Jargon Of The Pentagon Reviews General's Career

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagonese, a dialect of English, has burst the boundaries of the Pentagon.

Members of Congress may snort at uniformed witnesses who lapse into this strange tongue, with its cadences of an engineering manual, its verbs fabricated out of nouns, its phrases riveted together with plenty of extra words to insure rigidity. But Pentagonese expressions crop up in the speech of the members themselves and are heard at White House news conferences.

Obviously it is only a question of time before Americans who wish to communicate freely with an important segment of their countrymen will have to master the dialect for general use.

How will it sound? For a sample, here is the biography of a (purely mythical) inhabitant of Pentagon, as it might be written in Pentagonese.

"The marriage 13 May 1911 of Ahgus Inbasket and Penelope Scruggs may be considered to the activation of Gen. Marcus T. Inbasket.

"Production was finalized 13 February 1912.

After appropriate lead time, emphasis was shifted to a phased training program, during which a wide spectrum of possible career configurations was evaluated.

"The program was definitized with an appointment to the military academy in August 1929. Growth potential was apparent at an early date and typically confirmed by a standing in the upper 15.72 per cent of the class of 1933.

"Implementation of the Inbasket potential was maximized by the entrance of the United States into World War II, with attendant timewise compression of the officer promotion structure and the initial deployment of Capt. Inbasket into the upper staff echelons.

"It was during the period under consideration also that utilization with Miss Honeysuckle Picketline, daughter of Lt. Gen. Shiloh Picketline, was accomplished.

"Satellization of the new establishment was initially inhibited by problems of distance and logistics. When these were solved by the termination of hostilities, increments were annualized in the following order: Marcus T. Inbasket Jr.; Penelope S. Inbasket; Shiloh P. Inbasket. A domestic facility was established on the suburban perimeter of Washington, D.C., when Brig. Gen. Inbasket was redeployed to the Department of Defense.

"A period of steady transitioning to cognizance of matters of higher administrative responsibility followed. Outstanding accomplishments were a study of systems control of management tools, direction of a task force on paperclip procurement in its relationship to unobligated balances, and the chairing of a study group on continuous refinement of functional criteria for stenographic pools.

"Gen. Inbasket was deactivated yesterday by a random encounter with a civilian-type vehicle in the approaches to the Pentagon north parking lot.

"Funeral plans have not yet been formalized."

Rape Case Views Told

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The veteran prosecutor in the Tallahassee rape case said he never demanded the death penalty in capital cases because he felt this is a matter for the jury to decide.

State Atty. William D. Hopkins made the comment Monday when asked why he hadn't called for the death penalty in the case of four white youths tried for rape of a Negro coed.

An all-white jury convicted the four. They escaped the electric chair when the jury recommended mercy.

"I think the records will show that I have never asked the death penalty in any case I have tried and I believe I have sent as many men to the chair for various crimes as any prosecutor," Hopkins said.

"I feel that is a matter for the jury to determine on the basis of the evidence," he explained.

While Hopkins didn't specifically demand the death penalty he did so by implication and qualified a jury for capital punishment.

Circuit Judge W. May Walker said he planned to sentence the four when motions for new trials have been disposed of. Attorneys for the four have until June 29 to file the motions.

HE TUNED TO TROUBLE

DOERUN, Ga. (AP)—Police Chief C. L. Hall's ear for music helped catch a bank burglar. Hall heard a radio playing in the coat of a young man and asked him where he got it. The youth said he took the radio as security for a $1.50 loan from a friend. The friend admitted to Hall that he had taken the radio from the bank when he was unable to break into the vault.

New Patient-Sewing Device May Be Shown By Russ MDs

CLEVELAND (AP) — Soviet scientists may be going around the United States this year showing off medical equipment which a Cleveland industrialist hopes will find approval here.

H. James Rand, head of Rand Development Corp., called one device "a completely new approach to suturing." Surgeons who now sew patients back together by hand will find the suturing device will do the job much faster—with staples—said Rand.

Rand expects to have the Soviet scientists demonstrate their equipment at U. S. medical schools. If the surgical stapler and another device, a machine which puts a persons to sleep with electricity, pass that test, Rand Development will exercise an option to import the "know-how."

Rand said he paid the Soviets $50,000 last week for a nine-month option, and must pay another $50,000 to exercise the option and bring the designs to this country. After that, Rand Development would pay the Soviets $50,000 a year for 10 years. Rand said his firm, primarily a research organization, would arrange for manufacture, sharing profits on a percentage basis.

The suturing device can be used on blood vessels and nerves as well as on body tissue. One operation in which it is extremely useful, Rand said, is the removal of a large section of stomach where cancer has spread.

The device has been used by Soviet doctors to replace a man's leg amputated in an accident, Rand said. U. S. doctors sent to the U.S.S.R. by Rand came back "with enthusiastic reports" on the device.

The sleep machine would be useful before surgery and also in the treatment of psychoses, "where you want to tranquilize the patient over a long period of time," he declared.

The machine includes physiological sleep by passing low frequency electrical currents through the head. After the patient is asleep, Rand said, local anesthetic would be used before operating.

ENSIGN BRENT L. HEDBERG of Klamath Falls qualified as a carrier pilot May 25 after landing eight times aboard the support carrier Antietam in the Gulf of Mexico. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Hedberg of 1005 Prospect Street. He is undergoing multi-engine flight training.

PAT HARKEY, a candidate for queen of the Tulelake Junior Rodeo and of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo to be held in the Klamath Basin in July, is a junior at Klamath Union High School. The queen will be picked at trials June 21. She is the daughter of a Klamath Falls ranch couple, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Harkey.

SANDRA SPOMER, 14, has filed as a candidate for queen of the Tulelake Junior Rodeo and the National Intercollegiate Rodeo to be held soon in the Klamath Basin. She will be a freshman at Tulelake High School next fall. Her parents are Dr. and Mrs. I. Spomer of Tulelake.
