La Grande Theatres

"Scaramouche" to Again Be Seen On Screen Here.

"Scaramouche," a Rex Ingram production for Metro Pictures corporation, adapted from Rafael Sabatini's novel of the same name will come to the Sherry theater for two days beginning today. This picture, a feature in ten reels, has played special engagements in the larger cities.

Ingram has surpassed his production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" with this picture.

"Scaramouche" is a story of the French Revolution. It tells the romance of Andre-Louis Moreau (Ramon Novarro) and Aline de Kercadiou (Alice Terry). Andre-Louis has been brought up in the word of Aline's uncle, the Marquis de la Tour d'Azyr (Lewis Stone), a haughty aristocrat and man of fashion, killed Andre-Louis' friend, Philippe, because of his revolutionary sentiments, and on the Marquis Andre-Louis has sworn eternal vengeance. To make matters worse the Marquis is courting Aline.

The thirty principal characters in "Scaramouche" include besides Ramon Novarro, Lewis Stone and Alice Terry, who were the principals that appeared in Ingram's "Prisoner of Zenda," Lloyd Ingraham, Julia Swayne Gordon and Edith Allen.

Willis Goldbeck adapted the story to the screen, the photoplay was by John F. Seitz, Carl Rothfeld was production manager and Grant Whytock editor. Costumes were designed by O'Kane Cornwell and Evamay Roth and executed by Van Horn.

Every once in a while there suddenly appears on the film horizon a motion picture that offers something new in the way of a story and theme. Originality in photoplays, as regards plot is mighty rare, and for that very reason "Sinners in Heaven," the new Paramount picture, which comes to the Star theater today deserves to be singled out for special and honorable mention.

To many film fans the title of this screenplay has a familiar and reminiscent sound. That's because it was adapted by James Creelman from the powerful novel of the same name by Clive Arden who had the coveted honor of having this story adjudged the prize-winner in the English book competition of last year.

Alan Crosland, who produced the picture, has many directorial triumphs to his credit, but it is no exaggeration to say that he has surpassed all of his previous efforts with "Sinners in Heaven."

An indication of the extreme care that went into the making of this cinema may be seen in the array of screen talent that has been assembled for the various roles. Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix have the two featured roles, while the supporting cast includes Holmes Herbert, Montague Love and others.

Arthur Train's Big Novel of New York Life Pictured.

Early in 1923, a sensational novel appeared in the New York book market. Within four months it had swept the country and taken the position of the second best seller in the book stores to date. This author was new to most of the public, but today he is more talked of than any one in the literary field.

Arthur Train, a new York attorney, jumped into the limelight over night with "His Children's Children." Mr. Train's book from his standpoint is not a work of fiction. He wrote one of the world's greatest novels out of personal experience he had pieced together from his years of law practice in New York City. The characters he wrote of were characters he had encountered. Many of his experiences were personal and he knows New York as few authors know it. And this has been picturized by Paramount.

It is a story of New York's degenerate generations. It is a story of three generations of New Yorkers. It asks the question boldly, if this is a sample of what we find in New York's upper strata then what is New York really coming to? Vital pictures of New York life are always interesting. It is not a picture of New York cabaret or New York night life. These are only incidental.

It is the story of a family from the first generation to the third—of human happiness—of human weaknesses—human strength. It tells of moral and mental decay, but in a clean, gripping, vivid manner. It is just as modern as the five star edition of today's newspapers. Its theme of modern life is the theme of "The Covered Wagon" in the days of '49.

It shows how the great fortune of a pioneer railroad builder — a typical American figure — a fortune won in rapacity and brutality — reacts through a young second generation, and shatters the whole family to pieces in the third generation, the jazz generation. It is not only one of the most sensational and melodramatic novels of recent times, but it is the truest indictment of American society penned since the first works of Theodore Dreiser.

A remarkable picturization by Paramount of this novel will be shown at the Arcade today, Saturday and Sunday. Sam Wood was the producer and Monte Katterjohn made the adaptation. The featured players are Reb. Daniels, Dorothy Mackaill, James Rennie and George Fawcett. The supporting cast is one of the best assembled in any picture.

Section of Historic Elm Given to Filipino People

MANILA, (AP) — A section of the old elm tree in Cambridge, Mass., under which Gen. George Washington took command of the American army on July 3, 1775, has been donated to the Filipino people by the board of park commissioners of that city, and will be preserved in the Philippine Library and Museum.

A letter from the governor general's office transmitting the gift to the library says:

"Attached hereto is a piece of wood donated to the people of the Philippine Islands by the board of park commissioners of Cambridge, Mass., which is a part of the tree under which General Washington first took command of the American army July 3, 1775. The governor general directs that this piece of wood be enclosed in a glass case and given the position of prominence to which it is entitled by reason of its historic association."

SAYS ALLENRHU SURELY CONQUERS RHEUMATISM

Mr. James T. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers.

"The blessed relief this marvelous prescription quickly gives has made for it thousands of friends," says the Red Cross Drug Co., which has been appointed agent in your city. It is Mr. Allen's own discovery. Mail orders accepted.—Adv.
