NEW FISHING METHOD

WHEELER, Aug. 11. — (AP) — Fishermen Kenneth Dickey and Billie Klein caught a six-pound salmon by a brand new method here.

They were fishing in Nehalem bay when an eagle dropped toward shallow water, seized a salmon, carried it to a sand spit, and began to eat it.

The anglers drove the eagle away and added the fish to their bag.

They did not, however, enter it in the current salmon derby as a catch.

American railroads, in shipping perishables, use approximately one-third of all ice made in the country.
