Your Health and Its Care

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Readers should address inquiries to: Dr. William Brady 265 El Camino, Beverly Hills, Calif.

IMMEDIATE DENTURE SERVICE

It was formerly the practice of dentists to extract teeth and then wait perhaps several months for the gums to heal and become firm and shrink to a more or less permanent form and size, before making dentures or plates.

Dr Brady

Competent dentists today install plates, not just temporary ones but the plates the patient will wear permanently, immediately after extraction of teeth, before the patient leaves the office.

This is called "immediate denture service".

In most instances the plates or other dentures so installed will require minor adjustments or partial remaking, in all instances the patient will require further care and instruction by the dentist, and in some instances the patient continues wearing the new dentures without interruption or too much discomfort from the hour of extraction.

There is a more cogent reason for immediate denture service than mere personal appearance, although that may be important, particularly for those whose livelihood is at stake. It is a serious handicap to one personally engaged in business, profession or as an artist to have to go without teeth for weeks and months.

Atrophy, wasting, weakening is the inevitable consequence of disuse of muscles, and it makes little difference whether the muscles affected are those used in buttoning your collar or those used in masticating your food. The atrophy, unfortunately, involves not only the muscles but also the other structures, tissues, glands or organs whose functions happen to be related.

This atrophy begins early, within a week or less, and progresses gradually, once the muscles are no longer used regularly. It progresses insidiously, too, so that, if you are inclined to try to ignore your own decline or delinquency, you may remain unaware of the sad withering or degeneration that has overtaken you. You may deceive yourself that you are suffering no serious harm from going toothless, but after all you must acknowledge that it isn't just because they don't look pretty that the government rejects men from military service when they haven't enough teeth to masticate food.

More or less atrophy or degeneration inevitably occurs whenever an individual goes for any length of time minus one or more teeth or dentures to take the place of the missing teeth. The inevitable effects of such crippling are (1) impairment of digestion and consequent malnutrition and early decline of health or vite, which is tantamount to premature old age; and (2) a sad sag in facial lines and loss of whatever youthful symmetry or good looks the stupe may have had in his or her prime.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Anemia

Refused by Red Cross as donor because blood found low in hemoglobin. Please explain what that means and what I should do about it. (B. J.)

Answer—Hemoglobin is the coloring matter in the blood, which carries oxygen from the lungs to the cells of the body, and the carbonic acid gas (carbon dioxide) produced by oxidation, combustion, functioning, back to the lungs to be blown off in the expired air. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address, and inclose ten cents for booklet, "Blood and Health."

Twenty-eight

Son, 28, is getting bald—his hair is falling fast. His father grew bald quite young, too. Will anything improve the growth of his hair or stop it from falling? (M. G.)

Answer—I don't know but I believe prolonged vitamin deficiency, particularly vitamin D (sunshine vitamin) and vitamin B-complex, is responsible for poor condition of hair, skin and nails in many instances. Send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for pamphlet "Care of the Hair and Control of Dandruff." It can do no harm, will probably improve your general vite, to supplement the diet with half a dozen tablets of vitamin D and vitamin B-complex for a few months.

77th Army Division Command Post, Guam Aug. 7—(U.P.)—Col. Douglas McNair was killed by fire from five enemy snipers entrenched in a thatched hut 1000 yards behind American lines where McNair and a small party were sent to reconnoiter a new site for the division command post.

Young McNair, who concealed his grief over the death in Normandy of his father, Lt. Gen. Lesley McNair, former chief of army ground forces, was serving as chief of staff for Maj. Gen. Andrew Bruce, commander of the 77th division.

PLANE HITS CAFE

Middletown, Pa., Aug. 16—(U.P.)—First Lt. Philip Stewart, of the Yuma, Ariz., army air base, died last night a few hours after an AT-6 advanced trainer plane he was attempting to land at the air forces depot here crashed into a cafeteria, post officials announced today.

OFFICER ACCUSED

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 16 (U.P.)—Second Lt. Ben Ball, 27, was held for superior court today on a charge by the 16-year-old wife of a sailor overseas that he attacked her twice. Mrs. Virginia Johnson testified in justice court yesterday that he choked her into submission after a party July 12. She submitted both times in fear, she said.
