Synopsis of Measures Introduced in the National Legislature.

Senate.

Senator Ingalls introduced the following bills amendatory to the pension laws:

To increase pension for loss of an eye to $30 per month, and for partial loss of sight to a proportionate amount. To increase pension for the loss of one hand or foot, or for total disability of the same, to $35 per month; for the loss of an arm within five inches or above the elbow joint, or loss of a leg within six inches of or above the knee joint, or total disability of the same, to $40 per month; and for the loss of an arm within six inches of the shoulder joint, or a leg within eight inches of the hip joint, to $45 per month.

Also providing that the pension of all persons now on the pension rolls, and all persons hereafter granted pensions by special act of Congress, shall commence from the day of discharge from the service of the United States, provided disability was contracted in line of duty in the service of the United States.

The Senate passed a resolution introduced by Dolph directing the Secretary of War at the earliest possible day to cause an examination of the Willamette at Corvallis to be made, and if impairment of channel is threatened, to submit an estimate of the cost of works necessary to retain the river in the old channel.

The bill to permit the owners of American vessels and cargoes to sue the Government for losses caused by collision with United States vessels, arising from their mismanagement, was advocated by Messrs. Evarts and Spooner, and opposed by Messrs. McMillan, George and Conger. Dolph supported it, but would have been better pleased if its principle had been extended further. The bill was passed, the vote on ordering it to a third reading being 24 to 17.

The Senate took up and passed without discussion, and division, the bill for the retirement and recoinage of the trade dollar.

House.

Mr. Hermann introduced the following bills:

Providing compensation to volunteer observers in the signal service, and granting them the necessary instruments.

A bill providing for private cash entry sale of public lands in Oregon and Washington, made fractional in form quantities than forty acres by meandering lines of navigable waters or rivers, by reservation and by surveys locating lands for settlement under the donation laws.

A bill to pay $2,100 to Daniel P. Barnes, of Klamath county, for property taken by the Snake Indians.

A bill to pension Jasper N. Hall, of Jackson county.

By White—For the free coinage of silver.

By Grout—To enable people to name their own postmasters.

By Cox—Fixing the salary of the civil service commissioners at $5,000.

By Springer—For the admission into the Union of Dakota, Montana, Washington territory and New Mexico.

By Throckmorton—Providing for the leasing of unoccupied Indian lands.

By Oates—To prohibit the appointment of congressional committees to attend funerals, and to prohibit the draping of public buildings in mourning except by order of the President.

Also passed the Senate bill for the allotment of land in severalty to Indians.

The bill provides that in all cases where any tribe of Indians is located on a reservation created for its use, either by stipulation or by virtue of an act of Congress or executive order, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized, whenever, in his opinion, any civilization of such Indians is advanced enough for agricultural and grazing purposes, to cause said reservation to be surveyed or resurveyed, if necessary, and to allot lands in said reservation in severalty to Indians located thereon, on their application, in quantities as follows: To each head of family, one-quarter of a section; to each single person over 18 years of age, one-eighth of a section; to each orphan under 18 years of age, one-eighth of a section; to each other person under 18 years, one-sixteenth of a section. Provided, that in case there is not sufficient land in any of said reservations to allot lands to each Indian of the classes above named in quantities as above provided, lands may be allotted in such reservation or reservations shall be alloted to each individual of each of said classes pro rata.

In accordance with the provisions of the act the rights and privileges of citizenship are conferred upon every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States to whom allotment has been made, and upon every Indian who has voluntarily taken up his residence and adopted the habits of civilized life.

The provisions of the bill do not extend to the territory occupied by the Cherokees, Creeks, Choctaws, Chickasaws, Seminoles and Osages, the Miamis and Peorias, and the Sacs and Foxes in the Indian territory, nor to any of the reservations of the Seneca Nation of New York, nor to that strip of territory in the State of Nebraska adjoining the Sioux nation on the north, nor does the bill authorize the allotment of any reservation until the assent of a majority of the male Indians over 21 years of age shall be first obtained.

A LIBERAL RAILROAD.

