As a guarantee for the annuities, Germany proposed the pledging of the federal railway system, capitalized at 10,000,000,000 marks, while a further 10,000,000,000 marks would be guaranteed by a gold five per cent mortgage on the entire business, industrial, banking, trade, traffic and agriculture of the country. Certain customs and excise duties also were proposed as pledges.

This offer was never formally acted upon by the allies.

Feeding the Issue

Mrs. Carter dropped in at the office for a few minutes' chat with her husband.

"John," she remarked, "I think you had better discharge that stenographer you have now, I am sure she has been trying to flirt with you ever since she has been here."

Mrs. Carter, when she said this, thought the stenographer was safely out of hearing—but she wasn't! She stepped to the door of the private office and vented her indignation:

"Madam, I'll have you to know that I wouldn't flirt with your old husband for a million dollars!"

Mrs. Carter was aghast.

"Now, John," she exclaimed, "you simply must discharge that girl! She has insulted you!"—Kansas City Star.

Umpire in the Grandstand

A northern man, spending the summer in the south, went to see the last game of a series between two local teams. For a time he could not observe any umpire, but at last he spied him sitting up in the grandstand among the spectators.

"Great guns, man!" the northerner exclaimed to a native, "What's the umpire doing up in the grandstand?"

"Well," the native explained, "the spectators used to accuse him of bum work so much, that he allowed that if the folks up in the grandstand could see every play so durned good, he'd better go up there to do his umpirin'."—Everybody's Magazine.

DEATH OF JAP PREMIER OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED

NEW PREMIER IS NOTED

Kato's Death Commonly Ascribed to Cancer by Japanese Press; Illness Long Continued

(By The Associated Press)

TOKIO, Aug. 24.—Baron Tomosaburo Kato, premier of Japan, died today at 12:30 p. m., according to an official announcement.

The noted Japanese statesman had been suffering from a complication of maladies since his return from the Washington conference and the tremendous amount of work done by him at the great peace meeting is believed by many to have been partly responsible for his illness. It is known that he had been under the care of doctors virtually ever since his return to Japan.

Ill Health Realized

Although suffering most of the time, Baron Kato attempted to transact the business of his important office, but from the beginning of this summer he has been unable to attend to official affairs. Recently leaders of the government realized the premier could not continue because of his health and there has been much speculation as to his successor.

While the exact cause of the Premier's death was not announced, the Japanese press, with some show of authority, has been stating that he suffered from cancer.

Farewell Present Made

Upon the announcement of Baron Kato's death the emperor sent the traditional farewell present of wine. No announcement has yet been made of the funeral arrangements. Already messages of condolence have been received from all parts of the world.

Viscount Yasuya Uchida, minister of foreign affairs, was appointed premier ad interim and will serve until a new cabinet is formed. Besides Uchida, among those prominently mentioned for the premiership are Count Gombee Yamamoto, a former premier, and retired admiral; Governor Denofformsa, governor Saito of Korea and Baron Nobuaki Makino, a member of the house of peers who has held cabinet portfolios and diplomatic posts.

Viscount Uchida has long been one of the notable men of Japan. He was born in 1865 and was an attache of the Japanese legation at Washington in 1887. In 1890 he became personal secretary to Count Mutsu, minister of agriculture and commerce and later held a similar post at the foreign office.

Uchida Record Excellent

In 1893 he was made secretary to the legation in London and served in a similar post at Peking from 1895 to 1898. He was promoted to the directorship of the political bureau and then made vice minister of foreign affairs. He was nominated to be a minister to Vienna in 1907 and made ambassador to the United States in 1909. He was made minister of foreign affairs in 1912 and in 1918, served as ambassador and minister to Petrograd.

TURKISH COSTS GIVEN

BRITAIN EXPENDS MILLIONS OF POUNDS ON OCCUPATION

(Correspondence of Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 25.—It has cost England £29,115,000 sterling for the occupation of Constantinople and the adjacent area since the armistice in 1918, Premier Baldwin told the house of commons recently.

These figures, he added, did not represent the extra cost to the taxpayer of the occupation, since the greater part of the occupying forces would otherwise have been employed elsewhere. The extra cost was estimated at £16,000,000 sterling. The premier further stated that the allied governments have decided to forego any claim against Turkey for the cost of occupation of Turkish territory.

W. C. T. U. TO CELEBRATE

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY IS MARKED BY JUBILEE

(Correspondence of Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 25.—The Women's Christian Temperance Union will celebrate the 50th year of its existence by coming back to the state that gave it birth—Ohio—for its annual convention.

