BOUGHT LIQUOR FROM PORTER

MAN TRIED YESTERDAY SWORE TO HIS STORY.

Salesman Paid $200 Fine for Having Liquor and on "Disorderly" Charge.

Arrested in the Foley hotel at an early hour yesterday morning, with a pint flask of liquor in his possession and in company with a woman falsely registered as his wife, J. Corcoran, a traveling salesman, was tried in police court yesterday afternoon on two charges, one of having liquor in his possession and the other of disorderly conduct. He was fined $200 on the two counts, $150 on the first and $50 on the second. He admitted his guilt and paid the fine.

Corcoran testified under oath in court that he had purchased the liquor from the porter on train No. 19, on which he arrived in La Grande that night. The price charged him for the pint was $6.50, which is an advance of $1.50 over the price at which the stuff was being sold a short time ago.

The woman, who came into town with Corcoran, was held as a witness for the trial, but she was released from custody yesterday afternoon also.

That Ben W. Olcott is governor of Oregon in fact is what Attorney General Brown holds in an opinion given to Mr. Olcott Saturday. This means that Mr. Olcott, who became governor at the death of the late Governor Withycombe, will serve through the complete unexpired term of the late governor, or until the legislature meets in January, 1923.

Further, the opinion holds that Governor Olcott has power to resign the office of secretary of state and to appoint another to that office without automatically resigning himself out of the governorship.
