BERGDOLL ASSERTS HIS LOVE FOR U. S.

War Slacker, Serving His Prison Sentence, Asks for "Fairness."

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, World war draft dodger, proclaimed his love for the United States today and expressed a hope he would have an opportunity sometime to show that he could be a "worthwhile part of this country."

Bergdoll, who finally surrendered to military authorities when he returned from Germany last week after 19 years of exile, sent out a plea from his cell on Governor's island the public treat him "as a matter of fairness," like any other prisoner "who is taking his punishment."

In a four-page statement, issued through his attorney, Harry Weinberger, the man who became notorious as the country's No. 1 "slacker" denied emphatically he had offered his services to Germany during the war.

"I was a conscientious objector at the time of the draft," he said.

Bergdoll said he had returned voluntarily to face a five-year jail sentence "because time has only increased my appreciation of what a free country really means.

"It was only when I realized that some of my children were approaching school age," he said, "that I knew poignantly that I wanted them to go to free schools, free from hate and free from religious hatred, free from regimentation and free in a democracy dedicated to liberty."

At the same time he emphasized "nothing in Germany or Europe had anything to do" with his desire to return.

"No one in Germany expected war and as an American citizen, I would not have been drafted," he said.

Suggesting some of his critics compare his plight with that of Edward Everett Hale's "the man without a country,"—although he reiterated he was "a native born American citizen," Bergdoll said:

"For all my faults of youth I have paid and am continuing to pay the penalty."

CLERGYMAN WARNS DEMOCRACY YOUTH

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 31.—(AP)—Warning that the new generation of democratic youth must express itself or totalitarian government will inherit the world, Rev. William P. Remington, bishop of eastern Oregon, last night outlined four objectives of a program of "moral rearmament" for youth.

He said the objectives were a leader, an ideology, discipline and organization.

The bishop cited the "good neighbor" policy of Canada and the United States as a definite step toward universal brotherhood.