We can recommend most highly the liberality of the Northern Pacific Railroad for their action in making a sweeping reduction in their passenger rates in Montana, Washington and Idaho. This company have placed themselves on record, as the first railroad whose interests are identical with those of the Pacific Northwest that has voluntarily reduced its rates to a uniform basis.

The management, consider that, in the interests of the people along the line, and in view of the increased earnings and local travel, they can consistently reduce their local rates to a uniform basis of 5 cents per mile. These rates are applicable upon the main line and all its branches throughout Montana, Washington and Idaho, and go into effect January 1st. This reduction is equal to 30 per cent. lower rates in Montana and Idaho, and 20 per cent. in Washington.

The traveling public contingent to the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad have every reason to feel well disposed towards such a liberal management.

WOMAN'S HOBBIES.

A Lady's Irrepressible Mania for Baking Ginger Cakes.

Women sometimes have very queer hobbies. One of the most influential members of an up-town church is a lady distinguished for her piety and good works, who can not for the life of her keep from patting her hands together every time she hears music. She occasionally scandalizes the religious folk who occupy pews near her own by starting up this patting when the church organ rolls out the voluntary. Often she pats so loud that the noise can be heard all up and down the aisle, and the usher gets wild with anxiety lest some one will come to him and complain about it. The husband of the lady has remonstrated with her about the habit, and she has promised time after time never to do it again. She has tried wearing thick, soft gloves and keeping her hands in her muff, but it is of no avail, for when she can't pat her hand she makes twice as much racket with her feet, and her husband has concluded that he prefers the lesser evil of the two. No one has yet been able to cure her of her hobby. While patting her hands she sits with a smile on her face, as one rapt. I can remember, now, six other women afflicted with hobbies. One of them is baking ginger cakes. This remarkable woman is positively unhappy unless she is in the kitchen. She makes, on an average, one thousand ginger cakes a week during the winter months, and gives them away to her friends. She regularly presents a large panful of them to the mite society of the church to be distributed around among the needy of the parish. They are good cakes, too, I can assure you. She has been known to cook all night, and there hasn't been a festival during the last ten years at which her ginger cakes have not been on the bill of fare. When she goes to visit her friends her first question is: "Are those ginger cakes all gone?" If they are, and they usually are, she takes off her shawl and walks down to the kitchen in a business-like manner and proceeds to cook a panful of cakes, just as unconcernedly as though she was in her own house. Once in a while—pretty often, I should say—her husband goes home for his dinner as hungry as a lord and finds his better half up in the next square baking cakes for Mrs. K. or Mrs. C., with no meal cooked nor any table set. The husband has no resort but to go down town and buy his meal at a restaurant. She goes out for a morning call and stays all day, having cooked cakes at three residences while away.—Baltimore Herald.

PITH AND POINT.

—Hammered silver is all the rage nowadays. If we can't compel the servant to be careful we can at least alter the fashion and bid her do her worst.—Boston Post.

—"Ah! you flatter me," lisped a dude to a pretty girl with whom he was conversing, "No. I don't," was the reply. "You couldn't be any flatter than you are."—Burlington Free Press.

—A grease spot can be taken out of a carpet by applying warm buckwheat batter, and the batter can be taken out by cutting a hole in the carpet where the batter was applied.

—A Boston girl, who saw a fellow with delirium tremens, exclaimed: "Unhappy man! Why do you permit yourself to get 'James-Jams?'" The shock restored the sufferer to his right mind.—N. Y. Journal.

—"Yes," said the Scissors to the Paste Pot, "first there was the Golden Age, then came the Silver Age and the Brazen Age, and now comes the Mucil Age," whereat the Paste Pot went into convulsions.—Boston Globe.

—"Have you heard Miss Simpson sing since she returned from Europe?" "Several times." "Do you think she has improved?" "Very much." "In what particular?" "She doesn't sing as much as she used to."—N. Y. Graphic.

—A critic dropped into a studio in Paris one day, stopped before the portrait of a lady on the easel, and remarked: "But why did you take such an ugly model?" "It is my mother," calmly replied artist. "Oh! pardon a thousand times," said the critic, in great confusion. "You are right. I ought to have perceived it. It resembles you completely."