It was just about a half century ago that "Mother" Thompson at Hillsboro, Ohio, surrounded herself with a band of militant women intent upon one thing: the putting out of business of liquor-selling establishments. From that informal organization grew the Women's Christian Temperance Union which now has organizations in every state of the United States and reaches into 57 foreign countries.

The "jubilee" convention will be held here September 4 to 14. Twelve hundred delegates will attend.

Important aspects of the meeting, which will have law enforcement as its theme, will include a possible pilgrimage to Hillsboro, a street pageant, and a "march of allegiance to our flag and country," in which 5000 women are expected to participate.

REPORT DAUGHERTY WILL QUIT COOLIDGE CABINET

H. M. Daugherty

The reports will not down in Washington that Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, of Ohio, is soon to leave the Coolidge cabinet. Mr. Daugherty was a close personal friend and political mentor of Mr. Harding and is said to have entered the cabinet only as a favor to Mr. Harding. His ill health will probably cause him to leave the office now that his chief is dead.

What's in a Name

A national city man went to see a doctor.

"Doc," said he, "if there is anything the matter with me, don't frighten me half to death by giving it a scientific name. Just tell me what it is in plain English."

"Well," said the doctor, "to be frank with you, you are just plain lazy."

"Thank you, doctor," sighed the patient, with relief. "Now give me a scientific name for it, so I can go home and tell the missus."—San Diego Union.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT IS NAMED COAL MEDIATOR

Government Action Provides Neutral Arbitrator

STARTS WORK AT ONCE

Selection Regarded a Happy One Since Pinchot Is Governor of Great Anthracite State

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—An avenue through which anthracite miners and operators might come together in further effort to reach a settlement of their existing differences was provided by President Coolidge today in the designation of Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania as special mediator.

Maintaining a conviction that suspension of hard coal production September 1 would be suicidal to both employe and operator, the government's action was said to be designed to provide a medium through which conciliatory influences on both sides might operate without damage to the strategic position of the dignity of either.

No Definite Proposal Made

After a luncheon conference at the White House Governor Pinchot returned to Harrisburg with the announced intention of getting in touch at once with representatives of the miner and operator groups. It was stated that no definite proposal had been evolved at the White House meeting and that Mr. Pinchot's first move probably will be to ascertain whether a basis for further discussion exists, despite the unequivocal tenor of the statements issued at the conclusion of the Atlantic City conference.

Describing the relations of Governor Pinchot to the federal authorities as solely co-operative, a spokesman for the President pointed out that his selection was a particularly happy one because the anthracite fields are located almost exclusively in Pennsylvania and because of the unusual legislative safeguards thrown around the industry by state laws.

COAL STOPPAGE EMERGENCY

Commission Says Co-operation of Government Imperative

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Stoppage of anthracite mining would constitute a public emergency, the coal commission said today in a formal statement, requiring the full co-operation of consumers with soft coal operators and all agencies of distribution, with all possible aid through executive action by federal and state governments.

A careful review of the situation, Chairman John Hayes Hammond said, led the commission to stilling to its belief that the stoppage of anthracite production would not be allowed to occur because of the vital interests of both miners and operators which would be irredeemably injured. On the other hand, he said, the government did not feel that the public interest would be served through another attempt on its part to intervene in the deadlock. If those who now control the mining and distribution of anthracite are to continue to think only of their own interests and not at all of the public's demand for coal, the statement said, "the coal commission feels that every measure should be taken to supply the domestic fuel needed in the homes of the great mass of consumers and especially of industrial workers throughout the East."

Hope For Last Minute Peace

Chaiman Hammond and other commission members said their hope in an eleventh hour settlement was based solely upon the view that neither side could afford to stop production.

Formal assurance has been received, Mr. Hammond said, from operators representing 90 per cent of the soft coal output, that those mines would increase production to meet the excess needs in a strike and that these supplies would be disposed of to the public at price levels to be determined "reasonable" by some delegated government agency.

Possibility of sympathetic action by bituminous miners has been considered by government observers, he said, but had been practically discounted when all the facts had been weighed.

Thee ommission's statement, in part, follows:

"In connection with the government's preparedness measures which have the direct purpose to make up with bituminous coal any possible anthracite shortage, the United States coal commission makes public its analysis of official statistics regarding the anthracite supply.

"In the first place, the anthracite mines have to date maintained so high a rate of shipment that by September 1 over 25,000,000 net tons of domestic sizes of anthracite will be in possession of the consumers or dealers. This supply, representing shipments from April 1 to August 31, is over 7,000,000 tons more than was distributed by December 31 last year and only about 17,000,000 tons less than the average supply on December 31 of the three years previously to the strike year.

