All Things Seem Smooth For Dream Follies

Fifty-three Show Talent Of Great Variety For Twenty-act Production

If you think the job of organizing and directing a show with a cast of more than fifty members is an easy one, just try it some time. The procedure seems easy enough. First, the talent must be selected by an elimination process known as the survival of the fittest. Now all there remains to do is to rehearse and rehearse until the whole group is organized into a smoothly working unit.

Sounds simple, doesn't it? Billy O'Bryant has only lost about ten pounds of weight and torn out a number of perfectly good locks of hair accomplishing the feat. As far as minor details go, his worries are not entirely over yet but he has proceeded sufficiently far to realize that he has assembled a cast which cannot help but make the show a success.

At a rehearsal of the entire Follies last night in the Woman's building, a good many of the rough spots that even showed up last Sunday had disappeared. The scenes are beginning to blend in with each other more harmoniously. When the time comes for the curtain to go up on the first performance next Friday night, the minor flaws which might occur on the first night should not be perceptible to the audience.

Twenty Scenes Promised

The director has promised twenty or more scenes filled with enjoyment for young, old or indifferent. Taking part in the cast will be 53 students selected from the best talent the campus has to offer. Whether you prefer song, dance, dramatic art, humorous skits or chorus girls, you will not be disappointed with this varied program.

Those taking part in the pony chorus are: Camille Burton, Berenice Butler, Dorris Pugsley, Frances White, Avis Hartson, Eleanor Look, Dorothy Burke, Mary Caniparoli, Phyllis Van Kimmell, Bonita Tichenor, and Edith Bader. Possibly there are choruses with more experience than this but it would be difficult to find one with more jazz and beauty represented in one group.

In the Beauty Chorus

Featured in the beauty chorus are: Ruth DeNeffe, Frances Simpkins, Edith Pearson, Dewey Baker, Alice Latture, Nancy Luckel, Myra Belle Plamer, Harriet Hughson, Virginia Moore, and Audrey Lyons. The enviable group of men who get to dance with these beauties are: Phil Holmes, Ed Walker, Johnny Anderson, Frances Mullins, George Jackson, Ralph Owens, Al Boyden, John Konigshafer, Kenton Case, Don Maginnis, Kenneth Potts, and Marshall Hopkins.

Jack Reynolds, Waiffe Hockett, Edith Pearson, Rodney Banks, Dewey Baker, Nancy Luckel, Virginia Moore, and Francis Mullins constitute the feature dancers. Everything from the varsity drag and hula hula to classical dancing are shown in the repertoire of this bunch.

Many Short Skits

In the many short skits and humorous monologues we find Carl Ferstrum, Rodney Banks, Winston Lake, Frances Hare, Razz Asbury, Leonard Thomsen, Harriett Hawkins, Jack Reynolds, Madge Normile, Tommy Sandvall, and Marshall Hopkins.

Now to give the singers the "once over." Madge Normile, who was one of the stars of the Junior Vodvil last year, will be featured again. Billy O'Bryant has written some blues songs that will take your breath away and Madge will interpret these to the audience in typical fashion. If you want harmony just listen to the girls' trio, for instance, singing "Dancing Rythm." Jo Ralston, Louise Storla and Marjorie Clark are in this group. Nancy Thielsen, Edward Fisher, Kenny Allen, and Don Ostrander are others who have prominent singing parts.

Unsung Heroes Listed

The list of unsung heroes who are helping Billy put on the show include: Art Anderson, assistant chairman; Clare Hartman, programs; Joe Roberts, business manager; Olive Banks, secretary; Marty Johnson, posters; Louise Clark and Ethel Lou Crane, costumes; Tom Armitstead, tickets; Larry Ogle, advertising manager; Vernon McGee, advertising; Grace Gardner, make-up; Perry Douglass, properties; Boone Hendricks, music; and Bill Haggerty, publicity.

George Mason is in charge of the scenery. Under him are Justin McDonald, lighting; Walt Crane, scenic artist; DeVeryl Hempy, stage manager; and Hal Anderson, James Swindells and Herb King, stage assistants.

Many States Gripped By Torrential Rains; Floods Spread Fast

(By United Press)

ATLANTA April 24.—Torrential rains had sent rivers in seven states to flood stages today, while storm damage was estimated at millions of dollars. High water washed out highway bridges and railroad tracks in Georgia, Alabama, and Florida.

