How to Remodel Last Year's Suit.

There are a good many modernizing touches which any home seamstress could give to last year's linen suit, and if you want to go to the expense of having a tailor remodel it he can do so in a way that will make it look like new.

This year, like every year, shows plenty of straight tailored coats, slightly double breasted, with regulation coat sleeves and notched collars. They are little different from the plain tailored coat of last year, excepting they bulge a little more perhaps about the waist. But the more elaborate coats are, most of them, single breasted, and any tailor could make a single breasted coat of a double breasted one by cutting away the old coat and inserting a figured silk, crepon or cretonne waistcoat or one of contrasting material in plain color.

These little waistcoats, reaching a little below the waist and ending in points or belted into a belt of the same material, which hooks or buttons loosely, are seen in many of the new coats. They are stitched at the edges to make them flat and to help them keep their shape, and they are generously decorated with tiny pearl buttons or with soutaching in silk braid.

Another modernizing touch is the binding of silk braid. Many an old coat really looks well excepting that it has sagged a little about the bottom, and the edges look worn or shiny from laundering. Many of the new coats are bound about the edge with braid, which also binds the collars and cuffs and which is stitched down one or two seams of the skirts. The old coat could be trimmed where it has sagged so that it is even again and then bound with braid, either black or of a darker shade of the color of the suit.

The braid binding, of course, makes washing of the linen suit difficult. Dry cleaning can be as easily applied to the braid as to the linen. A black satin collar, another popular feature of many of the season's suits, with cuffs to match, helps to make it unnecessary to wash it, and, for that matter, so does the braid binding, for it is always the collars and cuffs and the edges of the coat which first show soil.

HOW TO ARRANGE A BUTTERFLY PARTY.

At this season of the year, when country places are looking their prettiest, why not have the children's party out of doors? Instead of boisterous games a butterfly hunt would be a pleasant form of entertainment.

Butterflies of all colors may be made of paper and hidden in the shrubbery, among the flowers and in other places that will suggest themselves. Have one golden butterfly concealed in an especially good place.

Give each child a bag made of tulle or muslin and tell her to hunt for the butterflies. Have a prize for the one finding the greatest number and one particular prize for the child discovering the golden butterfly.

Refreshments served on the porch will please the little folks and may be made appropriate for the occasion.

How to Clean a Carafe.

Every housekeeper who owns a cut glass carafe has been up against the proposition of cleaning out the deposit on the inside. Hot water, besides being extremely bad for the glass, is of little avail, even if it be very soapy. Here is a process which takes but a few moments and is very satisfactory: Place in the bottle a teaspoonful of hydrochloric acid or spirits of salts; manipulate the bottle so that every portion of it shall be thoroughly rinsed. The deposit, no matter how hardened, will be removed immediately. When the carafe has been thoroughly cleaned rinse well in clear water.

How to Make Raspberry Sauce.

For this use one pint of raspberry juice, two teaspoonfuls of flour or one of cornstarch, one-half cupful of sugar and four eggs. Beat the eggs well and mix the flour with a little water till smooth, then put all into a saucepan with the sugar and the juice. Set in another pan of boiling water and stir constantly till the sauce thickens. A few crushed berries may be added if desired. This is a good sauce for use with any simple pudding.

How to Clean Silver Quickly.

Put a handful of salt or soda in any aluminium vessel (pan or dish), place the silver to be cleaned in this dish, cover with water, lift out and rub dry with linen towel. The silver will be brighter than if silver paste or polish were used, and this method takes less time.

How to Embroider Buttonholes.

If the large eyelets in French embroidery are first worked in outline stitch, as one would a stem, and then cut out and embroidered they will hold their shape much better.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

How to Guard Against Tuberculosis.

Avoid badly ventilated, badly lighted, dusty, dirty, overheated, crowded or damp rooms.

Breathing dust, notably house dust, often causes disease.

Have no tacked down carpets and mattings. Have loose pieces of rugs and clean them frequently outdoors.

Keep lower sashes closed while sweeping or dusting. Open upper sashes.

Never sweep rooms with a broom that raises dust.

Drink pure water.

Avoid water from shallow and unprotected wells and from ponds and streams.

If in doubt boil the water.

Avoid public drinking cups.

Tuberculosis, typhoid fever and other diseases are often caused by drinking dirty raw milk and raw cream.

Investigate your dairyman.

Patronize the dealer with clean, up to date methods.

Take a bath or sponge daily and a warm bath, followed by a cold splash, plunge or shower, once or twice a week or oftener.

Use soap freely.

Wash your hands before handling food.

Don't put fingers, money, paper or pencils in your mouth.

Don't bite your finger nails.

Clean your teeth morning and evening.

Don't eat raw food that was exposed to flies or dust or touched by unclean hands. Fruits or vegetables so exposed should first be rinsed or washed thoroughly.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Treatment of Scalp.

To stimulate the hair roots and scalp and to improve the circulation of the blood grasp a lock of hair close to the scalp and pull firmly in a kind of jerky fashion, but not too hard, of course. Begin at the front and go all over the head to the back. If the hair is already falling some persons hesitate to pull at the scalp, but their fears are groundless, because when a hair is separated from its papilla it is practically dead, and it is better to have it come out as soon as possible, as it only delays the growth of the new hair coming in its place.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Pain in the Ear.

Do not pour hot oil into the ear to relieve pain. Heat can be applied much better in a hot mixture of glycerin, alcohol and water, which will not turn rancid or clog up the ear and can be removed by syringing with water.

A towel or large pad of gauze wrung out in boiling water and closely applied over the ear, covered with oil silk or protective rubber tissue, is better than a hot water bag. This is because more or less steam from the moist cloth enters the ear and softens the tissues which are inflamed.

A still better and almost infallible way to relieve pain in the ear is to invert a funnel over a bowl of boiling hot water and let the steam from the small end of the funnel pass into the ear as hot as it can be borne.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

For Hard Hands.

When the hands are dry and red either from housework or cold bran water will be found very soothing. To obtain the water put bran into a cotton bag and boil for twenty minutes. When necessary to wash the hands during the day use the bran water, diluting with hot or cold water, as desired. If this is persisted in it will keep the hands smooth and white.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Give Your Stomach a Rest.

Give your stomach a good rest by eating plain salads or fruits or fresh green stuff, cutting out tea and coffee, soda water and other destroyers and drink all the water you can pour down and watch the effect. After this internal cleansing you can eat what nature intended you to eat—meats, vegetables, fish, eggs and whatever you really crave. Men cannot make rules that go contrary to nature. Fads are symptoms of diseased stomachs or the outgrowth of some individual idiosyncrasy. There are no brain foods, no muscle building tablets, no nerve strengtheners that can be made to take the place of a varied diet. Every bit of food contains elements which are taken up by the blood and distributed to the body.