The editor of the Corsicana, Tex., Observer, Mr. G. P. Miller, had a severe attack of rheumatism in his left knee, which became so swollen and painful that he could not walk up the stairs. He writes that after a few applications of St. Jacobs Oil, the pain entirely disappeared, and the knee assumed its normal proportions.

The tallest boy in Lancaster, Pa., is George Kersey, son of Dr. Kersey. He is thirteen years old and seven feet high. He is still growing.

Summe coughs and colds generally come to tay, but the use of Red Star Cough Cure invariably drives them away. Safe, prompt, sure.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—As an ambiguous statement is neither here nor there, where is it?—Detroit Free Press.

—A runaway horse in Pittsburgh tried to cross the Pennsylvania railroad bridge and fell between the cross ties in the middle of the track. He was raised with a derrick and carried off on a hand car.

—It seems that there are artists who teach French dressmakers certain little tricks, and that it is not all inborn grace which teaches them how to knot a ribbon. One dressmaker told an American correspondent that she paid an artist twelve dollars to learn how to make a certain bow.—N. Y. Mail.

—A disciple of Blackstone at Albany, Ga., was met carrying home a 'possum. He was asked: "Hello, J., what is that?" "'Possum!" "What are you going to do with him?" "I'm going to have a big possum supper." "How many will be there?" "Two: me and the 'possum!"

—The Rural New Yorker says the suspicions of even a very wise old rodent may be allayed by covering the steel trap set to catch him with a white cloth on which a few cake or cheese crumbs have been scattered. The rat ventures on the cloth for the coveted luxury, and the thin goods do not in the least prevent the springing of the trap beneath it.

—After a somewhat checkered career, the Great Eastern seems at last to have a fair chance of a green and useful old age. Her career at Liverpool as a floating temple of amusements has proven so successful that she is to become a peripatetic variety show and will be taken about the British coast, and finally to the Australian colonies.—N. Y. Herald.

—John Whitfield, his wife and another woman lived in an old shanty-boat near Pittsburgh, Pa. Some days ago Whitfield sent his wife down town to collect an alleged debt, and in her absence he and the female took the train for Wheeling. Mrs. Whitfield was broken-hearted at first when she found that her faithless lord had flown. The neighbors comforted her, however, and last evening she said: "Well, I've supported John by sewing for ten years, and I guess I'll give the other woman a show now."—Pittsburgh Post.

—The demands of fashion has brought a new profession into prominence. It is called "truquage," and the professor of the art devotes much skill and ingenuity in making new things, especially furniture, look battered, worm-eaten and old enough to satisfy the prevailing taste for the antique. The new articles are modeled after sixteenth-century patterns, and then beaten with bludgeons, stained with acids and otherwise maltreated until they assume the proper time-worn and ancient appearance.—Boston Budget.

—A correspondent of the Mining and Scientific Press calls attention to the unusually high fineness or value of the gold found in two of the mines of Tuolumne County, Cal.—higher than that of any other gold quartz mine in any country, it is claimed. The fineness of the gold from one of these mines is stated to be .983, or $20.32 per ounce, and that from the other is .950½, or $19.64 per ounce. When it is considered that the value of chemically pure gold, one thousand fine, is $20.6718 per ounce, the close approach to absolute purity of the gold found in these mines is remarkable.

—An ingenious little instrument called the "hyalolyphotype," or (more sensibly) hot pen, has been invented, by means of which drawings can be made on glass or glassy substances with a waxy composition, which is solid and somewhat hard at ordinary temperatures. The pen can be heated by gas or electricity, and when heated the waxy material flows easily from it, setting so quickly on the glass that cross-patching can be done more rapidly than with ordinary pen and ink, without risk of blocking up the angles. Corrections can be made with a penknife. After the drawing has been made the plate is etched by fluoric acid, and when complete it can be electrotyped, stereotyped, used directly, or applied to any purpose for which engraved surfaces are required.—N. Y. Tribune.

DEATH-BED VISIONS.

One of the Most Pleasing Fancies Swept Away by Science.

