Abstainer

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—When Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary general, was asked to pose with Lana Turner at last night's U. N. anniversary, Lie courteously agreed, then asked, "Who is she?"

Informed she was a movie star, Lie said, "You know I haven't seen a movie in five years."

Stronger Silos Needed to Store Grass and Legumes

Increasing popularity of grass and legume silage throughout Western Oregon prompts M. G. Huber, extension agricultural engineer at O. S. C., to give a few suggestions and precautions regarding building new silos or preparing old ones for such use.

Grass and legume silage exerts pressures up to twice as much as ordinary corn silage, Huber explains, although most of the manufactured silos have ample strength whether they be made of wood, brick tile, concrete, metal or the new glass lined types. For home built silos, close checking of steel reinforcing according to size of silo is advised.

Old silos built for corn may need additional reinforcing before being filled with grass or legume silage, Huber adds. This applies particularly to wooden hoop silos which, where exposed to the weather, have been known to fail after nine or 10 years use. These may be reinforced with steel hoops.

Construction of new wooden hoop silos is not recommended for this region unless both staves and hoops are treated to prevent decay or are protected from the weather. Staves and wooden hoops frequently decay where they are joined together.

Telford and Sims were pitchers, and Marsters and Baird were catchers for the Indians; Smith was pitcher, Clemo catcher, for Elkton.

Tomorrow at 1 o'clock, the Indians face University High of Eugene in Roseburg.

Pickets were removed by the CIO earlier this week. The picket lines were set at a joint mill pond used by the two firms after Springfield plywood workers chose the AFL as bargaining agent.
