed in watering the cow, nor the importance of the cow getting her drink just when she wants it, says Dairy Farmer.

About 87 per cent of the milk is water. A cow requires 8 gallons of water to produce 10 gallons of milk, besides the water she needs for her body. She requires 2½ pounds of water for each pound of milk produced. Why supply high-priced feed to increase milk production and neglect to give her sufficient water?

In answer to letters sent to dairy farmers in 35 states using various makes of water bowls, which will allow the cow to drink at any time, 65 replies stated that there was a saving of labor ranging from one-half hour to five hours per day. An approximate average of these would be about 1½ hours, depending upon the size of the herd.

DAIRY CATTLE NEED SILAGE

Succulence It Supplies Is Very Necessary for Large Milk Production —Cheapest of Feeds.

Silage is the best and cheapest form in which to store succulent feed. Many forage crops can be made into silage, but corn, where it can be grown successfully, makes the best silage.

Good silage depends upon cutting the crop at the right stage, fine cutting, even distribution, thorough packing and plenty of moisture in the cut material. When rightly put up and carefully fed, there should be little if any loss through spoiling.

Silage is well suited for feeding to all live stock. Dairy cows need it perhaps more than other classes of animals, because the succulence it supplies is very necessary for large milk production. It is a cheap and economical feed for beef cattle from breeding cow to fattening steer. Sheep like it, and it is well suited to their needs. Even horses and mules may be fed limited quantities of good silage with excellent results.

OBTAIN PROFIT IN DAIRYING

Feed Prices Have Slumped While Price of Butter Still Remains at High Figure in Cities.

Feed prices down 50 per cent or more and butterfat prices still high should mean that men who are now milking cows or who get into the dairy business will make money. Corn and alfalfa have made decided drops in price, while butter is still retailing around 60 cents a pound in these cities. Hence the best way to market these two feeds would appear to be through stock, especially milk cows. A few good milk cows, with feed as cheap as it now is, assures an income and should mean a good profit.

FAULT IN CREAM SEPARATOR

Often Happens That Foreign Matter Lodges in Screw Causing Decrease in the Flow.

If the flow from the cream spout of the separator seems smaller than ordinarily, it usually pays to investigate. In spite of all precautions, it often happens that foreign matter lodges in the cream screw thus causing part of the cream to be retained with the skim milk. A test of the skimmilk will tell.

Gloried in His Toughness.

Dick came into the kitchen one morning, and it was evident from his general appearance he had been with a boy equally aggressive. His mother looked at him in horror as, with his cap pulled down over a blackened eye and his little fists clenched, he said, "Oh, I tell you, mamma, I'm a tough guy."

Take Time to Enjoy Walk.

One fault in those who walk for pleasure is hurry. Why hasten as if to catch a car? Why strive to be first at the goal—and miss the joy of the eye? Walk leisurely, not dawdling, but steadily, and thus enjoy the quiet and the change of environment. —Detroit Free Press.

Did He Get It?

Awry was in the habit of asking his uncle for pennies. To break him of the habit his uncle told him he would give him pennies sometimes, but never when he asked for them. One day Awry went to his uncle's room, got down on the floor and said, "Uncle Albert, I'm just looking for a penny."
