A. C. SHELDON DEAD

Burlington's General Agent Is Loved as "Dad."

ROAD'S TRADEMARK HIS

Death Follows Minor Operation and Four-Day Illness at St. Vincent's Hospital — Long Life of Work Given System.

6-12-1914

A. C. Sheldon, popularly known as "Dad" Sheldon, and for many years the general agent in Portland for the Burlington Railroad, died at St. Vincent's Hospital yesterday after an illness of four days, following a minor operation. He was 69 years of age.

Mr. Sheldon was known throughout the country as the originator of the railroad trade-mark. The familiar black rectangle bearing the white gothic letters, "Burlington Route," was his invention. That was 40 years ago, when he was advertising agent for the Burlington. Since then every railroad in the country has adopted a trade-mark. Experts agree that none ever has improved on his original idea.

Lifetime Spent With Road.

Nearly all of Mr. Sheldon's active railroad work was performed for the Burlington system. He was born in the Canadian province of Quebec, July 4, 1845, and, as a young man, came to Chicago. He worked in various capacities in the traffic and advertising departments until he advanced to the position of advertising agent. In that capacity he visited Mexico and secured much valuable publicity, which resulted in increased travel of Mexican people to the United States.

At that time C. E. Perkins was president of the Burlington and on his frequent travels he had become impressed with the uniformity of the signs used by the Western Union Telegraph Company. Whenever he wanted to send a message Mr. Perkins would look for the familiar blue sign.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Perkins to Mr. Sheldon one day, "that we ought to have a sign or a trade-mark."

"Well, what kind of a sign do you think it ought to be?" asked Mr. Sheldon.

President Gives First Idea.

"It ought to be appropriate for a railroad," replied Mr. Perkins after a few moments of thought, "characteristic of the Burlington and suggestive of progress. It ought to be something that will appear well on a sheet of engraved stationery as well as on a boxcar."

"I had no idea what a thing of that kind would look like," said Mr. Sheldon afterwards, "but I went at it."

Meanwhile, Mr. Perkins offered a prize of $500 and an annual pass for the best advertising trademark.

At that time the Burlington was using the words "Burlington Route" as an advertising slogan, and in some display work had used a picture of a train emerging from a tunnel. Mr. Sheldon eliminated the train and the tunnel and retained the characteristic words, arranging them in a rectangular field with Gothic type.

Hundreds of advertising experts submitted ideas and designs, in response to Mr. Perkins' offer, but the suggestion of Mr. Sheldon was adopted. It is used yet.

Mr. Sheldon came to Portland about 30 years ago and opened the Burlington office here. He was appointed general agent, and although he frequently had offers of higher positions, he declined, because of his preference for Portland. He was a member of the Commercial Club and had his home there. A daughter, Margaret, is in school in Paris and a sister, Mrs. Homer Walreth, lives in Watertown, S. D.

500,000 PORTLAND IS SEEN

A. J. Rich, New York and San Francisco Realty Operator, Here.

A. J. Rich, of the real estate firm of A. J. Rich & Co., of San Francisco and New York, who is also a director of the San Francisco Chronicle, is visiting Portland and is staying at the Benson. He is being entertained by Fred A. Jacobs.

Mr. Rich said he was interested in Portland property on behalf of a number of clients and might have some important information to announce in a few days. He is making a business inspection of the Coast cities. Mr. Rich predicted a population of 500,000 for Portland in 10 years. He is particularly interested in the effect of the Panama Canal on local conditions.

"You have the most attractive city on the Coast," said Mr. Rich.

Liquor Order Soliciting Prohibited.

SPRINGFIELD, Or., June 11.—(Special.)—An ordinance declaring it a nuisance to solicit orders for intoxicating liquors in Springfield, and providing a penalty of from $25 to $100 for the first offense and of $200 for subsequent offenses has been passed unanimously by the Town Council. An emergency was declared and the Mayor signed the ordinance at once.

EXTENSION IS APPROVED

East Morrison-Street Opening Is Indorsed by Property Owners.

Proceedings for the opening and extension of East Morrison street from East Twentieth to East Twenty-sixth, along the right of way of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, past Lone Fir Cemetery, received the approval yesterday of a large delegation of property owners who are to be assessed for the cost of the improvement.

Plans for the extension were started some time ago and a tentative estimate of cost and probable assessments was prepared. It is reported that only three small parcels of ground will have to be purchased and the cost will be only a few hundred dollars. This will give a direct opening along Morrison street to the Sunnyside district. At present traffic has to move over Belmont street.

Kansas Day in Ashland.

ASHLAND, Or., June 11.—(Special.)—Kansas day will be July 9. This will bring it within the Chautauqua period. The programme will include speeches and papers, to be followed by a basket picnic in Chautauqua Park. At this first reunion of former residents of the Sunflower State permanent officers are to be elected. The membership is open to Kansans now living in the Rogue River Valley.
