CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Commander McNutt in Ashland—

National Commander, Paul V. McNutt of the American Legion was a guest of the Ashland post at a noon luncheon today at Lithia Springs hotel. Many members of the legion from points throughout the valley were in attendance. "America must be kept a place where all may travel along the path of success just as far as the individual effort permits," is one of the quotations which Commander McNutt has so frequently made. He has the distinction of being the youngest Indiana University faculty member to be made a dean, joined with his appointment dean of the law school in May, 1925. He was a lieutenant colonel in the army at the age of 27. In a dramatic session of the national convention at San Antonio, Texas, he was unanimously elected national commander of the American Legion, the greatest organization of veterans in the world at the age of 37.

Federals Wait For Word of Major Battle

MEXICO CITY, April 24. (AP)—Undisguised tenseness prevailed today at Chapultepec Castle, presidential headquarters, as word was awaited from General Calles in extreme southern Sonora, where a bitter fight with rebels was believed to have been under way for 48 hours.

Considerable mystery surrounded the situation at Masiaca and San Antonio, Sonora, where the rebel army of 6,000 or 7,000 men was last reported entrenched, but whether this mystery was of Chapultepec's making—with an eye to awaiting more favorable reports—or actual lack of information was not known.

There were no recent messages from General Calles, believed to have advanced northward out of San Blas with his troops. The last received from him told of movement of three federal columns against the rebel earthworks, with a force of 2000 federal cavalry nder General Tiburcio considerably in advance of the main army.

These last dispatches told of an attempted rebel flanking movement under General Rabatte who had left Masiaca in the direction of Choix, northeastern Sinaloa, in a seeming effort to get to the rear of the federal armies. General Calles said a force had been sent to engage the rebels and thwart their plan.

The federal cavalry moving north of Don toward Masiaca left camp at 3 a. m. Monday and should have reached the rebel lines by daybreak, the distance being but twelve miles. The force sent to cut off General Rabatte was expected to clash with him Monday night.

The Modern Mill Supply House

A Service Station for Industries

Keeps Plants Running by Supplying Their Daily Needs

The Connecting Link Between Manufacturers and Users

Our supply house is a made-to-order institution. It was built from the day of its opening upon the needs of the industrial plants and other buyers of supplies and equipment in this section.

We are particularly well organized, therefore, to supply your daily needs for practically everything in tools, supplies and equipment. If an item is not in stock, our close connection with manufacturers enables us to get it for you promptly. Let us relieve you of the annoying details of miscellaneous purchasing.

We can and will save you time and money. Just as you put your car in the hands of a good service station for necessary attention, put the purchasing of your plant in the hands of experienced buyers of supplies and equipment. Our stock plus our service, will keep your plant running.
