MRS. GERALD WOLFF, Chiloquin, will report on her trip to New York during a meeting Dec. 7 of adult Camp Fire Girl volunteers. With her is her daughter, Cherry, who was the county's official delegate to the organization's golden jubilee convention.

Group To Hear Report

Mrs. Gerald Wolff, adviser of Chiloquin Horizon Club, will be featured speaker during the annual meeting for adults working in the Camp Fire Girls organization's Klamath Falls District Dec. 7, beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the club room of the city library.

Mrs. Wolff will report on the trip she and five local girls took to the organization's golden jubilee convention in New York City recently.

The girls were Mrs. Wolff's daughter, Cherry, who was chosen official delegate from the Klamath Area Council; Ramona Soto, Klamath Falls; Barbara Nicholson and Karen Jenkins, Fort Klamath, and Micki Wolff, another of Mrs. Wolff's daughters.

The latter were among nine finalists in a council contest to select a delegate. Selection was made on basis of progress in Camp Fire work.

Other adults who attended the convention were Mrs. Naomi French, council executive, and Mrs. Dolores Holzgang, both of Klamath Falls.

The group traveled by train and spent two weeks touring points of interest across the country. They spent a week in New York, including the several days of the convention.

Miss Wolff was among 10 girls from the nation selected as pollsters during the convention. Their job included sampling opinion during the various panel discussions of problems of youth and citizenship.

During the coming meeting, the assembly will elect members to the District Committee—a group that gives assistance in training and recruiting leaders and in extending the Camp Fire program.

The meeting will begin with a coffee hour, followed by a business meeting and election, then by Mrs. Wolff's report.

Youths Defy Betancourt In Caracas

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Leftist students fought a gunbattle with troops today in defiance of President Romulo Betancourt.

The stubborn challenge to the authority of the moderate Socialist president made the situation increasingly critical for his government.

Firing from high school buildings on Avenue Roosevelt has continued sporadically since Monday night. It is part of widespread rioting in the capital that has killed 6 persons and injured at least 105 in an attempt to touch off a revolution and establish a Castro-style government.

Tough military crackdowns, supported by a suspension of civil guarantees, have snuffed out most of the rioting which began last Friday. However, for a time Tuesday night it spread from the slum districts of western Caracas to the fashionable eastern end.

The main battle was centered at Miguel Caro High School in western Caracas. The school is adjacent to Caracas University, which officials said appeared to be the demonstrators' chief stronghold.

Police have not attempted to enter the university grounds, where Social Christian party students backing Betancourt fought their way into classrooms to break a Communist student strike.

One leftist group attempted to storm the police station nearby but was driven back by tear gas and armored cars of the presidential guard.

Another gang of youths tried to burn a bus in the southern suburb of Chaguaramos, despite orders to the army to shoot such firebrands on sight. The bus was saved by firemen.

Troops took up positions in Puente Trinidad Street, where several newspapers are published. The papers have advocated a tough line in suppressing Communist activities. Betancourt has charged the Communists are behind the rioters.

National Guardsmen earlier occupied the press room of the Communist Tribuna Popular after the paper issued a call for revolution.

During the first five days the rioting did not spread outside of Caracas. However, National Guardsmen were sent to the oil fields—major source of this nation's wealth—to protect against possible sabotage.

The armed forces have pledged their support to Betancourt. They have been behind him since he took over in 1958, a year after a revolution ousted Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez, Venezuelan's military dictator.

Most previous threats to Betancourt have come from rightwing supporters of Perez Jimenez. But recently the cost of living has spiraled and Venezuela's economic difficulties have mounted.

CHAMP LIAR

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. (AP) — Tom Gagnon, a hospital anesthetist, won the Cheboygan deer hunters liars contest with a tale about climbing 30 feet up what he thought was a tree only to discover it was the leg of a deer, which then swallowed him alive.

Gagnon said he cut shavings off the deer's ribs, rubbed two bones together to light a fire and exploded a cartridge in the fire. It struck the deer's heart and killed it.

He said he hid behind the liver while the cartridge exploded.

It took him two weeks to get out of the deer, he said, by cutting through its side and living on the venison.

Liz, Eddie Will Sue Magazines

PARIS (UPI) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor and her husband, Eddie Fisher, announced today they will sue several American magazines for "malicious libel."

The couple issued a statement which identified the magazines only as "motion picture fan magazines." It said articles in the magazines had distorted facts about the movie couple and had involved their children.

Miss Taylor and her husband have been in Paris since last weekend. They plan to fly to Los Angeles Thursday.

Reporters Find JFK Is Walker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shades of former President Harry S. Truman—President-elect John F. Kennedy is a walker, and with a brisk pace that leaves newsmen puffing.

Kennedy has other athletic interests that parallel those of several other presidents.

Like President Eisenhower, he is a golfer and a hunter.

As did President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Kennedy loves to go boating.

In the pattern of President Theodore Roosevelt, he is a horseman and a tennis player—a man with a cannonball serve, says an aide the president-elect defeated the other day.

Beyond all these, Kennedy delights in a game of touch football.

Kennedy's interest in a good brisk walk has been coming to light this week.

Late Monday afternoon he strolled at a rapid pace through Georgetown's picturesque streets from his own home to the residence of Dean Acheson, secretary of state in the Truman administration.

On arrival at Acheson's home, Kennedy jokingly asked panting newsmen whether their blood pressure was up.

Truman used to walk almost every morning, usually with sleepy-eyed reporters and photographers in tow. Today's newsmen have noted that the 43-year-old president-elect doesn't seem to be an early riser, for which they are thankful.

Kennedy also walked three blocks to church last Sunday morning, but his three-year-old daughter was along and that slowed him.

Aides report that Kennedy never has been an avid golfer, but he has played a good bit since the election. One day there was a report he had shot a 37 for nine holes—no duffer's score.

In Texas week before last he went deer hunting for the first time and brought down two bucks. He is an experienced hunter of other game.

The Kennedy family has a sailboat at their Hyannis Port, Mass., summer home and the president-elect has been a boating enthusiast most of his life.

As for his horsemanship, there is no time for riding nowadays. But he did mount a white horse for a few minutes last week during a visit to his mother-in-law's estate at Fairfax, Va.

Then there's touch football — the Kennedy clan's game of games.

Come next year, Eisenhower's golf green on the White House lawn may survive. The tennis court, little used in recent years, is likely to be a busy place.

But the golfers and the tennis players better be prepared to duck. Warm weather or cool, they may get hit by a football.
