SONG WITH POLITICS IN IT.

TUNE FROM "THE MIKADO."

(Sing Willow, Tit Willow.)

The champion Mugwumper sat down by the gate,
Singing: "Wool, oh! free wool, oh? free wool, oh?"
He chanted it early and chanted it late,
Free wool, oh! free wool, oh! free wool, oh!
Up the hill in the White House it happened just then
Ohio's staunch governor talked with our Ben,
"Ah! McKinley," said Ben, "there's that Mills bill again,
With it's wool, oh! free wool, oh! free wool, oh!"

Said William to Benjamin, "Hardly, 'twould seem,
That even a mule, oh! a mule, oh!
Like that one should ever of victory dream,
And our freemen to rule, oh! to rule, oh!
Of the Welsh and their plans no tidings of late,
And this Janus freetrader—self-styled 'man of fate'—
May his humble pie eat from a little tin plate,
With his precious John Bull, oh! John Bull, oh!"

The summer is passing and autumn comes on—
Soon the polls will of voters be full, oh!
From ocean to ocean that November morn
No cry will be heard of "Free Wool," oh!
Farmer, statesman and workman, all hearts are agreed,
That "Protection and Tariff" mean welfare indeed,
And to Ben in the White House will join their "God speed,"
So great is his pull, oh! his pull, oh!

POOR old Pennoyer is in a peck of trouble since the democratic party has deserted him. This is really too bad that the fingers should rebel against the body in this way.

The simplicity of republican institutions has never been more fittingly exemplified than when an ex-president of the United States—Rutherford B. Hayes—marched on foot in the great parade, in the ranks of the Ohio post of which he was an honored member. Many think he and not Mr. Morton should have reviewed the parade, not because he was not a soldier and Gen. Hayes was—and a gallant one, too.

HERE are some figures that should put a stop forever to the wailings of the calamityites who claim that farmers are getting poorer. Of every 100 farms in the state of Maine, 8 on an average are hired, 20 are owned under incumbrance and 72 are owned without incumbrance. Of every 100 homes not situated on farms, on the average 52 are hired, 10 are owned under incumbrance and 38 without incumbrance. If the farmers are getting poorer, these figures don't betray it.

IN his argument for an income tax, Governor Pennoyer says: "Under the tariff, men pay to the government a tax on the food they eat, the clothes they wear, and the implements they use in their labor; and this being the case, it follows that a poor laboring man, not worth a dollar in the world, who lives by the labor of his hands, and who has a wife and family of eight children, pays ten times as much for the support of the federal government as his rich bachelor neighbor, who is worth a million dollars." This sounds mathematical and logical, but is the height of absurdity and contrary to the common experience of all. The poor man with his family of ten spends at the very maximum but $1,000 per year. The millionaire, then, if the poor man pays ten times as much as he, must live on $100 a year. On the contrary, he spends $10,000 a year, or ten times as much as the poor man and his family of ten, and as the things he buys are of the class that pay the highest tariff rates, as he wears imported cloth, smokes imported cigars, drinks imported wine and uses other luxuries highly taxed, a greater proportion of his $10,000 a year goes to the government than of the $1,000 spent by the poor man. The argument amounts to nothing, and was only advanced as a specious and demagogic effort to make the poor man believe that he is paying all the revenue raised by tariff. It is a fair index to the tone and character of the whole address.

DO YOU wear shirting? It is taxed 5 cents a yard says the freetrader. You can buy it for 5 cents a yard says the merchant. Do you use blankets? They are taxed 95 cents or 105 percent. They can be purchased for 90 cents. Do you use lead pencils? They are tariff taxed 60 cents or 103 percent; but you can buy them for 75 cents per gross. If you use saw files, they are tariff taxed 75 cents or 150 percent, yet the selling price is 48 cents. If you wear flannel shirts, they are tariff taxed 80 cents or 116 percent, yet you can buy that shirt at retail for 69 cents. If you smoke cigars, they are tariff taxed $3.09 or 206 percent, but are retailed for $1 50 per box. Smoking tobacco is tariff taxed 10 cents or 125 percent, but the retail price of smoking tobacco is about 8 cents. Isn't it strange how cheap articles are sold under the burdens of the McKinley tariff tax? But you must remember that the tariff tax is on imported goods, and the prices at which these goods are sold apply to home productions that are protected by this tariff tax. Now the question arises, will you vote the republican ticket and be protected or vote the democratic ticket and be the unprotected victims of the freetrade policy advocate by the leaders of the democratic party? You certainly are not so stupid as to vote against your own interests.

