Lillard, Nurkic both score 22 as Blazers diffuse Rockets

The Associated Press

Damian Lillard and Jusuf Nurkic scored 22 points each, and the Portland Trail Blazers never trailed in a 104-85 trouncing of the struggling Houston Rockets on Tuesday night.

The Rockets dropped their fourth straight in their second game without James Harden, who is out with a hamstring injury, to fall to 1-5. After entering the season with eyes on a championship, the Rockets have rarely even been competitive, dropping their four home games by an average of more than 17 points.

Now they face a season-long five-game road trip where they'll likely be without Harden and fellow starter James Ennis (right hamstring) for at least the first game and possibly more.

Portland led by double digits most of the night and was up by 23 entering the fourth quarter. Houston got within 15 with about two minutes left, but that was it in front of a crowd which began steadily streaming out midway through the third quarter.

CJ McCollum added 19 points for the Trail Blazers, who improved to 5-2 with their second straight victory.

Chris Paul led Houston with 17 points and nine assists in his second game back after a two-game suspension for his role in a fight with the Los Angeles Lakers.

While getting Harden back will certainly give the Rockets a boost, Houston's problems extend beyond missing last year's MVP. The Rockets have been unable to get into any kind of rhythm on offense and look lost at times on defense. Their 3-pointers aren't falling, and when they get open looks, they seem to miss a lot of those, too.

The Rockets made just 10 of 43 3-pointers on a night they shot 32.3 percent overall.

Coach Mike D'Antoni insists his team will be good and that it just needs time to gel. But the man known for his fast-paced, high-flying offenses must be scratching his head at how he can get this team on track after such an awful start.

The Trail Blazers had a 15-point lead by halftime and used an 11-3 run to open the third quarter and extend it to 62-39. Nurkic had two dunks in that stretch, and Jake Layman capped the run with a 3-pointer.

Carmelo Anthony made a layup midway through the quarter to cut the lead to 21, but the Trail Blazers scored the next seven points to make it 76-48 about a minute later. The Rockets committed three fouls, missed two free throws and one basket in that stretch.

Senior Judges Russ West and Eric Valentine have viewed both judicial candidates in court. We support retaining Mona Kay Williams as Circuit Judge.

- She appeared in front of us many times, both as a private attorney and as a district attorney.
- She was well prepared, well versed in the law, and honest. She brought a fair, evenhanded application of the law to each individual case.
- She listened deeply. She was dedicated to victims' rights and community safety, as well as appropriate charging and sentencing of defendants, including rehabilitative progams for drug and alcohol addictions.
- She was a team player who worked well with community partners to improve the justice system.
- Now, as a sitting judge, she brings these attributes and a unique perspective that helps people listen and understand their rights, obligations, and responsibilities to lead productive lives.

We urge you to join us in voting to retain Mona Kay Williams as Circuit Court Judge