It is better to know the truth. Dr. T. D. Spencer has observed in reference to the phenomena of death, than to cherish a belief, however pleasing it be, founded on error. The traditions and superstitions of the past have led to a popular belief in the theory that the beatific visions which often come to the dying are momentary views of those mysteries hitherto unknown; but science, with its iconoclastic hand, has swept away the pleasing fancy, and in its place has constructed a fabric founded on analogy. Anæsthetics and asphyxia from drowning or charcoal fumes often produce disordered fancies exactly like those preceding death, and the natural inference is that they result in both cases from one and the same cause. "During the last moments of life the mind gradually loses cognizance of external surroundings and is rapt in self-contemplation. Though still in a semi-conscious condition, the weeping of friends and the voices of attendants fall upon dull ears. The eye-lids are closed, the pupils slightly contracted and rolled upward and inward. The dying man has forgotten the present, for he is living in the past. One by one the events of a whole life appear, its joys and sorrows perchance long since forgotten, rise before him in startling distinctness, and then disaapear in the swiftly moving panorama. The familiar faces of the friends of his youth are thrown upon the mental retina, their cheery voices reverberate in his ears, and the thought of meeting these friends in the near future is perhaps his last conscious impression. As this drowsiness creeps over the system, these images, molded from the past, become as realities to the disordered imagination. The germs from which originate these strange combinations have probably been lying dormant for years in the registering ganglia of the brain."—Arkansas Traveler.

A KENTUCKY OPINION.

Mr. A. P. Baker writes from Friendship, Ky.: "I was so low down when I commenced, I was not able to use it regularly. I believe it would have cured me if I could have had a fair chance. It has done me good. The neighbors notice the improvement; some of them say 'I look so much better,' and others say, 'I never expected you to look as well as you do.' I have been sick so long. It has cured my wife. She is fifty odd years old, and her general health is better than it has been since she was grown. If she could see everybody that is afflicted she would recommend your Home Treatment. She thinks it will cure all diseases."

Letters from patients in nearly every State and Territory appear in the January Health and Life, which, with the brochure of nearly 100 pages, can be had free, by any applicant for it, by mail or in person, from Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 15.9 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The production of gold in the world during the year 1885 was $101,480,000, and silver nearly $135,000,000. The United States ranks first as a precious metal producing country.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.

The edition for 1887 of the sterling Medical Annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealer in all parts of the United States, Mexico, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for over one-fifth of a century. It combines, with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoraiton of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1887 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

A steamship collision off the Queensland coast resulted in the drowning of forty-two persons.

THE POOR LITTLE ONES.

We often see children with red eruptions on face and hands, rough, scaly skin, and often sores on the head. These things indicate a depraved condition of the blood. In the growing period, children have need of pure blood by which to build up strong and healthy bodies. If Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is given, the blood is purged of its bad elements, and the child's development will be healthy, and as it should be. Scrofulous affections, rickets, fever sores, hip-joint disease or other grave maladies and suffering are sure to result from neglect and lack of proper attention to such cases.

A CASE NOT BEYOND HELP.

Dr. M. H. Hinsdal, Kewanee, Ill., advises us of a remarkable cure of Consumption. He says: "A neighbor's wife was attacked with violent lung disease, and pronounced beyond help from Quick Consumption. As a last resort the family was persuaded to try DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. To the astonishment of all, by the time she had used one-half dozen bottles she was about the house doing her own work. I saw her at her worst, and had no idea she could recover."

THE PRESIDENT OF THE NEW YORK STATE SENATE.

For expediting legislative business, Edmund L. Pitts, the President of the New York State Senate, stands almost without a peer. Such a place as he holds is a most trying one and requires great powers of endurance. One of Mr. Pitts' ablest supporters will be seen in his letter given below:

STATE OF NEW YORK, SENATE CHAMBER, ALBANY, March 11, 1886.

I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters in my family for the past five years, and can truthfully say they are a valuable remedy and effect great cures. I would not be without them. I have in several instances given some to friends suffering with weak and lame backs, and they have invariably afforded certain and speedy relief. They cannot be too highly commended.
