Is La Grande to have a celebration this year? If so it is high time that we were up and at it.

Fruit growers are being fined in Idaho for neglecting to spray. They are determined to grow healthy fruit in that state.

Union county will reap no small benefit from the fact that extensive railroad building is now in progress on the Columbia river and into Wallowa county.

About the only way Holy Roller Creffield will ever arise from the grave will be through the assistance of some band of medical students who want to dissect something.—Pendleton Tribune.

An Indiana preacher has sued his wife for divorce because she made faces at him while he preached, causing him to forget what he was saying. If the lady shortened the sermons she should be rewarded by the congregation.—Pendleton Tribune.

Says the Silverton Appeal: In these days of strife between two great political parties we must remember that, after all, we are just a band of brothers here on earth, traveling from the cradle to the grave. We live side by side, our children attend the same school, and after the smoke of the battle clears away we will still be friends and neighbors. Let the bitter things go unsaid. At best, life is short and we get out of it a full measure of sorrow.

Those acquainted with railroad building say it will be impossible for the Utah Construction company, the Oregon Short Line or any other company to undertake the completion of the road down the Snake river from Huntington to Lewiston by December, 1907. The route is a most difficult one and will require money and time. A few years ago Baker capitalists brought a railroad man from the east out here and took him over the route. He turned the proposition down as too expensive.

There is also some doubt expressed as to the sincerity of this move. The fact that the Short Line and O. R. & N. are owned and controlled by the Union Pacific and that the O. R. & N. has just spent $3,000,000 in improving the roadbed between Huntington and Portland and is still spending more money on improvements is taken as an indication that they do not intend to abandon the present line. Also the freight traffic of the present line has not reached that proportion which in any way taxes the capacity of the equipment. The grades over the mountains are heavy but the bulk of business has not yet reached the figure which makes the company carry the business at a loss. And the fact that the Harriman interests also contemplate the building of a line across central Oregon is taken as an indication that they are not seeking a water grade to tide water.

A New York man found his own two-year-old child wandering around the street and took it to the police station, never realizing that the child was his own. Now, if that had happened in Utah the paragraphers would have talked about it for months.—Salt Lake Herald.
