Maps Are Momentary

BOUNDARIES are funny things. A child's conception of a boundary is a line across the landscape separating the yellow territory from the pink. A farmer's conception of a boundary—a Maine farmer who lives across the line from the village of Escourt in Quebec—is a horsefly inside his shirt.

The Canadian parliament has been asked to negotiate for the annexation of five square miles of American territory on the edge of that line. One hundred persons of French Canadian descent are the inhabitants of the area. The farmers, cut off from the rest of Maine by some 50 to 75 miles of dense forest, have to sell their products in Canada and purchase their supplies there. Duties hit them in the neck coming and going.

These people know better what a political boundary is than the millions who live removed from such frontiers. A boundary is the shadow of the edge of a sphere of power, and no more real than a shadow.

Men are not separated by shadows. The people who live in the juggled territories of Europe know what men are separated by. Greed, pride, and lack of imagination. The real boundaries are the boundaries in the mind.

At some remote time in the future the shadows may go, when the boundaries in the mind are gone.

Reflections on Ditto

THERE was an interesting story in a Philadelphia paper the other day.

A peacock roaming around in the city zoo encountered a penny scale that bore a mirror. The bird looked into the mirror and thought he had discovered an enemy. That was sad. He rushed at the scale with murder in his heart and almost killed himself. When he rose from the ground he looked at the mirror again and discovered the other bird still standing.

But, being a bird, and not having man's intelligence, he refused to believe what he saw, so he went right back to his old position and started in killing himself again.

There was an incresting story in a New York paper the other day.

It was on the financial page. "Students of conditions who have pored through the statistical records of the last few months," it read in part, "find nothing to stand in the way of a general recovery in business and industry . . . Inventories are far below year-end figures . . . prices of raw materials are at the lowest for several years . . . There are unusually few distress signals flying . . . On the other hand, business psychology is still gloomy . . ."

Why not try keeping your eyes off the mirror for a while?

of a Washington strawberry fete.

Whereupon Portland's Mayor Carson balks at kissing the drum majorette of a Pasadena band marching in the Rose Festival parade.

What's happening to these mayors, anyway? Are they deliberately relinquishing all their perquisites of office?

IT'S just possible, of course, that these mayors may have figured it out that the gals wouldn't even think of kissing them out in the quiet moonlight, with no photographers around.

If that's true, it may be a sign that public officials are really beginning to THINK.

SPEAKING of Seattle, they have a baker's strike on up there, and it is reported that housewives are experimenting with the baking of bread in their own kitchens.

That raises this question: How long has it been since YOU tasted home-made bread?

IF your grandmother had been told that her granddaughter probably wouldn't know how to bake bread, she'd have had a duck fit, wouldn't she? The world has changed since grandmother's day.

NOTED WORKER IN WAR RELIEF DIES

LONDON, June 6.—(AP)—Lady Muriel Paget, 61, pioneer in Russian relief work who denied an accusation of having worked for the British intelligence service, died in her sleep during the night.

Lady Muriel, wife of Sir Arthur Surtees Paget, founded the British Subjects in Russia Relief association, organized the Anglo-Russian hospital in Petrograd during the world war and conducted post-war relief work in many countries. She was made a commander of the order of the British empire.

In the March trial of 21 accused rightist-Trotskyist plotters, one of the defendants, Christian Rakovsky, former ambassador to London and Paris, testified that in 1934 Lady Muriel tried to get him to resume work for the British intelligence service.

Lady Muriel in a denial, said she never had worked as a spy.

NEW STREET MARKER ON ROSEBURG JOB

Purchase of a new street marking machine by the city of Roseburg has provided the street department with equipment to mark center lines and pedestrian lanes on the main business streets. Members of the city street department have been working during early morning hours, in periods of light traffic, to complete the marking and thereby save interference with traffic during the day.

FUNDS FOR FLOOD CONTROL SOUGHT

Allotment for Dams and Power Will Be Asked by Rep. Rankin.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—An allotment of up to $300,000,000 in relief-public works funds will be asked of President Roosevelt for the flood control program approved finally yesterday by the senate.

His intention to urge that a substantial portion of funds in the relief bill be allocated to " . . . construction of dams to control floods, . . . and develop hydroelectric power" was declared by Representative Rankin (D., Miss.).