Five Weeks' Surplus on Hand

"Any complete stoppage of anthracite mining on September 1 would thus involve a deficit of 17,000,000 tons of domestic sizes to be made up before the end of December, or a million tons a week. Indeed, with the present high rate of shipments continuing through this month, the supply on hand would be nearly 2½ million tos above the average o September 1, and a real deficit would not exist until after two weeks of shutdown. To that degree is the anthracite consuming territory prepared to face the threatened strike.

FILM STAR SAID TO BE VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS PLOT MENACE

Mary Miles Minter and her mother. Below: Sigrid Holmquist.

Mary Miles Minter, "Dresden Doll of the Movies," recently leased her Hollywood (Cal.) home to Sigrid Holmquist, actress, known as "the Swedish Mary Pickford." While Miss Holmquist, who looks remarkably like Miss Minter, was entertaining friends a revolver shot was fired at her, wounding a male guest. At another time alleged detectives insisted on searching the house. Later Miss Holmquist was awakened by intruders, with electric flashlights. It is believed Miss Minter is in the shadow of a well-defined plot to kill her, as part of the plot which ended in the murder of William Desmond Taylor. Miss Minter also broke into the news of the day when she announced she would postpone her suit for $1,000,000 against her mother until the latter's recovery from a serious operation she recently underwent. Miss Minter declares her mother obtained that sum from her while she was a minor, acting for a film concern.

STUDENT SUES "VOGUE"

SCULPTURED FIGURE PRINTED; HUSBAND QUITS WIFE

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. — Mrs. Theresa Lind, youthful art student, who recently engaged counsel to bring suit for $200,000 against her former instructor, A. Stirling Calder, sculptor, because of an alleged exhibition of a nude figure having a composite likeness to her head, after which her husband left her, today began suit in the supreme court for $50,000 against the Vogue company and Conde Nast, publisher of Vogue, a fashion magazine.

Publication in February of a photograph of the sculptured figure, "The Last Dryad," the complaint declared, "was a contributing cause for her husband's separation and held her up to public rdlicule and humiliation because of the undignified and objectionable posture" in which the statue was wrought.

Her husband is Charles U. Lind of Montclar, N. J. Two years ago, prior to her marriage, the 21-year-old art student posed for a bust cast, which was completed in September, 1921, and exhibited under the title, "a little sister of tragedy."

While admitting "The Last Dryad" has the head likeness posed by her, Mrs. Lind denies that she ever posed for the body of the figure and "never authorized superimposing her head likeness on the posed body of another."

JAPAN REJECTS RAIL PLAN

BRITISH IDEA DISAPPROVED; SOLE CONTROL WANTED

(By The Associated Press)

TOKIO, Aug. 24.—Japan objects strenuously to the recently announced plan of the foreign diplomatic corps at Peking, said to have been sponsored by the British legation, for the control of the Chinese railways by one foreign and one Chinese director.

The Japanese foreign office will propose to the Peking diplomatic corps a modification of the plan, suggesting that there should be a single Chinese director of the railways with foreign inspectors empowered to see that guards are paid from the revenue of the railways.

The Tokio newspapers, with the exception of the Jiji, are vehemently opposing what they term the British proposal on the ground that it is merely a stepping stone to international control of China. They state that this would be most unpopular in Japan, besides being contrary to the Washington agreement.

Reorganization of Chinese railway operation was proposed by the Peking diplomatic corps as a result of the Suchow bandit outrage in which a number of foreigners were kidnaped from the Shanghai-Peking express and held prisoners for more than a month. The plan was a part of a series of demands made on the Chinese government for the protection of foreigners traveling on railways in China.

WOMAN, 23, KNIFES MAN

"I HAVE KILLED A MAN" IS MESSAGE POLICE GET

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 24.—William Johnson, 25, was found dying on the floor of his apartment here late today by police who answered a telephone call for help. Above his heart was a knife wound which Mrs. Virginia Link, aged 23, said she had inflicted, according to the officer, who found her in the apartment when they entered. When Mrs. Link pointed out the wrong knife as the weapon with which Johnson had been stabbed, however, Captain of Detectives Cline ordered the arrest of her husband, O. G. Link, a cook, on suspicion of murder.

First word of the slaying came to police headquarters in an anonymous message over the telephone. "I have killed a man," said a woman's voice, that was all. While police were attempting to trace the message to its source a second call came in, this time from Johnson's landlady, who said she heard screaming in the man's apartment. Detectives hurried to the place and found Johnson still breathing. He died en route to the receiving hospital.
