Webfoots Drop Vandals, 12-4

Runners Look Good As WSC Meet Nears

By DAVE TAYLOR

Coach Bill Bowerman's Oregon track team scorched the cinders of Hayward Field yesterday as the Webfoots turned in excellent clockings in their weekly time trials in preparation for the invading Washington State Cougars this weekend. The dual meet between the Cougars and the Ducks will probably be the best Northern Division track contest held on Hayward Field since the late 1930's.

This is the first pre-meet test that the Ducks have been able to complete this season. Rain and other inclement weather conditions have forced the Bowerman charges inside most of the time this spring.

Don Pickens, Oregon's number two vaulter, turned in the best practice vault of his life by clearing the bar at 13 feet. He has often made this height while up against meet competition, even going up to 13 feet 9 inches on one occasion, but his previous test practice record was only 12 feet 6 inches.

Walt McClure, Oregon's veteran 880 man, was another individual star of the afternoon, as he breezed around the 660-yard course in 1 minute 23.8 seconds. McClure will be facing rough competition Saturday when he lines up against Washington State's Clem Eischen, an Olympic team member of 1948. Eischen, who was out of action last year, has run the 880 in 1:52, but so far this season has not regained his form. McClure's best time is 1:55.7.

Jack Countryman, Phil Jones, Al Chamberlain, and Jim Lais, Webfoot 440 men, practically ran a deadheat in the furlong as they ended in a cluster finish. Countryman, who won the race, was clocked at 51.9 seconds; Jones, 52 seconds, and Chamberlain and Lais at 52.2 seconds. Bowerman greeted the results of this event with considerable enthusiasm since he will be forced to rely on it for some vital points in the all-important match for a possible Northern Division dual meet championship.

Jack Hutchins, although nursing an injured left leg, came up with a respectable timing of 3:25 in his WOODLEY LEWIS, ND broad jumping king, will be pressed this weekend to defend his crown when the Washington State Cougars invade Hayward Field Saturday. The Cougars have won 18 consecutive dual meets in Northern Division competition. The Ducks have not defeated the WSC thinclads since 1943.

Big First Inning Gives Ducks First Win In Conference Action

By MARTY WEITZNER

Yesterday's sun shone brightly for Don Kirsch, as his light-hitting Webfoots turned sluggers to down Idaho by a 12-4 count. The Ducks will get a chance to do it again today at 3 p.m. on Howe Field.

Oregon finished the ball game early, as they battered Idaho's Don Hunt for five runs in the first inning. Three singles, a walk, an error by shortstop Nick Stallworth, and double by Phil Settecase accounted for the tallies, as ten men went to bat.

Mel Krause allowed only one hit over the first four innings. Clean-up hitter "Jumping Joe" Zavetsky picked on a waist high pitch and drove it over left fielder Ray Stratton's head, and easily outraced the relay around the bases. After that, Krause retired the next eleven batters in a row.

Two more Oregon runs came in the bottom of the fourth, as two singles, a bad pickoff thrown by Hunt, and a single by Charley Strader gave the home club a 7-1 edge.

Krause Loses Plate

In the fifth Krause lost his touch when he walked two men in succession. Hunt's single brought in the second Idaho run.

Another pair of Oregon runs came home in the bottom half of that inning as two singles, a passed ball, and a double by Jack Smith increased the Duck's advantage.

In the sixth, Strader's long blow went past the left fielder and down into the lower field. It was Oregon's first home run of the year.

Lefty Lyle Rogers came on to start the eighth, and ran into trouble. He walked Idaho's little relief pitcher Glen Darnell and Tobe Massingill. Bob Linck popped up, but two more walks sent the curveballer to the showers. Gene Rose, the converted catcher, came on to finish the game, yielding but one more run in the eighth.

Don Kimball, out of action during the Washington State series, returned to the lineup. Although slowed up somewhat by a bad leg,

Gridders Try New Positions

Position changes were the keynote as the Oregon varsity football machine ended spring practice session number 12 Wednesday at the hedge-bound grid lot.

Big Dave Gibson was shifted over from his usual center slot to left tackle. Assistant Coach Bob McClure explained that Gibson's shift fortified the left side of the forward wall.

Don Sloane, speedy breakaway back was moved from right to left half where he turned in an impressive performance, as the squad churned through a rugged, body-contact scrimmage.

Ron Lyman moved to fullback from left half during the Wednesday scrum. The last significant change was last week when Dick Daugherty was switched to offensive right end, where he continued to impress.

Darwin Farnsworth, who returned to action yesterday after a lay-off due to an infected leg, looked better than he has all spring, and Tommy Lyons, right half, looked good in the drill.

Several of the reserve depth linemen were thrown into action Wednesday, and Chuck Laird, linebacker, looked "awfully good." Wayne Johnson, Bob McAdams, defensive ends, also turned in top performances.

The squad goes into practice 13 this afternoon—and as yet there have been no serious injuries—.

Frosh Get 7-1 Revenge Win Over Eugene Nine

By JACK LANDRUD

Paced by Curt Barclay, the Oregon Frosh baseball nine knocked out a 7-1 combeack win over Eugene High School Wednesday afternoon in an unofficial practice tilt.

Previously, the Eugene Axemen had handed the yearlings their only defeat, a 9-3 upset, earlier in the season.

Jack Pyle opened on the mound for the Ducklings and allowed only one hit in three innings, that being a single by Don Siegmund in the first canto which scored a prepster who had walked earlier.

Barclay relieved Pyle in the fourth and allowed only one single in the two innings he worked. He was followed by Don Allen who twirled hitless ball for the final two periods.

Livesay Lively

Jim Livesay opened the Oregon scoring parade in the second by blasting out a deep round-tripper to left field for the longest clout of the day. Lee Alvord followed up with a single and Jim Barnes knocked him home in an infield error.

In the fourth Barclay singled, Alvord drew a walk, and Barnes blasted out a hit to score Barclay. Johansen hit safely, and Brumbaugh sacrificed Alvord across. Herb Cook beat out a bunt which tallied Barnes, and Barclay came through with his second smash of the day, a single scoring two more runs.

Barclay led the Frosh with two hits in three trips to the plate.

Coach Marv Rasmussen announced that word has been received from the Athletic Department that the Frosh will not be allowed to travel to any games outside Eugene except the four scheduled meetings with the Oregon State Rooks, so the Duckling schedule will be considerably hampered.

Scoring:

Eugene	100 000 0	1	2	6
Frosh	020 500 x	7	7	2