No money was appropriated in the flood control bill. It merely authorizes projects.

Prospects of relief fund allotments were enhanced by congressional approval of an amendment in the flood bill giving the federal government title to lands used for reservoirs and dams, legislators said.

The amendment, they added, was approved by President Roosevelt before its submission by Senate Majority Leader Barkley.

House leaders said there was only one section of the flood control bill to which the president might object. It gives the secretary of war and the federal power commission joint authority in determining hydroelectric potentialities in reservoir and dam projects. Administration leaders were reported to have preferred to give such authority to the commission alone.

SALMON DERBY'S PRIZES AWARDED

Awards in connection with the recent chinook salmon derby were announced today, following distribution of the prizes to the various winners. There were 61 fishermen registered in the contest, and the registration fee of $1 each was amplified by a like amount from the Powell Hardware company, headquarters for the derby, making $122 for distribution in cash. Powell's also donated $45 in merchandise.

Two awards were made by Powell's prior to the opening date of the derby. Walter Edmonds of Roseburg receiving $5 cash for the first salmon of the season, and Louise Dempsey, Roseburg, a reel for the most accurate guess on the weight of the first fish.

A prize of $5 for the first derby fish went to L. H. Crouch of Roseburg, while a casting reel was won by Roy Phillips, Roseburg, on his guess of the fish's weight.

Four weekly prizes of $12.65 were awarded for the largest fish and four second prizes of $6.35 were given. Winners of first prizes were Irvin Davis, Winchester; N. G. Williams, Roseburg; Alfred Hill, Wilbur, and Joe Davis, Winchester. Winners of second prizes were W. E. Sullivan, Roseburg; E. E. Woodcock, Roseburg; Calvin Henry, Wilbur, and Alfred Hill, Wilbur.

In the ladies' division, Ruby Chase of Portland received a Medallist reel for the largest salmon caught by a lady during the season, while second prize, a Newton tapered fly line, went to Louise Dempsey of Roseburg.

PENSION ADVOCATE DATES TALK HERE

The proposed amendment would pay every Oregon citizen over 50 years of age a pension of $25 per week. The plan will be fully explained by Mr. Coulter.

LETTERS to the Editor

BELITTLES EFFORTS TO MAINTAIN TOWNSEND PLAN

ROSEBURG, Ore., June 9.—Editor News-Review: Have read with much interest the letter from F. J. Austin of Corvallis:

He says: "It is reported that he—Dr. Townsend—lives at expensive places, much like a millionaire, travels by airplane, and makes no personal sacrifices for the cause—and spends the pennies, nickels and dimes of the poor Townsenders with lavish prodigacy."

That charge may be true, or it may not. However, if all the pennies, nickels and dimes paid in by the "old gray-headed men and women" were counted up, it would amount to an immense sum, since the Townsend plan was first conceived.

How these poor old people have hoped and believed in Townsend and his plan. How they have been exploited by younger people for their own selfish purposes.

We can understand why the politicians do this. The Townsend vote in Oregon is quite large—if it doesn't amount to anything elsewhere.

The truth of the matter is, that the Townsend plan is dead, with the exception of Oregon and rural California.

We would hate to see Mahoney sent to congress. He is of the type that Washington, our sister state, has been trying out, as congressmen. Hitherto, Oregon could be proud of her senators but from now on—what?

But there are other men besides politicians who keep urging these "old gray-haired men and women" in "walking the streets, getting signers for petitions, selling membership cards, getting subscribers for The Townsend Weekly, washing dishes late at night after some chicken dinner, and sending the money to national headquarters."

There is at least one man in Roseburg—an intelligent man—much too intelligent to believe in the myth called the Townsend plan. What is he—and others like him—"up to"? Wonder if some of that money "sent to headquarters" doesn't stick to their fingers. Or are they doing their little stunts just for the fun they get out of it—and the chicken dinners? Or perhaps just to hear themselves talking?

"Satan finds some mischief still, for idle hands to do."

The mischief here, being, of course, in keeping these "poor old gray-headed men and women" hoping—and working—for a hopeless cause.

And these old people NEED their "pennies, nickels and dimes."

They are being robbed—and those who are doing it will, in the end, receive the punishment they deserve.