Tributaries of the Mississippi in Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana were reported near stages. Rises above present ... were expected in rivers in ...

MOBIL... April 24.—Flood waters no... here have driven hundreds fr... homes in Brewton, and Flo... according to meager report... ing Mobile.

At Brewton two creeks had gone out of their banks, flooding the city's streets four to six feet deep.

Flomaton was isolated. The Escambia river was at flood stage and houses in the valley were abandoned.

Lindbergh Flies To Airman's Aid

Relief Plane Pilot's Life Hangs in Balance

(By United Press)

QUEBEC, April 24.—Colonel Chas. A. Lindbergh brought his army pursuit plane to rest on Quebec's historic plains of Abraham this evening, completing his flight from New York to bring serum to save the life of Floyd Bennett.

He circled once over the hospital and then made a landing on the Plains of Abraham nearby.

Commander Richard E. Byrd, another of America's premier aviators and a close friend of Bennett, heard the roar of Lindbergh's motor and was at the field to meet him.

No sooner had the plane come to a landing than Thos. B. Applegate of the Rockefeller foundation who flew with Lindbergh, stepped out of the rear cockpit and handed the market-basket, in which he carried the serum, to Byrd.

Byrd set off on a run for the hospital, making all the time possible in an effort to save Bennett's life.

Lindbergh, looking serious as usual chatted only a moment with those who welcomed him.

He asked at once for the latest news of Bennett's conditions and was relieved when he was told that the patient's condition was unchanged since noon.

Doctors and nurses were working over Bennett this evening when they heard the roar of an airplane overhead. They went to the windows and looked out into the darkening sky. Overhead an airplane was circling. Although they were not sure of it at the moment, it was Lindbergh, who had flown straight to his mark in a little less than four hours. After circling over the hospital, he made a landing on the plain.

A crowd already had formed on the field.

Lindbergh brought the machine to a dead stop just short of the crowd and jumped out.

Physicians attending Floyd Bennett told the United Press that the patient's condition was still desperate and "very, very grave." It will be midnight or later, they said, before the serum brought here by Colonel Chas. A. Lindbergh can be injected into Bennett's veins.

Lindbergh appeared soon after at the hospital and slipped in to a side door. A large crowd stood in the darkness outside the hospital, their interest divided between Lindbergh and the latest news of Bennett's condition.

Campus Harvard Club To Banquet Thursday

The University of Oregon Harvard club will hold a formal banqquet at the Eugene hotel on Thursday, May 10. It will begin at 6:30 and all members whether from the campus or from other cities are cordially invited.

There are about twenty-four holders of Harvard degrees on the campus, among them Vice-President Barker. A. F. Baker, editor and publisher of the Guard, is also a member.

The committee in charge consists of Dr. Ray P. Bowen, Dr. Donald Barnes, Mr. J. K. Horner, and Professor F. S. Dunn. Rodger MacVeagh, president of the Oregon Harvard club, is expected to attend and will probably address the club. Plates will be $1 each.

Oregon Relay Team Ready For Beavers

Webfoots Have Good Chance to Defeat Aggie Squad

Oregonians Have Strong Combinations Entered In Four Events

By JOE PIGNEY

Out of a mess of ineligibilities and injuries, Bill Hayward, Webfoot track coach, hopes to assemble a relay team capable of turning back the Oregon Aggie squad here next Friday afternoon. Oregon, although seriously handicapped by the loss of dependable men, is conceded an even chance by Hayward to defeat the Beavers.

Bill Crawford

The Oregonians will base their claims for victory chiefly on the strength of the entries in the shot-put, high hurdle shuttle relay, mile relay, and the distance medley. The four-mile relay team, which Hayward was counting on for a certain first, has been shattered in strength by the loss of Hill and Beal. Both these men were injured in preliminary training meets.

Hurdlers Doped to Win

The high hurdle shuttle relay, a new event for Oregon teams, is doped to take first place from the Aggies. Bill Crawford and Loye McGee, lettermen from last year's team, form the key for the combination, with Harold Kelly and either Vic Wetzel or Bill Prendergast running third and fourth.

The Webfoots have power in the shot-put event, and should win easily. Vic Wetzel, Homer Dickson, George Stadelman, and George Stager, when teamed together, make a difficult crew to beat. Wetzel heaved the shot over forty-five feet yesterday in practice, and Dickson made forty-four in the donut meet last Saturday.

