It will not be the President's fault if this country fails to keep busy in practical forestry.

Mr. Cleveland's latest phrase is "sinuosity of explanation." For every-day purposes "wriggling" will continue to do good service.

Mr. Harriman says he would build the Panama canal if he had the chance. But there is no proof that it could be done by the hydraulic system.

Wall street is learning that its ups, downs and methods are not the basis of prosperity in the United States.

The time is near at hand to plant trees, and there is no operation, at the same cost, that pays a larger dividend.

Time has a great habit of evening things up. Should Mr. Roosevelt happen to land in the senate he will have an opportunity to tackle some of Senator Tillman's pet measures with a loaded stick.

THE GRAFTER'S REMORSE.

A sermon in pictures is the border cartoon of last Sunday's Oregonian. The rule of graft in the United States is nearly over, but it is leaving in its wake a sorrowful procession of derelicts who realize too late that peace of mind, a good name, a happy though humble home, an honorable old age and a death bed free from remorse are worth more than the delirious pleasures purchased with tainted money as the price of treachery in public office "I wish I were back to the bakery wagon," said one of San Francisco's self-confessed boodlers. Elected to serve the people he was subject to temptation by far greater rascals than himself, and became their tool in a gigantic scheme of robbery. It was easy money and it looked good to him. It is an oft told tale, but it never loses its sadness. Here in Oregon we have seen the lust of pleasure and ambition bring to the prison doors and to a dishonored grave men who were leaders in the nations council. Money is not the only form of bribery. The public officer who stands in to grant franchises to or reduce taxes of a corporation in the hope of a reward of any kind is just as surely a grafter as the one who takes his pay in cash and just as truly an enemy of the people he has sworn to serve. San Francisciso is not alone among the coast cities in its shame and disgrace. Graft prevails in Portland and the State Senate was packed with its disciples. Whether they took pay in cash or in printing contracts, or whether they merely trusted to the generous remembrance of the beneficiaries of their treachery is immaterial. They killed nearly every measure of public relief passed by the House, and whether they were fools or knaves, or a combination of both, the result is the same. They betrayed their trust, and belong to the same class as Boss Ruef and his associates in San Francisco. Yet it is true that they are not the chief criminals. They are merely the corrupt tool of the great grafters who, by their duplicity, have secured immunity from taxation or have been confirmed in the possession of their stolen franchises. It is to be hoped that the exposure of their criminality will not be long deferred. There are forces at work in Portland that give promise that the day of reckoning is nigh at hand,

Wasington's new primary law prohibits paid "puffs" in newspapers or periodicals of the state and any editor, manager, reporter or employee of a newspaper or periodical who shall be guilty of "puffing" any candidate for pay may be fined in any sum not less than $25 or more than $500 or imprisoned not less than ten days or more than six months.

"Puffs" plainly tagged "paid advertisements" may appear, however without liability or imprisonment, for which the newspaper men of the Evergreen state ought to feel duly thankful. Just how the state is going to distinguish between a "puff" that's paid for in some mysterious or roundabout way and the good old free kind is not apparent, and unless it can do this the law amounts to about as much as a fool's whoop on a high hill. There is nothing about it that any self respecting publisher will object to, but at the same time any gibbering idiot of a legislator ought to be able to see that no bribe-taking publisher is ever going to be taken in any such net, unless he is a ripe subject for the crazy-house.—Eagle.

Don't forget the city election Monday from 7 to 8 p. m.

Mr. Frank Meeker, having sold his farm near here has, with his mother removed to Newburg where they will make their future home.

SUBSTITUTES FOR HAY

During the year farmers should not overlook the matter of growing those well-known substitutes for hay that mature quickly and yield well, such as oats, fodder corn, millet and even peas. In mentioning oats it is not intended to suggest the sowing of the seed for the purpose of securing a yield of grass, but to cut the crop only when it is in the milky state, or just previous to ripening. Of course some farmers object to what they regard as a method that entails the loss of the grain, but on fertile farms there will generally be a fair crop of hay, while on light soils the farmer must resort to such substitutes as will give the best results. Oats, if cut just before the time of ripening, yield a crop of straw rich in nutritious matter, being tender, keeping green and which will be relished by the cattle and horses. The mode of feeding is to take the bundle of oats (or sheafs) and pass them through a cutter, chopping straw and heads together, the whole being a mass of immature grain and straw. A small quantity of ground grain is added to the cut oats and fed to the stock. The advantage of thus harvesting and preparing oats is that the whole of the straw can be utilized, while the time required for growth is shortened. Even on rich heavy lands this mode of harvesting is a good one where difficulty through the crop lodging is annually encountered.

MIX THIS AT HOME

The following simple home-made mixture is said to readily relieve and overcome any form of Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter from the blood and system all the uric acid and poisonous waste matter, relieving at once such symptoms as backache, weak kidneys and bladder and blood diseases.

Try it, as it doesn't cost much to make and is said to be absolutely harmless to the stomach.

Get the following harmless ingredients from any good pharmacy: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Sypup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bed time.

This simple mixture is said to give prompt relief and there are very few cases of Rheumatism and Kidney troubles it will fail to cure permanently.

These are all harmless, every-day drugs and your druggist should keep them in the perscription department; if not, have him order them from the wholesale drug houses for you, rather than fail to use this, if you are afflicted.

SUMMONS

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Columbia

George W. Weygandt, Plaintiff
Henrietta Weygandt, Defendant

To Henrietta Weygandt, Defendant above named:

In the name of the State of Oregon you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled court and suit, by the 22 day of April 1907, the same being the time prescribed in the order for publication of this summons made in court on March 5, 1907, by the Hon. T. A. McBride, Judge; and if you fail to appear and answer said complaint and summons therein for want thereof plaintiff herein will apply to the above entitled court for the relief demanded therein, in said complaint.

The relief demanded in said complaint is for an order and decree of the above entitled court to dissolve the marriage contract now existing between said plaintiff and defendant herein for the care, custody and control of the minor children named therein, and for such other and further relief as the court may deem meet with equity and justice.

This summons is published by order of the Hon. T. A. McBride, Judge of the above entitled court made and entered therein upon the affidavit filed by plaintiff herein on this 5 day of March 1907.

J. A. STROWBRIDGE
Attorney for Plaintiff.
