Our Growing Children Deserve a Better Break

As a game for youngsters, youths and young adults baseball is unrivaled.

As a port or spectacle professional baseball is o.k. for people who ro honest work or get enough general exercise every day, but, in my opinion, it is not good or healthful recreation for people who live by their wits—students, white collar workers, professional people, business people.

These "brain" workers need recreation which will enable them to "let off steam". The conventions of business, professional and social life make it necessary for one to restrain or repress natural impluses. The emotional excitment or tension one gets at critical moments in the ballgame cannot be appeased or relieved by just sitting on one's fanny and screaming or even rising and shaking a fist at the umpire.

Football, both professional and "big game," is not just not good for most spectators, but the emotional excitment and tension the battle builds up in the grandstand, stadium or bowl, raises hob with the cardiovascular (heart-artery) of fans past 30 and frazzle the "nerves" (emotional stability) of younger persons. Highschool football exhibitions, complete with cheering sections, sweater girl stars, etc., is the physicial evil that bears out everything I have said about degeneration in Yankeeland.

It would be laughable if it were not so tragic to hear or read the impassioned, not to say angry, defense of professional and quasi-professional (college) football and highschool burlesque of the varsity show, by coaches and their sporting friends, as training in courage, manhood, endurance, self-reliance, sportsmanship, etc. Unfortunately for many growing boys, fathers who are susceptible to the influene of the local sporting gentry are likeiy to permit and even urge boys in the early 'teens to try to make the team. I have described in earlier squawks, how repeated slight injuries of joints, muscles, tendons, spine etc., gradually impair or handicap the growing boy's physical well-being so that in too many instances crippling brings him under orthopedic surgery.

Whether highschool foobtall is beneficial or harmful to the players is a matter of minor importance. The question is whether it is fair to growing children to permit the town's sporting people to take over the highschool for a month or two each autumn and call the tune for principal, teachers and every last "chicken" or "sissy" or "mama's boy" whether the luckless kid is possible football material or just a contributor to the fund to provide the trappings for the team.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

A Little Dignity Now and Then

Husband has had "sinus" for many years. His nose runs constantly. Here is a clean four bits and stamped self-addressed envelope for Little Lesson 5 (CALL IT CRI) and Little Lesson 26 (THE CALCIUM SHORTAGE). We love your column and we'd hate having your articles become more "dignified," as suggested by S. L. E. (Mrs. T. H.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. When I'm in doubt about the effect a piece may have on readers I try it on the Young Snip. If it seems to worry her at all, I kill it.

What! Grandma With Common Sense?

Maybe I'm just an old granny, but I cannot believe it is good to give infants aspirin and (a carbonated, sweetened, colored, flavored soft drink) when they are not well . . . (Mrs. F. M.)

Answer—I'm with you about that, Ma'am. I think parents guilty of such maltreatment of their children should be compelled to take a course of lessons in the care of children. All such nitwits know is what they see in the funnies and on TV.

Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood— (U.P.) —Leo "The Lip" Durocher, the famed umpire blasting ex-manager of the New York Giants, has given up that "lip" as a television executive and now is a subdued man.

Aline Mosby

The colorful Durocher stirred up doubt, speculation and countless gags when he quit baseball after 17 years and moved into NBC-TV as "an ambassador of good will."

Durocher now is established in a fancy office at NBC, so I dropped in to see whether he had sent George Gobel to the showers yet or traded "Medic" for "I Love Lucy."

Durocher a Changed Man

But Durocher insists that for TV he's a changed man.

He will bawl out no network vice presidents as he did umpires. He will not quibble with the ratings but "leave those things up to the performers."

"It's just like a ball game," murmured the executive from behind the large desk. "You're in the clubroom, you're beat. That's like the ratings. Nothing you can do about it. Next time you try to get the ratings higher. There'll be no screaming from me."

The new executive has been put to work at a variety of jobs. He first will appear without his baseball team in a comedy skit with George Gobel Nov. 12. Then he's due for guest spots on three other shows. He'll also announce sidelights on 20 sports telecasts, such as the Rose Bowl game.

Speaker at Banquets

Another duty he acquired in his switch from diamonds to dialogue is to give speeches at banquets (that's where the "good will" comes in) and dig up new talent for the network.

"Like on the ball field. You see a player who looks good, you sign him. Same with actresses and comedians now," he reflected.

"But finding talent for TV will be easier than scouting ballplayers. Nothing tougher than that."
