THE BEST OF ALL SCHOOLS.—The fireside is a seminary of infinite importance. It is important because it is universal, and because the education it bestows, gives form and color to the whole texture of life. There are few who can receive the honors of a college, but all are graduates of the hearth. The learning of the university may fade from the recollection, its classic lore may moulder in the halls of memory, but the simple lessons of home, enameled upon the heart of childhood, defy the rust of years, and outlive the more mature but less vivid picture of after years. So deep so lasting, indeed, are the impressions of early life, that you often see a man in the imbecility of age, holding fresh in his recollection the events of childhood, while all the wide space between that and the present hour is a blasted and forgotten waste. You have, perchance, seen an old obliterated potrait, and, in the attemps to have it cleaned and restored, you may have seen it fade away, while a brighter and more perfect picture, painted beneath, is revealed to view. This portrait, first drawn upon canvas, is no faint illustration of youth; and though it may be concealed by some after design, still the original traits will shine through the outward picture, giving it tone while fresh, and surviving it decay Such is the fireside—the great institution of Providence for the education of man.

MOMENTUM.—When two locomotives, having equal speed on a railroad track, meet from opposite directions, the shock actually destroys the momentum, of both, and, therefore, makes a dead halt. The force of the shock produced by the two bodies, say the philosophers, will be equal to the shock which either, being at rest, would sustain if struck by the other moving with double the velocity. Action and reaction being equal, both bodies will be as much moved by reaction as by action.

Should two railroad trains, running towards each other at the rate of 20 miles an hour, collide, the shock would be precisely the same as though one had been at a rest and been struck by a train moving 40 miles an hour. Were two steamboats to run directly together, head on—one going 12 and the other 15 miles an hour—the conclusion or shock each would suffer would be as though struck by the other at a speed of 25 miles an hour. Without stopping to philosophize upon the cause, boxers and pugilists know, by dear-bought experience, that the worst blows they receive in their combats are when a fist strikes a fist, because the force suffered by both parties is equal to the sum of the forces exerted by their arm. The adroit fighters, therefore, always avoid encounters of that kind, if possible.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.—Wood ashes, wet with water, will stop the crack of a stove, and prevent the smoke from escaping

Stir Poland starch with a common candle, and it will not stick to the iron, and it will be much nicer.

Alum or vinegar is good to set colors red, green or yellow.

Frozen potatoes make more starch than fresh ones; they also make nice cake.

A hot shovel held over varnished furniture will take out white spots.

A bit of glue dissolved in skim milk and water will restore crape.

Ribbons of any kind should be washed in cold soap suds, and not rinsed.

If your flat irons are rough, rub them with fine salt and it will make them smooth.

If you are buying a carpet for durability choose small figures.

Half a cranberry on a corn will soon kill it.

MUGGINS POKER.—Here is our "devil's" description of "Muggins poker" says the Boise Statesman: 'Four or five girls and four or five boys all git round a table, and one of 'em deals the cards; each feller puts his "hand" face down; then one man turns a card over and looks at it, then another man turns a card over and looks at it, and another man turns a card over and looks at it, and so on until all the boys and girls are turned over and looked at. Then somebody says something, and all the girls jump up, clap their hands, point their fingers at you and sing out, 'Muggins! muggins! muggins!' Now if there's any fun in all that, blow me if I can see it, that's all.

Jones was traveling with his wife, and was so gallant in his behavior to his carasposa that madame became uneasy and, remonstrated against his attentions as too marked for public observation. "The deuce," said Jones, "we're married, I suppose?" "Yes," said the lady, "but judging by your deportment, folks will think we are not!" "Well, what of it?" "Why, not much to you!" said the careful dame. "You are a man, but we women have our characters to take care of."

New Cabinet Editions of the Works of Washington Irving.

In announcing several new editions, in a style of improved elegance and convenience, of the Works of Washington Irving, the publisher would take the opportunity of acknowledging the good reception which his efforts in the presentation of these favorite writings have heretofore received. In the several forms in which the various productions of the author of the "Sketch-Book" have been given to the public, it is estimated that the sale has reached no less than fifty thousand of the series, or more than a million volumes. Nor is the demand yet abated. On the contrary, new exertions of enterprise are required to meet the desires of a new generation of readers, and keep pace with the progress of taste and refinement in the typographic and other mechanic arts of the publisher's calling.