Vic Wetzel

Chance for Win in Medley

With a mixture of stars for the distance medley relay, Hayward believes that the Webfoots will have an excellent chance to win. The lineup which Hayward has planned for this event includes Bill Prendergast, 220-yard dash; Phil Livesley, 440-yard dash; Bill Overstreet, 880-yard run, and Jensen, three-quarter mile run.

The mile relay is the other event which the Oregonians are expected to win. Joe Standard, letterman, and LaVerne Pearson are the veterans forming a nucleus for this term. Ruben Ross, who has been working in the distance events, but has recently shown much promise in the quarter-mile, will probably run third. The fourth man will be selected from Clare McKinnon, Arlen McCarty, Gordon Pefley, Raymond Ball, and Rosser Atkinson.

Tryouts Today

The men for the 440-yard and the 880-yard relay teams will be picked this afternoon following a tryout of all candidates. Prendergast, Kelly, McGee, Livesley, Hammond, Schaefer, Brown, Wetzel, and Rutherford are the possibilities for this event.

The two-mile team will probably be composed of Ernest McKitrick, Ruben Ross, Bob Overstreet, and Wade Rutherford, and the four-mile team of Roy Gurnea, Jensen, Kuykendall, and Bill Winters. Prendergast, Wetzel, Kelly, and Ross will run in the sprint relay. This race includes the two 110-yard sprints, 220-yards, and the 440-yard dash.

Warren D. Smith, head of the geology department, has added incentive to the work of the distance men by donating a cup to the man who shows the most improvement during the entire season. The cup will be presented for merits rather than for the number of points earned in meets. Smith was a distance man for the Webfooters years ago.

Two Karook Indians, Mad Bull and Flying Cloud, will train here under the supervision of Bill Hayward. The men are preparing for the Redwood Empire Indian marathon from San Francisco to Grants Pass, June 14. Mad Bull won the grind last year.

American Gold Mines Captured by Sandino Forces in Nicaragua

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Additional United States armed forces may be sent to Nicaragua as a result of the capture of three American-owned gold mines by a band of unidentified Nicaraguans, it was intimated in official circles here today. The state department was, however, without confirmation of the reported capture of the mines and the kidnapping of five workers, four of them Americans, in the Prinzapoloa mountain region in northwest Nicaragua.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—The American miners captured by Sandino forces in Nicaragua will be held for ransom, Benjamin C. Warnick, president of a gold mining company, said today.

Warnick was bitter because the United States government had not given marine protection to his property. He said he had been captured himself in September and ransomed later for $500.

(By United Press)

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, April 24.—Details of the looting of mines and capture of Americans by the rebel leader Agustino Sandino were given here today by Harry P. Amphlett, superintendent of La Luz mine in northern Nicaragua.

Amphlett, being a British subject, was unmolested by the bandits, who are directing their attacks on Americans, and was safe here today.

Other Americans at the La Luz mine, which was seized, were reported safe.

Property losses at the La Luz mine was estimated at $10,000.

It was reported here that foreigners were making their way to Puerta Cabezas for safety. This town is amply protected by American forces.

Jewett Contest Event Tonight

Six Contestants to Compete For Oratory Prize

Six contestants will be chosen in the semi-finals of the Jewett oratorical contest to be held tonight for pre-legal English classes in room 110 Johnson hall at 7 o'clock, it is announced by Kenneth Shumaker, English instructor. These six winners will appear in room 110 Johnson hall on Wednesday evening, May 2, at 8 o'clock for the final contest.

Dean Chas. E. Carpenter of the law school, Dr. C. V. Boyer, head of the English department, and Professor Hugh Rosson of the law school will act as judges for the final contest. Three men will be declared winners in the order of first, second, and third places. Prizes of $25, $15, and $10 will be awarded to the winners respectively.

All those conected with the University as well as any of the general public who are interested in oratory are invited to attend the final contest on May 2.

The students who will compete in the contest tonight are: Harry Brock, "Peace and Economic Interdependence"; Paul Clark, "The Colossus of the North"; Melvin Davidson, "The Outlawry of War"; H. E. Green, "The Nation's Cornerstone"; Myron Gray, "The United States Intervention in Nicaragua"; John Halderman, "La Salle"; Claude Hall, "Tolerance"; William Kuykendall, "Plutocrats of Crime"; Edwards Merges, "The Genii of Italy"; Walter Norblad, "The Marquis de Lafayette"; James Le Raley, "Legalized Murder"; Jack Sammons, "A Legitimate Experiment"; Francis Schaefers, "Peace"; James Sharp, "Political Asparagus"; Julian Smith, "The Gospel of the Superman"; Sam Van Vactor, "In Behalf of Democracy," and Harvey Wright, "Embers."