ANY voter who votes for the democratic ticket on the 8th of November declares by that ballot that he is opposed to protection of our home industries against the harmful competition of the products of foreign pauper labor, and against reciprocal trade with those countries which offer us valuable commericial concessions in exchange, and against a sound currency system which makes every dollar issued by the government the equal in purchasing power of every other dollar in circulation. A vote for the democratic candidates declares this protection to American institutions, American enterprises and American working men to be an unconstitutional fraud, denouces the reciprocity policy of the government which has already saved us millions of dollars as an arrant sham and demands the restoration of the wildcat state bank currency which years ago served to alarmingly complicate commercial transactions and inflict great financial loss upon the innocent holders of worthless or depreciated bank notes. A vote for the republican ticket means protection to home institutions and home industries, and the sustenance of a currency on a sound financial basis. Which do you choose—protection, or free trade with a questionable currency? Remember, self-protection is the first law of nature, and we believe, or at least hope, you are intelligent enough to vote for self-protection and will vote the republican ticket on the 8th of November.

A Cholera Scare.

A reported outbreak of cholera at Helmetta, N. J, created much excitement in that vicinity. Investigation showed that the disease was not cholera but a violent dysentery, which is almost as severe and dangerous as cholera. Mr. Walter Willard, a prominent merchant of Jamesburg, two miles from Helmetta, says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrnoea Remedy has given great satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery. It is certainly one of the best things ever made. For sale by Edwin Ross, druggist.

OBSERVE COLUMBUS DAY.

In view of the fact that President Harrison has issued a proclamation declaring the 21st of Oct. a national holiday, to be observed in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America and in as much as the permanency, efficency and integrity of our institutions are based upon the intelegence and patriotism of our people, and furthermore, that the common schools being, as they are, the nurseries of the rising generation and the great dispensaries of free education, which is the best guarantee of that broad, liberal minded and patriotic citizenship which is the boast and glory of our institutions, I think it fit and proper that the schools of Columbia county rightly observe this glorious day, to fitingly celebrate with appropriate exercises, this transcendent event which stands boldly out in history like a noted tower on a hill.

I deem this a splendid opportunity to inspire the growth of our schools with a deeper and more fervent love for their country and to more forcibly and lastingly impress upon them the supreority of our institutions; to more fully recommend to their consideration the unparalleled advantage of being American citizens.

In consideration of these facts I recommend that the teachers of Columbia county, in conjunction with their schools and patrons, observe this day with suitable exercises. Programs have been sent to each of the teachers which when supplemented will make a program both interesting and instructive. Where it is possiable let two or more schools assemble at the most convenient place and thereby enhance the interest of the occasion. Let the patrons lend their co-operation and if they can do no more they can favor the occasion with their presence and thereby give a quickening impulse to patriotism in our schools.

LADY ANALYSTS.

They Play the Same Tricks Resorted to Here and Get Caught.

The Portland Oregonian gives the following amusing account of a lady expert, or canvasser, who was playing the house-to-house sample test dodge in that city:

The city for several days has been canvassed by a company of women who have called at private residences for the ostensible purpose of explaining the superior merits of their baking powder through a series of alleged chemical experiments. A lady who has been annoyed by the agents determined to test the efficacy of the experiments, and she brought out some of the baking powder which they are advertising. The agent submitted the substance to the usual tests and called the lady's attention to the presence of alum, ammonia and various other alleged ingredients, which could be distinguished by the peculiar odor, the residuum, etc. The lady of course saw all these unmistakable signs of so-called impurities, and allowed the agent full swing to expand upon the merits of her own cooking powder. The agent finally inquired of the lady what brand of baking powder she had been experimenting with. "That baking powder," replied the lady, "is the same that you have been cracking up so high." The agent turned all colors, and beat a hasty retreat. Our informant has not been bothered with baking powder agents since.