The motive of this perennial popularity is not far to seek. It is to be read on every page of the delightful volumes in which "Geoffrey Crayon" infused the happy inspiration of his genius in his devotion to themes which will always be regarded by successive generations of readers with no ordinary emotions of interest. The charm of the felicitous style of Washington Irving, the reflection of the amiable poetic spirit of the truly refined gentleman, would be felt on any topic on which the author had been pleased to bestow it. But it is for the ever-enduring fame of Irving that he chose for the exercise of his pen, topics of undying value and importance. In his inviting Essays on human life and character in portraying manners, as in the "Sketch-Book," "Bracebridge Hall," and other volumes, he has touched, with mingled sentiment and humor, those emotions which are implanted in the hearts of all; while his topics of biography, of history and romance, are of such world-wide celebrity and passionate interest as the story of Columbus and his followers, with their discoveries of the New World; the life of the founder of the nation, George Washington, drawing with it the narrative of the Civil and Military events of America during his remarkable career; the marvelous record of Mahomet, with the illustrations of the genius of his race in the romantic fact and legend of "The Tales of the Alhombra" and the "Conquest of Granada;" the felicity with which the author has linked his name with the birthplace of Shakespeare, the genius of Oliver Goldsmith, the fame of Scott and Byron, and, not least, the humorous invention which, in Knickerbocker's irresistible Chronicle of New York, has imputed a mythic interest to the bare early annals of his native city. It is thus that the writings of Washington Irving may be claimed to be imperishable, till, what is not likely soon to happen, the same ever-welcome themes are treated in some happier manner. The charm of Irving is his acceptability to all, —a grace and refinement to please the most fastidious; and his peculiar merit is readily appreciated by every reader; his good sense and humor, the air of enjoyment pervading his pages, has secured his works a home in both hemispheres, wherever the English language is understood. Of the few indispensable authors in every American library, Washington Irving is certainly among the foremost. The delight of childhood, the chivalric companion of refined womanhood, the solace of life at every period, his writings are an imperishable legacy of grace and beauty to his countrymen.

The new publications of these works will be in several forms of unusual elegance, and all, in proportion to a moderate price for each, combining good taste with economy. The series will be issued in the following order punctually on the first day of each month until completed, beginning with October: Bracebridge Hall; Astoria; Wolfert's Roost; Bonneville; Sketch-Book; Mahomet, 2 vols; Traveler; Granada; Knickerbocker; Salmagundi; Crayon Miscellany; Spanish Papers; Goldsmith; Miscellanies; Alhambra; Washington, 5 vols; Columbus, 3 vols; Life and Letters, 4 vols.

THREE EDITIONS WILL BE ISSUED, NAMELY:

1. The Knickerbocker (large paper) Edition—on superfine laid paper, full size, 12mo. with illustrations. Elegantly printed and bound in extra crape cloth, gilt top. Price to subscribers for the whole set, $2.25 per vol. Half calf extra, $3.75. This edition will be sold only to subscribers for the whole set. It will be the best edition for libraries and for the centre table.

2. The Riverside Edition—on fine white paper, in 16mo. The whole set will be newly stereotyped in the same elegant manner as in the volumes already issued. These will be re-issued and continued in monthly volumes until completed. Green crape cloth, gilt top, beveled edges, $1.75 per vol.

3. The People's Edition—from the same stereotypes as the above, but printed on cheaper paper and neatly bound in cloth. Price, $1.25 per vol. In this edition these favorite works are now presented in a readable and attractive shape and at a very moderate price.

The Sunnyside Edition is now published complete, in 28 vols., 12mo, cloth. Price, $2.50 per vol., or in half calf, $4.00 per vol.

N. B.—The attention of the trade is specially invited to these several editions. Enterprising Booksellers can readily take orders for whole sets, to be delivered in monthly volumes.

TO MANUFACTURERS.—We have for many years studied the art of advertiseing, and it still remains to us a marvel that there is not one hundred times more of it. Forney's Press says: We never yet knew a man to advertise his wares liberally and steadily, that it did not pay. Yet there are thousands of manufacturers through this State, and tens of thousands of men having articles which they declare ought to be "in every household in the country," who advertise as gingerly and closely as though they had at heart no faith in it at all. How can they expect to get their goods everywhere, unless some knowledge of the articles gets into the family first, through the family paper? If we waited till people learned from their neighbors, we might wait for years before the most wonderful and useful inventions became known. On this subject, we have the following from an exchange:

"Why don't you deal with me?" said a close-fisted tradesman to a friend the other day. The reply was characteristic: "You have never invited me, sir. I have looked all through the paper for an invitation in the shape of an advertisement, and found none; I never go where I am not invited."

There is a moral to this. If you are wise—advertise.

ADVERTISING AND ITS COST.

A successful and intelligent business man thus writes the result of his observations and experience:

Few business men advertise systematically, liberally and persistently. Those who pay most attention to it, either advertise fitfully or with a degree of neglect which they would regard culpable in any other department of their business. What would a merchant be thought of who only opened his store now and then, to invite and secure customers? Yet an advertisement in a flourishing paper is more conspicuous than one's store, is more observed, and more spoken of, and to withdraw it is like putting up the shutters or taking down the sign. The most enterprising merchants and traders in the interior think themselves liberal if they spend a few hundred dollars a year for advertising. They would deem the farmer blind to his own interest who should be stingy in planting, and should fail to put in seed in proper quantity, because it cost something. Advertising is the seed-planting of the business men, and stinginess here must make the harvest meagre.

What shall be the sum appropriated to advertising? It will vary with the character and extent of the business. But the smallest trade can be made more profitable by liberal advertising. The rule is sometimes given that as much should be paid for advertising as for rent. This may be too much in some cases, too little in others. But every business ought to be kept constantly and prominently before the readers of the established papers of the parish from which trade is sought. The readers of newspapers are the most enterprising and intelligent of the population, and usually have the most money to spend. Reach them, and keep their attention, and you will create a current which others will follow.