The judges for the contest tonight will be W. G. Beattie, lecturer in extension division, and A. B. Stillman, assistant professor of business administration.

Jean Tompkins New Sigma Delta Pi Head

Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, held initiation Thursday evening at the Woman's building. It also elected the following officers: president, Jean Tompkins; vice-president, Margaret Knapp; secretary, LeRoy Detling.

Professor Wadsworth spoke on Spain and the characteristics of the Spanish people at the banquet following the initiation.

Mother's Day Head Selects Committees

Invitations to Be Sent Out to All Parents This Week

Special Tea and Vesper Services Arranged On Program

Preparations for the entertainment of mothers the week-end of May 11 to 13 are progressing rapidly under the supervision of Luola Benge, chairman. In addition to the features of Junior Week-end, a special tea and vespers service will be included on their program during their sojourn.

The committee appointed to assist with the details of the event includes: Agnes Palmer, assistant chairman; Dorothy Baker, registration, and Margaret Nugent, vespers. On the tea committee will be Gladys Calef, hostesses; Doris Wells, receiving; Helen Peters, serving, and Evelyn Dew, program.

Invitations will be sent out this week to mothers of every student in the University. Enclosed in the letter will be a blank slip which the mothers must send in previous to the time of their arrival.

Students Asked to Write

"We want the cooperation of everybody to make this event a success," said Miss Benge. "The invitations sent out by us will carry much more weight if the individual students will take it upon themselves to invite their mothers down."

Registration begins Friday, May 11, and will be in Johnson hall. The mothers will have dinner with their sons or daughters and then one of the big events of Junior Week-end, the canoe fete, will furnish them with entertainment.

Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 the special Mother's Day tea will be served either in the Woman's building or on the lawn outside, depending upon the weather conditions. Here the mothers will mix informally and get acquainted and a program will be arranged for their entertainment. Some of the features of the Dream Follies will form part of the program. Saturday evening the Junior Prom will be the resort of those who are interested in watching the dance or perhaps taking an active part in it.

Vesper Program at 4

In the morning of Sunday the time will be left to the discretion of the individuals. A Mother's Day vesper services will begin at 4 in the afternoon and special music will be provided for the occasion.

The idea of having Mother's Day in connection with the Junior Week-end originated from the week-end directorate. Since that time Virginia Judy Esterly, dean of women, devised a plan whereby the University will stand the expenses and take the same interest in the mothers as was shown for the fathers during Dad's Day. National observance of Mother's Day occurs May 11 which is the first day of the junior celebration.

If enough of a representation is present for the occasion, the day will probably become an annual event such as Dad's Day became with the celebration this year. The committee in charge hopes to see as much interest shown by the mothers as by the fathers of students on the campus.

Women Start Practice Hockey Games Today

Practices will be held today and Friday for those who wish to make the women's class hockey teams. All aspirants are asked to be on hand. Teams will be picked on these two days, and regular games will begin the latter part of next week.

Class managers have been appointed and are as follows: Eleanor Marvin, senior; Ruth Burcham, junior; Naomi Moshberger, sophomore, and Nellie McDonald, freshman.

University High Loses To Salem Swimmers

The University high swimming team was defeated, 39-11, by Salem high last Saturday. University high failed to win a first place, aside from a tie in the 40-yard breast-stroke when Dotson, University high, reached the finish line simultaneously with Lafferty of Salem.

Work Under Way On Igloo, Assembly Amplifying System

Work on the public address amplifying system, both in McArthur Court and in the Woman's building, is now getting under way, according to Dean Bovard, head of the school of physical education.

In the Igloo, an eight horn amplifier, a loud speaker, will be suspended from the ceiling at a height of 25 feet. Two microphones and a portable amplifying panel will complete the make up. This system will be used for speeches and musical entertainments. With the addition of another unit in the panel, it may be used during basketball games.

When this system is installed in the Woman's building, not only will it amplify speeches in the auditorium, but it will make possible the reproduction of programs in Alumni hall. Loud speaker horns will be installed over the stage, three on the side next the balcony and two on the other. Microphones will be connected with a control box. From it the current may be sent to the horns in the assembly room, or in the reception room, or in both.