Too Much of a Risk.

It is not unusual for colds contracted in the fall to hang on all winter. In such cases catarrh or chronic bronchitis are almost sure to result. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold. Can you afford to risk so much for so small an amount? This remedy is intended especially for bad colds and croup and can always be depended upon. For sale by Edwin Ross, druggist.

When the Heart Is Affected

By rheumatism, or any of the muscles near that organ, it is like tampering with an electric wire, for death may come at any moment. If life is worth $5, go to the druggist and get Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy, or send to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48-50 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send you a large bottle by prepaid express. It is not as quick as electricity, but it will save your life if you take it in time. Agetns wanted.

OREGON'S SHOWING AT CHICAGO NEXT YEAR

Remains in doubt, but there is no question about the

PORTLAND INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

which opens

September 21st and Closes October 22,

Being the best Exposition ever held on the Pacific Coast. So far as Oregon is concerned it will be the forerunner of the Exposition at Chicago in 1893. The principal attractions are the magnificent American Band of Providence, R. I. An art collection valued at $350,000, and embracing some of the greatest pictures owned in the United States. Immense Horticultural and Agricultural exhibits, the result of the combined efforts of almost every county in the state. A mineral exhibit exceeding all former years. A Stock Department showing tremendous progress. To these are added a larger number of exhibits than ever before; including a magnificent electrical display under the combined Thomson-Houston and Edison Companies. All manufactures in full operation. Government models of Battle Ships. The wonderful Hall of Mystery. The marvelous "Little World," the product of a mechanical genius; all interspersed by novelties incident to the popular special days. Everything new and nothing dead. Greatly reduced rates on all transportation lines.

Curious Deep Sea Products.

Fishes have been found, it is said, three miles below the surface of the ocean, and when a specialty has been made of deep sea soundings, as in the voyage of H. M. S. Challenger and others, the very greatest ocean depths have been found to be very populous. Plants, on the contrary, do not live in the very deepest waters, and it is supposed, therefore, that the deep sea animals either prey upon each other or get their food from dead organisms and plants which sink to the bottom.

The phosphorescent fishes, those which light up the waves about them so brilliantly, are found as far as a mile below the surface. Most of the fishes found in what are called the "abyssal zones" have only rudimentary eyes. Some have only long feelers, but these enable them to grope their way about at the bottom of the sea. On the other hand, there are several "abyssal" species of fishes which have eyes so large that they are wholly out of proportion to the rest of their bodies. These are supposed to follow their phosphorescent brethren, which act as beacon lights in the maxy depths of old Neptune's trackless wastes.

The light of some of these ocean lampposts, which have been brought to the surface by deep-sea dredgers, are so bright that during the brief space the animal survives it is easy to read by the light, even though the night be one of "Egyptian darkness."—St. Louis Republic.

Hans Gives Money Now.

I have the jolliest German butcher, and he has a heart as big as an ox's. But he cannot for the life of him help keeping an eye on the main chance.

Standing in his shop one day not long ago I saw a Sister of Charity, accompanied by the usual charity girl, come to the door and look mutely in.

Hans said not a word, but putting his hand in the cash drawer he drew out a piece of money and gave it to her. She thanked him and moved away.

"Hullo!" said I, "I thought that you always gave meat to the sisters."

"Oh he, oh haw!" laughed Hans in his jolly way. "So I yoost did so, mein freund, but I done so not no more. It ist sheaper to give money now, ton'd you see! Das meat vas vat you kell high—so."

And the way that Hans winked was enough to give Faith, Hope and Charity three stitches in their sides if they had been present.—New York Herald.

Rubber remained practically unknown save as a curiosity for many years, and it was near the close of the Eighteenth century when Dr. Priestley, in a preface to his work on Perspective, called attention to rubber as "a novelty for erasing pencil marks."

The mistral is a violent northwest wind which blows down the Gulf of Lyons and is felt particularly in Marseilles, France.