The New York Tribune states that it is true, as reported, that a Boston druggist, who has a specialty before the public, is paying that establishment ten thousand dollars a year for advertising; he paid one thousand five hundred dollars for the insertion of one mammoth advertisement. The Tribune adds:

"Bonner once paid us three thousand dollars for one insertion of an advertisement of the Ledger. He knew that by judicious advertising he could insure a fortune."

This seems large, but in England such sums are hardly exceptional. There advertising is a regular part of business. It is reckoned as necessary as rent and often ten times as much is spent for it. Advertising must be done so as to reach the people whose custom is sought. A separate sheet, a hand-bill or a circular, is a direct attack; and the person who receives it either throws it aside without reading, or he puts himself on the defensive against it. A notice in the favorite paper is a flank movement; it catches the eye unawares; it attracts attention at an idle or a listless moment; it becomes part of the current news. Then it is like the constant dropping. It may not be read to-day. To-morrow it will be glanced at. The next week it will be looked over. Finally it will be read. When a purchase is to be made; when trade is to be transferred from the former dealer; when a new article is needed, the notice will be hunted up and the inducements offered subjected to test. One such case often will pay for one year's advertising.

Sometimes men get along without advertising. Instances are given of pilgrims reaching Mecca on their knees. It is easier, pleasanter, swifter to go by steam. Liberal and discreet advertising puts business on wheels, and renders it active, beneficent to the public, and remunerative to the dealer.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PROOFS OF THE SUPERIOR QUALITY OF THE AMERICAN WATCH
MADE AT WALTHAM, MASS.

The American Watch Company, of Waltham, Mass., respectfully submit that their Watches are cheaper, more accurate, less complex, more durable, better adapted for general use, and more easily kept in order and repaired than any watches in the market. They are simpler in structure, and therefore stronger, and less likely to be injured than the majority of foreign watches, which are composed of from 125 to 300 pieces, while in an old English watch there are more than 700 parts. How they run under the hardest trial watches can have, is shown by the following letter:

PENN. RAILROAD COMPANY.
OFFICE OF THE GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT, ALTOONA, Pa., 15th Dec., 1866.

Gentlemen: The watches manufactured by you have been in use on this railroad for several years by our enginemen, to whom we furnish watches as part of our equipment. There are now some three hundred of them carried on our line, and we consider them good and reliable time keepers. Indeed, I have great satisfaction in saying your watches give us less trouble, and have worn and do wear much longer without repairs than any watches we have ever had in use on this road. As you are aware, we formerly trusted to those of English manufacture, of acknowledged good reputation; but as a class they never kept time as correctly, nor have they done as good service, as yours.

In these statements I am sustained by my predecessor, Mr. Lewis, whose experience extended over a series of years.

Respectfully,
EDWARD H. WILLIAMS,
General Superintendent.
American Watch Co., Waltham.

We make now five different grades of watches, named respectively as follows:

Appleton, Tracey & Co.,	Waltham, Mass.
Waltham Watch Co.,	Waltham, Mass.
P. S. Bartlett,	Waltham, Mass.
Wm. Ellery,	Boston, Mass.
Home Watch Co.,	Boston, Mass.

All of these, with the exception of the Home Watch Company, are warranted by the American Watch Company to be of the best material, on the most approved principle, and to possess every requisite for a reliable time-keeper. Every dealer selling these Watches is provided with the Company's printed card of guarantee, which should accompany each Watch sold, so that buyers may feel sure that they are purchasing the genuine article. There are numerous counterfeits and imitations of our Wathes sold throughout the country, and we would caution purchasers to be on their guard against imposition.

Any grades of Waltham Watches may be purchased of Watch Dealers throughout the country. 1:2m

A CARD
FOR THE FALL AND WINTER
CLOTHING TRADE
Of San Francisco.
BADGER & LINDENBERGER,
Nos. 411, 413 and 415 Battery street,
Cor. Merchant, San Francisco,
IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS
ENTIRE NEW AND FRESH STOCK!

WE WOULD CALL ATTENTION of Country Merchants to our usually large stock of Goods. Our stock comprises every article in the Clothing and Furnishing line. We have constantly on hand the largest and greatest variety of Cassimeres and Wool Hats, of any house in San Francisco, and our prices for these goods are less than those of any house, as we receive them direct from the manufacturer's consignment. Our stock of FALL AND WINTER Goods is particularly attractive, and the great feature to the country merchant is the unusually low prices.
Less than the Cost of Importation!
We also keep the staple articles in the Dry Goods line, which Goods we have purchased in this market under the hammer, and are offering them at New York cost, or less.
We publish this card in order that we may make new acquaintances, and induce these who have not heretofore purchased of us, to call and examine our stock.
Good Articles and Low Prices!
Are the greatest inducements to all who purchase to sell again. Merchants who buy of us can make a good profit, and sell to their customers at a low figure.
We remain, Respectfully your Ob't Serv'ts,
BADGER & LINDENBERGER,
Wholesale Clothing and Hat Warehouse,
Nos 411, 413 and 415 Battery street.