Prom Will Have Oriental Motif

Assistants Appointed Soon To Aid Committee

Mystery, flaming dragons, huge Buddhas, incense, and pagodas will create an Oriental atmosphere at McArthur court, when it is transformed into the interior of a Chinese den for the Junior Prom, the outstanding social event of the college year.

Decorations for the prom are under the charge of Adelia Everts, and the motif will be Oriental tending toward the Chinese, according to present plans. A false ceiling will be constructed for the event, and dragons, illuminated by amber lights, will cover the dark walls.

Novel programs, new to the campus and in keeping with the Oriental decorations, have been planned by Bill Winter, chairman of the committee on programs.

The Kollege Knights, seated in a pagoda in the center of the floor, will play for the dance. Pat Reed, who is in charge of the construction of the ceiling, promises that it will be low to insure good acoustics.

Ralph Geyer is chairman of the committee for the curtains for the sides, and Dorothy Franklin heads the committee on sewing. Lighting will be directed by Bob Merrick. Clarence Lidbergh and Camille Harris have charge of painting the decorations.

Each of the committee heads will appoint a staff of assistants soon to aid him in his work.

Y.W.C.A. Delegate Back From National Meeting

Margaret Edmundson, newly elected president of the Y. W. C. A., returned the first of the week from Sacramento, California, where she attended the national convention of the Y. W. C. A.

The convention, at which two thousand people were present, was attended by representatives from six departments of the Y. W. C. A.; students, industrial workers, business and professional women, rural workers, city associations and girl reserves. Sixty-five colleges and universities were represented.

A new student purpose was adopted and added to the constitution. It is: "We unite in desire to realize full and creative life to a growing knowledge of God. We determine to have a part in making this possible for all people. In this task we seek to understand Jesus and to follow Him."

Miss Dorothy Thomas, who accompanied Miss Edmundson to the convention, went on to Asilomar, California, to a staff convention where she will spend a week before returning to Eugene.

Two of the main speakers at the convention were Dr. Maude Royden, international speaker and minister of a London church, and Reverend Harold Phillips, of New York City, who gave a series of talks on the subject, "Life That Is Indeed."

Biology Seminar Has Illustrated Lectures

Illustrated talks were given at the biology seminar Monday night in room 201 in Deady hall by Frances Schroeder, senior in botany, and Lohrenz F. Weirs, graduate student in biology.

By CHARLES B. BOICE

Up to late last night no one had come forth and declared his intention of running for student body president, or vice-president as yet. Several of the candidates for the other offices have sent in their announcements to the Emerald.

Arden X. Pangborn was the first to turn in his announcement of candidacy for editorship of the Emerald. Pangborn has a long journalistic record to back him up as qualifications for the office. Before obtaining leave of absence from the Morning Oregonian to attend the University of Oregon, he had been employed as staff writer for two years. He is at the present time the campus correspondent for the Oregonian. He is sports editor and book editor for the Morning Register, and he is also literary editor for the Emerald. Pangborn has served two years as a member of the Oregana staff. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalistic fraternity, and he is also a member of "Ye Tabbard Inn," national honorary writers' fraternity. He is a member of Crossroads, discussion group. At a recent meeting of the Oregon Professional Sports Writers' association, he was elected president. Besides all of these jobs to occupy his time, he is publicity chairman of the Greater Oregon Committee Directorate.

Coover Running

Walter J. Coover followed Pangborn in with his announcement of candidacy for editor of the Emerald. Coover has served in several capacities on the Emerald. He started as night editor, worked as reporter, P. I. P. editor, and at the present time is associate editor of the Emerald. He is president of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalism fraternity. Coover is a member of the International Relations club and is a member of Alpha Beta Chi, local social fraternity.

Leonard W. Hagstrom is the latest candidate to announce his entry in the closely contested editorial race. Hagstrom has a wide experience in newspaper work to his credit. In Portland during his high school career he was employed at various times on both the Oregonian and the Oregon Journal. At the present time he is a senior in journalism and is a member of the Emerald staff. He has been actively engaged in part time work on both Eugene papers at different times during the last several years. He is a member of Alpha Upsilon and was recently elected to Sigma Delta Chi, international professional journalism fraternity. For the past two years Hagstrom's
